CREW ON MILWAUKEE IS RESCUED

SENSATIONS EXPECTED IN LEAK PROBE

By Associated Press.

Washington, Jan. 13.—Members of the house rules committee armed with the broadest authority to compel witnesses, particularly Thomas W. Lawson, to answer questions will resume Monday their investigation of rumors that advance information reached Wall street on President Wilson's peace note.

Determined to get to the bottom of the situation before reporting to the house on the Wood resolution for a sweeping congressional inquiry into "leak" stories, the committe has subpoenaed all persons and papers that it considers might shed light on the rumors. Besides Lawson, Bernard Baruch of New York and several other New York and Chicago brokers have been called to testify Monday. All the telegrams sent from Washington on December 20, the day stock market speculators are reported to have profited by advance information, also have been asked for.

INTEREST HIGH AT RECALLING LAWSON.

Interest in the recalling of Lawson to the stand overshadowed among members of congress tonight all other developments in connection with reopening the hearing. Under a resolution adopted by the house today the committee is empowered to compel him to answer any question. The resolution was drawn at an executive session of the committee which endeavored to make it broad enough to cover every possible avenue of escape from contempt charges for any witness and the house in adopting the proposal as soon as it was presented, displayed a willingness to go as far as possible in strengthening the committee's hand.

Lawson will be interrogated from a set of written questions now being prepared. He will be asked among other things to name the congressman who told him a story about a cabinet official, a banker and a senator being involved in a profit-making conspiracy in connection with the leak and also to name the trio themselves. If the Boston financier fails to answer the plan is to cite him for contempt and give him an opportunity to make answer before the bar of the house. Then if he stands by his refusal he will be turned over to the sergeant at arms and the house may order him held until he decides to answer or it may refer the case to the courts.

MAY NEVER PUNISH BOSTON FINANCIER.

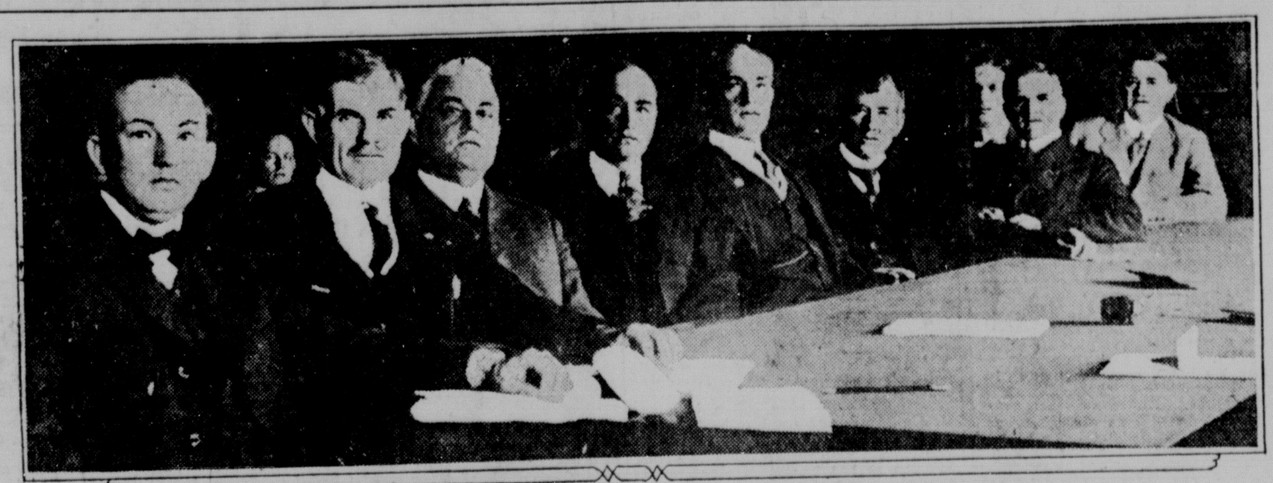

Officials expect the contempt proceedings will be necessary for they do not believe Lawson will answer the committee's questions. If the case is handled solely by the house, however, and no direct appeal taken to the courts many officials think it doubtful if he ever is punished. The authority of the present congress to punish recalcitrant witnesses expires March 4.

Baruch will be asked to show his books which were not produced when he appeared before. F. W. McKinnon, a Chicago broker, will be asked if his firm sent advance notice of the coming of the peace note to one of its branch offices.

Members of the brokerage firm of Lockwood & Co. of New York, will be questioned generally about "leak" rumors and James R. Reilly of the Dow, Jones company ticker service and the Wall Stret Journal will be recalled for further particulars regarding a forewarning on the note.

Donald McDonald of Boston will be asked about a convention he is said to have had with Lawson and E. R. Sartwell of the International News Service, will be asked about the authorship of a news item sent out from Washington before the inquiry opened saying that a "high official" might be involved.

HOUSE RULES COMMITTEE INVESTIGATING PEACE NOTE "LEAK"

GERMANY'S TERMS OF PEACE AWAITED BY UNITED STATES

PRESIDENT MAY DELAY ANSWER TO ALLIES UNTIL HE HEARS FROM TEUTONS, AND AGAIN HE MAY OPEN NEGOTIATIONS.

By Associated Press.

Washington, Jan. 13.—A statement of terms from Germany and her allies at least as comprehensive as those set forth by the entente in replying to President Wilson's note is the next move hoped for here in the peace negotiations.

Whether time will be allowed for the Teutonic nations to state their terms on their own initiative, or whether President Wilson will make some move to give an opening remains undetermined. There are indications, however, that if no statement of the Teutonic terms is forthcoming within a reasonable time, the United States may seek a means to indicate the desirability of such a course. It was reiterated today that the president had not determined on his position and it was pointed out that in his note he said he was indifferent to the means employed for comparing terms. He is reluctant to judge between the two replies and has not made known his impressions of the entente note. In other administration quarters it has been suggested, however, that the objects which the president had in mind could be best promoted now by the central powers publicly declaring their terms.

Officials are watching particularly just now the trend of public sentiment abroad and the apparent change since the dispatch of the president's note has proved a source of increasing gratification. The first feeling of indignation among the allies because of the coincidence of the president's proposal with that of the central powers has abated, it is believed here, and is being replaced by a conviction that good may come from the American note.

There is no indication in official circles, however, that an early peace is thought probable. On the contrary, the statement of the allies' objects, it is recognized, has made acceptance by Germany very difficult for the present, however far it may have gone toward establishing a preliminary base which may facilitate peace negotiations when the end of hostilities does come. The administration is acting on the assumption that the bitternesses engendered by the war cannot be healed in a moment, but that every step toward that end brings a final rapprochement nearer.

First expressions of bitterness in Germany over the entente reply are somewhat discounted here and it is felt that there may be a change of sentiment just as there was in the entente countries in regard to the president's note. It is conceded, however, that for the present popular desire for a prosecution of the war will be quickened.

Special Surgical Corps Organized.

By Associated Press.

Paris, Jan. 13.—An army surgical corps which can be sent as a separate unit wherever there is special need of its services has been organized. The corps is composed of a surgeon, an assistant surgeon, an anaethetist and two male or female nurses. A consulting surgeon of repute also has been assigned to each army corps.

BANKS OF U. S. WILL BE PUT ON SOUND BASIS

By Associated Press.

Washington, Jan. 13.—Amendments to the federal reserve act designed to place the United States on a thoroughly sound basis of financial preparedness for whatever the future may bring during the continuance of the war and after its termination have been put into definite form by the federal reserve board and soon will be introduced into congress.

The chief unforeseen financial problems, which the country has faced since the war started have resulted, board officials believe, from the huge gold importations which have tended to unset former economic and financial conditions and the recommendations for new legislation are aimed principally at controlling loan extensions based on these gold accretions.

"Amendment of the act," said a statement issued by the board today, "seems necessary to enable us to deal effectively with the new international problems, which seem destined to play so important a part in our domestic life. The banking system of the United States should be prepared to meet effectively two conditions of opposite character—one the excessive and uncontrolled inflow of gold, the other the excessive and unregulated outflow of gold.

WOULD LIMIT GOLD EXPORTS.

"The amendments proposed are designed to provide means for controlling an over-extension of loans based on new accretions to our gold stock and to provide for the mobilization and concentration of the gold holdings of the United States so that the flow of gold back into Europe or to South

Minister Dies of Ptomaine Poisoning

By Associated Press.

St. Joseph, Mo., Jan. 13.—Dr. W. F. Packard, a minister of the Southern Methodist church at El Paso, Texas, died here today of ptomaine poisoning contracted at a church dinner in El Paso last summer. He was brought here to his daughter's home in December.

He was 61 years old and his wife survives him.

VILLA TO LAUNCH GREAT CAMPAIGN AGAINST ENEMIES

By Associated Press.

El Paso, Jan. 13.—A war council of Francisco Villa's commanders is expected to be held tomorrow at San Andres, Chihuahua, west of Chihuahua City, according to reliable information received here late today and transmitted to Washington by government agents. Villa was reported to be in the vicinity of San Andres yesterday and his chiefs were said to be gathering in the historic little town of western Chihuahua for this conference for more than a week.

At this conference will be decided the future policy of the Villa revolutionary movement, it was said today by men who are close to the Villa leaders. The protection of foreign lives and property, the cessation of the execution of prisoners of war, mutilation of officers and men of the opposing forces and the destruction of native property in Carranza territory will be some of the matters which will be considered, according to this same source.

FUTURE PLANS MAY BE OUTLINED.

It was stated today by a man close to Villa that the meeting would end with a manifesto of Villa's intentions in the future. This, he said, would mark the passage of Villa as a bandit and would mean the beginning of a well planned and organized revolutionary movement.

This meeting will also arrange for the operation of the scattered bands of revolutionists under the Villa banner and a definite plan of campaign for the immediate future.

This campaign plan is expected to include the attack of Chihuahua and Juarez simultaneously, the movement of large bodies of Villa troops in the northern part of the state of Chihuahua and the cutting of railroad and telegraph communication between the border and Torreon, where General Manuel Dieguez has concentrated a large Carranza force.

DELEGATES WILL ASK FOR PROTECTION.

Three delegates left here for the San Andres meeting early this week and carried with them letters from Villa juntas in the United States urging Villa to protect foreign lives and property. Chiefs who were expected to attend the conference include Jose Ynez Salazar, Villa's second in command; Manuel Ochoa, who has been operating south of Juarez; the Murga brothers, Rodrigio and Silvestre Quevedo; Salinas, Chavez, Uribe and other minor chiefs.

ILLINOIS 2-CENT PASSENGER RATE IS HELD VALID

By Associated Press.

Chicago, Jan. 13.—Authority of the state of Illinois to fix railroad rates within its own borders was upheld today in the United States district court when Judge Landis dismissed for want of equity the petition of twenty-eight railroad companies, asking an injunction against the enforcement of the 2c-a-mile passenger rate.

The railroads announced they would appeal the case to the United States supreme court. The ruling of the higher court will directly affect ten other states where 4c passenger rates are now in effect.

A committee of seven railroad attorneys and passenger traffic managers left for Washington, D. C., today to apply to the interstate commerce commission for a suspension of the order requiring the railroads to put into effect on January 15 the new tariff of 2.4c a mile pending the outcome of the appeal of the roads.

In order to obtain a suspension of the order before Monday the committee planned to ask the commission to sit Sunday and hear its petition.

As a result of Judge Landis' decision the railroads are left in a peculiar situation. The interstate commerce commission has ordered a 2.4c rate while the state legislature has decreed that a 2c rate shall be charged.

The 2c rate is now in effect in Illinois.

Want Sunday Hearing.

By Associated Press.

Washington, Jan. 13.—Interstate commerce commission officials had not heard tonight of the plan of railroad attorneys to request a Sunday hearing on the passenger rate order affecting Illinois lines. It was said if such a request were presented tomorrow it would have to be considered on its merits, but there were indications that a session of the commission on Sunday is not likely.

Mexico Refuses to Abolish the Death Penalty

By Associated Press.

Queretaro, Jan. 13.—The attempt to abolish the death penalty in Mexico failed today when the constitutional convention approved an article providing for the death sentence for treason, patricide, premeditated murder, arson, piracy, highway robbery and certain military offenses.

COLORADO WOULD VOTE NATION DRY

By Associated Press.

Denver, Colo., Jan. 13.—The house of representatives of the Colorado legislature today passed a memorial to congress urging a national prohibition amendment making the United States "one hundred per cent dry." The memorial now goes to the senate for action.

CRUISER GOES ASHORE ENDANGERING LIVES OF HALF THOUSAND MEN

After Much Difficulty, Men Are Landed and Little Hope Is Held Out for Saving Ship from Total Wreck, Is Belief of United States Naval Officials.

By Associated Press.

Eureka, Cal., Jan. 13.—Shortly after 8 o'clock tonight the last member of the crew of the cruiser Milwaukee, which went ashore near here early today, was landed on the beach. Not a life was lost and but one man was hurt in the difficult work of rescuing the hundreds aboard the stranded vessel.

As darkness closed down tonight about half the crew of the United States protected cruiser Milwaukee, which went ashore on the Samoa beach near here about 4 o'clock this morning, had been transferred through a roaring surf in safety to the beach by means of a breeches buoy and two lifeboats. On board the Milwaukee when the current carried her into the surf were eighteen officers and 421 men.

Navy officers here expressed the belief tonight that the cruiser would be a total loss. The Milwaukee, which draws 22.6 feet, had been thrown by the breakers in the water that is but twelve feet deep at low tide, and the cruiser was keeled over at an angle of twenty degrees. Her double bottom was filled with water and her engine room flooded. It was generally believed that the hull had been pierced

When the Milwaukee was caught by the current and carried into the breakers, she was pulling on a cable attached to the stranded submarine H-3 ,which went ashore December 14 about half a mile from where the Milwaukee now lies. The monitor Cheyenne and the navy tug Iroquois further off the shore both had lines to the Milwaukee and were endeavoring to hold the cruiser from the clutches of the surf.

The tidal current and the weight of the heavy steel hawser that was fast to the submarine proved stronger than the combined power of the three ves-

BETHLEHEM OFFERS TO BUILD VESSELS AT U. S. PRICES

By Associated Press.

Philadelphia, Jan. 13.—Speaking before the Terrapin club here tonight on the complaint of the navy department against the high bids received for warships, Eugene G. Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel company, said that his company had determined to make an offer to the government that if it will build two of the four authorized battle cruisers in its navy yards, the Bethlehem company will construct the other two at the ascertained cost of building the ships in the government yards without additional expense or commissions of any kind. "We will also contract to have our ships ready for service ahead of the government ships," he said.

"It would be a real advantage to Bethlehem Steel shipyards to be relieved of any obligation to enter upon this naval construction," Grace said. "The profit from it cannot possibly amount to much and the responsibility is enormous. But we do feel a patriotic obligation in the matter and we realize that it is our duty to do everything we can to make our plant and experience available for the use of the American government."

The policy of the navy department, Grace said, seems to embody an effort to discourage private enterprises, to divert all work for national defense into government plants. He told the diners that although the Bethlehem Steel company has been able since the European war began to obtain in Europe almost any price it chose to ask for its products, it has adhered in its charges to the United States government to the bases of prices established before the war began.

Referring to a recent announcement that British manufacturers had underbid American concerns for shells for the American navy, Grace said it should be remembered that the British navy had seen little action and that it is entirely conceivable that there is a surplus of naval shells on hand which the British government might be willing to have its munition makers dump in the United States and turn the proceeds into shells for use on the battlefield.

MEXICAN GENERAL GIVEN RECEPTION AT CHIHUAHUA CITY

By Associated Press.

Chihuahua City, Jan. 13.—General Francisco Murguia, while church bells rang and fire-crackers popped, rode through lines of school children waving flags when he arrived here today from the front.

The celebration was in honor of his recent victories over Villa.

Twenty-four field guns and six heavy French guns taken from Villa have been brought to Chihuahua City. It is said that all the locomotives and cars taken away by Villa have been recaptured.

Villa cannot be located, the military authorities say, further than that instead of going to Durango he is trying to get back to his old haunts at Satevo. The government troops, however, are still engaged in the hunt for him and his bands. General Eduardo Hernandez is proceeding with his cavalry to Satevo.

WOMAN TELLS WHY SHE SHOT HUSBAND AT DENVER HOME

By Associated Press.

Denver, Colo., Jan. 13.—How she was driven to desperation after a night of horror in which abuse and indignities were heaped upon her and how she finally was led to take the life of her husband, John L. Smith, early this morning, was related to the police today by Mrs. Stella M. Smith. Added to her plight was the fear that her husband would harm her 12-year-old daughter, Mildred Moore, she said.

Mrs. Smith is the former wife of William A. Moore, attorney, brother of Julian A. Moore, district judge here, and son of former Bishop David Moore of Kansas City, and step-daughter of Alfred Britten, wealthy oil operator of Chicago and formerly of Fort Worth and other Texas cities. Smith before their marriage was a chauffeur in the employ of her stepfather.

William A. Moore, her former husband, went to the Smith home early this morning summoned by a servant at the request of Mrs. Smith who feared for her daughter's safety. Moore left with Mildred without going into the house and, according to Mrs. Smith, her husband tried to shoot Moore as the latter drove away, threatening to kill both the man and girl. In this he was prevented by Mrs. Smith.

Moore told of vain efforts to have a policeman accompany him to the house for Mrs. Smith's protection and said "I suppose that I ought to have killed Smith myself."

Known in Fort Korth.

By Associated Press.

Fort Worth, Jan. 13.—Mrs. John L. Smith, who is charged with killing her husband in Denver today, was Stella Newton, well known in Fort Worth society circles. Her father was Geo. R. Newton and her mother married Alfred Britton, at one time president of the City National bank and prominent in financial circles.

She married Will Moore, afterward divorcing him. She later eloped with Smith, who was a chauffeur. Mrs. Smith is described as being less than 40 years old and attractive in appearance.

Pope Benedict to Keep Out of Peace Parley

By Associated Press.

Paris, Jan. 13.—"It is confirmed that Pope Benedict has finally decided not to participate now in any action tending toward peace that might appear to favor the central powers rather than any other nation," says a dispatch from Rome to the Temps.

It is pointed out that there is a great difference between religious manifestations and prayers for peace and the purely diplomatic action of the United States, Switzerland and other neutrals.

Prohibition Party Planning to Select a Dry Congress

By Associated Press.

Chicago, Jan. 13.—Chairman Virgil G. Henshaw today issued a call for a meeting of the National Committee of the prohibition party to be held in Chicago January 16, 17 and 18 to plan a campaign for the election of a "dry" congress in 1918.

"Both houses of congress, like the people as a whole, are, I believe, opposed to the liquor traffic," said Chairman Henshaw. "The national committee will strive with the cooperation of the prohibition party to crystalize and focus this sentiment and embody it into a virile militant force. We expect to make national prohibition the issue of the congressional campaign of 1918."

Legislature Has a Quiet Day at Austin--Start Things Monday

By Associated Press.

Austin, Jan. 13.—Only one branch of the legislature is in session today. The senate adjourned on Friday night until 10 o'clock Monday morning, while the house was to have a session today for the purpose of hearing the announcement of Speaker Fuller's committees. Following the committee announcement the formality of introduction of bills now reaching the 200 mark was the order of business.

It is not very likely that business of any proportion will be transacted by the legislature until about next Wednesday morning, following the inauguration ceremonies of the governor and lieutenant governor on Tuesday and the inaugural ball on Tuesday night.

Several senate committees were at work today, although many members of that body have gone to their homes. In the house many members also have left the city and will not return until next week.

sels, and all were being dragged shoreward when the hawser leading to the Cheyenne snapped and left the little Iroquois to battle alone with the tide that was sweeping the Milwaukee into the breakers. Boatswain Frank Bruce, commander of the Iroquois, held on as long as he dared and then saved his vessel from the Milwaukee's fate by cutting the hawser. Lieut. Wm. F. Newton, in command of the Milwaukee, tried to follow Bruce's example and get rid of the steel hawser fast to the H-3, which was dragging him into the breakers. But it was too late.

ORDER COMES A MOMENT TOO LATE.

The hawser, half a mile long and weighing twenty-four tons, could not be slipped in a moment, and before the order to let go could be carried out, the Milwaukee had been gripped by the first line of breakers and was forced aground.

For nearly ten hours the crew waited on the lee side of the ship for help from shore. When the sun broke the fog that had enveloped the vessel, it was seen that all on board were wearing life preservers.

Lying as she did at an angle of nearly twenty degrees, it was impossible to launch any of the cruiser's own boats, but soon life savers of the coast guard service reached the scene.

THRILLING SCENES ACCOMPANY RESCUE.

Later a surf boat from the Humboldt bay station was hauled across the sands to the beach near the Milwaukee.

The coast guardsmen shot a line from the shore to the stranded cruiser and a cable was stretched and a breeches buoy rigged. Coxswain T. S. Decker was the first man to be trolleyed ashore. As the Milwaukee rolled Decker was immersed in the breakers, and then, as the cable tightened, he was snapped thirty feet into the air. He landed safely, however.

Lieut. Harvey S. Haislip came next. Speaking for Lieutenant Newton, commander of the Milwaukee, he said:

"Everyone on board is safe and well, but we want haste in getting the men ashore."

The first surf boat was launched at 2:20 o'clock. It was manned by men from the Cheyenne and Iroquois, which in the meanwhile had come into the bay. Six of the Milwaukee's men were brought safely ashore. The second boat brought back five. By this time two men at a time were coming ashore in the breeches buoy and by dusk nearly two hundred men were on the beach from the wrecked cruiser.

Lieuts. Milton S. Davis and Eric E. Zemke were planning to make a preliminary survey of the wreck tomorrow. The Milwaukee, they said, recently left the dry dock, where she received extensive repairs. According to naval officers here, her stranding as it now appears, will mean a loss of approximately seven million dollars.

Ship Cost Four Million.

Vallejo, Cal., Jan. 13.—The United States cruiser Milwaukee, costing approximately $4,000,000, will be a total loss unless she is floated immediately, her commander, Lieut. W. F. Newton, wirelessed Commandant F. M. Bennett of the Mare Island navy yard.

Officers said there was no possibility of floating her.

In addition to personally supervising salvage work on the Milwaukee, Admiral Caperton, acting upon his own initiative, is expected to appoint immediately a court of inquiry to investigate and fix a responsibility for the accident. Upon the findings he will recommend whether Lieut. W. F. Newton, commanding the Milwaukee, shall be tried by court martial.

THAW MAY OPPOSE GOING BACK TO NEW YORK STATE

By Associated Press.

Philadelphia, Jan. 13.—What is looked upon as the forerunner of a legal battle to prevent Harry K. Thaw from being removed from the jurisdiction of the courts of Pennsylvania was begun here today with a letter from Henry J. Scott of this city, one of Thaw's attorneys, to Governor Brumbaugh of Pennsylvania, requesting a hearing before requisition papers, which already have been signed by Governor Whitman at Albany are finally acted upon.

Scott's request will not reach the governor before Monday. Meanwhile Barney Flood, a detective, who returned to Albany late today after formally identifying Thaw at St. Mary's hospital, is preparing to hurry back to Harrisburg with the papers for the extradition of Arthur A. Brower, indicted with Thaw and now imprisoned in Philadelphia pending his removal to New York.

Dr. Elwood Kirby, Thaw's physician, was asked tonight whether he considered Thaw insane.

"How are you going to tell?" he replied. "By what standard can we judge? Lots of crazy people are able to cover it up because they are clever."

Thaw, who attempted suicide here Thursday by slashing his throat and wrist with a razor after the police of this and many other cities were searching for him on a bench warrant following his indictment by a New York jury, is rapidly mending, Dr. Kirby said tonight. He slept most of the day but when he awakened he still seemed to be in a daze. He took no interest in newspapers proffered him and at intervals stared blankly or rolled his eyes. Dr. Kirby attributed his condition to loss of blood. Other physicians at the hospital described him as "not quite rational."

Extradition Papers Granted.

By Associated Press.

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 13.—Governor Brumbaugh tonight issued extradition papers for the return to New York of Oliver A. Brower, on the charge of conspiracy to kidnap in connection with the alleged abduction of Frederick Gump by Harry K. Thaw.

While Brower is wanted in connection with Thaw as a co-conspirator the governor's office received no intimation that Thaw's extradition will be asked and the name of Thaw did not appear on the papers.

Lawyers Want Pay.

By Associated Press.

White Plains, N. Y., Jan. 13.—Suit to recover from Harry K. Thaw $30,000 for services rendered as his counsel in various efforts to obtain release from the asylum for the criminal insane at Matteawan, N. Y., was filed here today by Walter H. Rathbone, a New York lawyer. He asserted he was counsel for Thaw from March, 1913, to November, 1916.

Attorneys acting in Thaw's behalf requested that the suit be transferred to the United States district court in New York City on the ground that Thaw is a resident of Pittsburg.

GERMANS CONTINUE GAINS AGAINST RUMANIAN FORCES

By Associated Press.

Further successes by the Teutonic lies on the lower line of the Sereth river near its junction with the Danube, officially reported Saturday are partly offset by a Rumanian advance and the capture of trenches of the Austro-German forces along the Moldavian frontier north of the Slanic Kasino river. At another point on the Moldavian frontier north of the Slanic valley the invading army delivered a strong attack and drove the Russians from a height, capturing some machine guns, mine throwers and 174 men.

Fierce fighting along the lower Sereth line resulted in the capture by Turkish troops of the Rumanian town of Mibalea, northwest of Braila and 400 men of its garrison. Others of the defending forces attempting to escape were drowned in the Sereth. The Bulgarians have taken a Monastery near the confluence of the Buzeu and Sereth rivers.

Heavy fighting is in progress on both sides of the Oituz valley in the mountains of Moldavia, where strong attacks by both invaders and defenders were repulsed.

Aside from the Rumanian war theatre activity was developed in the Riga sector of the Russo-German front and at Serre on the Somme front in France. A German attack by heavy forces south of Lake Babit, at the northern end of the Russian front was repulsed.

British troops launched a new attack against Serre and gained a footing in one of the advanced German positions. Otherwise only artillery fighting in the region of Chaulnes is reported along the French front.

The usual artillery duels were maintained along the whole Austro-Italian end.

Entente forces advancing toward Stravina in Macedonia were checked.

A Russian squadron is reported to have raided the Anatolian coast of the Black Sea and sunk forty Turkish sailing vessels carrying food to Constantinople.

Reps. and Dems. Are Split Fifty-fifty in New House

By Associated Press.

Washington, Jan. 13.—An advance list of the next house of representatives, prepared by South Trimble, clerk of the house, and made public today, gives 215 democrats, 215 republicans, two progressives, one prohibitionist, one socialist and one independent.

The tabulation, which is unofficial, has been held up pending the outcome of close contests and finally was isued after announcement that Representative Scully, democrat, of New Jersey, had been re-elected. Republicans, while conceding its accuracy, declared today that a final decision that Repsnetative Barchfield, republican, of Pennsylvania, had been elected would upset the figures. The name of Representative Barchfield's opponent is given in the list.

STEAMER FLYING FLAG OF UNITED STATES SINKS SUB

By Associated Press.

Berlin, Jan. 13.—The official report of Lieutenant Crompton, a survivor of German submarine U-41 sunk by the British on September 24, 1915, the case of which the German government has characterized as a second Baralong incident, was made public today and is published in the newspapers.

"On the morning of September 24 the British steamer Urbino, bound to England, was sunk by artillery fire about thirty miles southeast of the Scilly islands. The crew had been allowed about half an hour. When the Urbino was listing heavily and burning, a smoke cloud was sighted. Submarine U-41 submerged and let a steamer pass at a distance of about 200 metres. The steamer flew the American flag. It had no neutrality sign on the side.

"The submarine emerged and ordered the steamer to stop. This order was immediately obeyed and the two vessels approached each other at slow speed. We signalled an order to send the documents on board. This was not answered by the steamer, which gave the counter signal, 'I am stopping.' At the same time the steamer prepared to lower a boat. On the submarine the gun on the bow had been made ready.

FLAG NOT CHANGED DURING BATTLE.

"When the vessels were about 300 meters apart, the steamer suddenly opened a violent fire, first with rifles along the whole railing, then from 7.6 centimeter guns hidden behind the ship's side at the bow and stern. The submarine had received several hits by shells shortly before the conning tower was submerged. During the entire engagement the steamer flew the American flag. To be sure, the flagstaff was turned down, but the flag was not replaced by the British flag and continued flying.

"As the submarine went to the bottom I was lying unconscious in the tower in consequence of a wound. When I returned to consciousness I was swimming. Neither the submarine nor the steamer was visible. After having swum for some time I was passed by the steamer at a distance of about sixty metres. I called and raised by arms, but was sneered and spit at by sailors.

"After a long time I saw an empty life boat of the steamer Urbino. I heard the helmsman calling and took him in. After some time we saw the steamer again. We stood upright and waved. The steamer changed her course and approached at high speed. Soon we observed a man standing in the bow who directed the course of the boat and menaced us with his fist from time to time.

"As the steamer did not reduce her speed, there was no doubt that she intended to ram us. Finally they threw a rope and took us on board.

OFFICERS ONLY WORE A UNIFORM.

"Aside from the officers of the Urbino, whom we recognized, no one wore a uniform. The crew of the steamer, according to the declarations of the first mate, belonged to the royal naval reserve, but all, including the officers, were clad as civilians. We were led to the stern and had some brandy. As no surgeon was aboard, the helmsman bandaged me, then we were locked in a box standing on the deck. The box was so low we could not sit upright. We did not get any warm clothing.

"On the morning of September 25 the steamer arrived at Falmouth. A surgeon came on board and bandaged the British. At this time we were taken out of the box but had no medical attention until the next day at noon.

"On September 26 I was conveyed to a military hospital. Surgeons and ambulance attendants took care of me and were friendly.

"On the morning of October 6 I was carried to the naval detention barracks at Devonport. In spite of my affirmations that my clothes were not ragged, I was compelled to take them off. Helmsman Godau had been in this prison since September 26.

RATIONS WERE NOT VERY PLENTIFUL.

"After repeated requests I obtained a bed. The rations were those of convicts and I could not eat them in consequence of my broken jaw. The medical attention was absolutely inefficient. When I complained of this to the commander of the penitentiary he told me that he himself was sorry for it but that he had explicit orders from the commander at Plymouth. At my request the commander called three days later and remedied some deficiency. The helmsman, in spite of all his protests, remained for about four weeks in the penitentiary.

"As I was in danger of becoming blind in the right eye also I was taken on October 13 to the hospital at Devonport. The broken jaw was treated again and a foreign substance detected. On October 18 I was operated upon and a brass screw which had been driven in by a shell explosion was removed. At the place where the jaw was broken serious absesses had formed. Several brass splinters were shortly removed from my left eye, the last one in January. The treatment was generally good, but frequently the attendants stole food. I was not allowed to write letters.

"On November 16 I was transported to the York military prison, where I again met the helmsman. The commander telegraphed the admiralty, asking for instructions and received an answer an order to give no information.

TELLS OF SUFFERING IN HOSPITAL.

"There was no surgeon in the prison. About once a week the commander called with an oculist who gave me very little care. After eight days the wounds in my temple became inflamed again and my jaw again swelled up. The helmsman cut the wounds with a pocket knife. The wound in the temple has not healed to this time.

"On January 18, 1916, I sent a report to the American embassy, in which I pointed out particularly that submarine U-41 was fired at by a steamer flying the American flag. I also described the destruction of the submarine and the treatment of the survivors in prison. When in the middle of February I had received no answer I again reported, but again received no answer. In March a gentleman from the American embassy arrived at Dyffryn Aled. When I asked him whether he had received my reports he said he knew nothing about them and supposed that my reports were still in the war office, as all communications directed to the American embassy must first pass through the war office.

"When at the end of May a physicians' committee arrived at the camp at Dafryn Aled, I was immediately accepted for internment in Switzerland. On June 10 a second examination took place at the officers' camp at Holyport. The committee was composed of five British and only two Swiss physicians."

Howell L. Taylor, Candidate for City Atty., Advocates Economy

To the Voters of the City of Waco:

On the 13th day of February, 1917, you will elect, among other officers, a city attorney; I am one of two candidates for the place and as such entertain the belief that you expect not only of me but of my opponent a full bill of particulars as to what we stand for in this campaign. Personally, I respect your right to demand this, and it is with confidence in the result that I comply.

I believe that the city attorney should represent the city in all its legal business, including the filing of delinquent tax suits, unless it be shown that such legal business is greater in volume and kind than may be handled by him.

I assert that all the legal business of this city may be handled by the city attorney without other or additional legal assistance; therefore, why should you spend $900 of the people's money for an unnecessary assistant city attorney? I favor discontinuing the practice.

My opponent who, with the aid of an assistant, is enabled to carry on his private practice without interruption, quite naturally is opposed to this, as well as to the plan of discontinuing the services of private attorney for the collection of delinquent taxes. The question before the people, therefore, is, will you conform to the desires of the present incumbent, Mr. Maxwell, or will you request the candidate or city attorney to conform to your desires and the requirements of the office?

The splendid support I am receiving from citizens of all walks of life leads me to the conclusion that the people, generally, favor the institution of reasonable economy in this office, and as Mr. Maxwell, my opponent, and myself are at loggerheads in the matter, the issue is clearly drawn for your consideration on February 13, 1917.

Assuring you of my appreciation of your support in this campaign and of a faithful compliance with all pledges made, if elected, I remain,

Yours truly,
HOWELL L. TAYLOR.

BASEBALL PLAYERS FRATERNITY READY TO SUBMIT CASE

By Associated Press.

New York, Jan. 13.—Reports that players Grover C. Alexander, J. C. Smith and Harold Janerin have refused to sign contracts "should be significant," declared David L. Fultz, president of the players' fraternity in a statement issued tonight. Fultz added that there will be many more refusals in the next few weeks.

"Attempts have been made to inject the salary question into this controversy," said the statement. "The salary question is in no way involved. Only one of our requests, the one regarding traveling expenses, has anything to do with money, and the amounts of these expenses are entirely in the discretion of the clubs. That is the reason we think they should pay them."

President Fultz declared that the players are ready to have their grievances heard by an impartial tribunal.

"The fraternity is not hungry for power," asserted the statement. "It wants only enough to get a square deal and is now and always will be willing to have any of its grievances decided by an impartial tribunal. If the national board thinks its position is right, let it agree to give the national commission jurisdiction. We should be very glad to strongly recommend to the fraternity that it abide by any decision of the commission. We used the word 'recommend' because in spite of the reports to the contrary the players run their own organization and are right in behind it. Now let us hear what the board has to say and let the public decide whose position is fair."

Gerard's Speech Cause of Much Comment

By Associated Press.

Washington, Jan. 13.—Ambassador Gerard's much discussed speech on his return to Berlin in which he was quoted as saying that "never since the beginning of the war have the relations between the United States and Germany been as cordial as now," was reported substantially as made, it was said at the state department today. The full text will be examined carefully and it is probable some announcement will be made later.

Ambassador Gerard's speech has caused more comment abroad perhaps, than any utterance by an American diplomat since the war began. The German chancellor's supporters and those looking to an early peace approved it while the chancellor's enemies and those urging warfare regarded his suggestion that so long as the present German officials remain in power no trouble was likely as an undue interference in Germany's internal affairs which should justify his recall.

Allied press comment divided somewhat similarly. The bitterly anti-German papers took offense at his statement that relations with the United States were more cordial now than at any time during the war.

BANKS OF U. S. WILL BE PUT ON SOUND BASIS

America or the Orient may be arranged without forcing any violent contraction of loans or causing undue disturbance to legitimate business."

Of necessity technical and detailed in their wording, the amendments, the statement continues, "are designed to enable the federal reserve banks to withdraw gold from actual circulation while enabling member banks at the same time to release gold which at present is tied up in their own vaults. The amendments are based upon the theory that all of the individual banks should strengthen the gold holdings of the federal reserve banks.

"The country's holdings of gold are not used most effectively when they are in the vaults of a large number of banks scattered all over the country, but its greatest use would come from concentrating it to a greater degree in the vaults of the federal reserve banks where it can be protected when not required and effectively used when needed.

BANKS SHOULD ALWAYS BE PREPARED.

"The board believes that ultimately the law should require of member banks no more than that they should maintain in a specified balance with the federal reserve banks in amounts adequate to supply the necessary reserve basis and that the federal reserve banks must have sufficient reserves with which to protect all obligations, but that there should, however, be no legal requirements as to the amount of currency that a member bank should carry in its own vaults. The amount suggested is 5 per cent of the demand deposits, so that the total requirements, cash and reserve, will remain practically unchanged."

Nine other amendments of minor importance, most of which are related to operation of the one outlined above and designed to broaden the powers of the board in times of emergency, are included in the recommendations. Among them are measures which would permit non-member state banks and trust companies to utilize the clearance system of reserve banks and admit to associate membership mutual savings banks without capital stock under certain conditions.

Railroad Men Are Held on Charge of Embezzlement

By Associated Press.

Houston, Tex., Jan. 13.—J. A. Shattuck, until recently cashier at the local office of the International and Great Northern railroad, and W. H. Stinnett, assistant cashier at present with the same road, were placed under arrest today on charges of embezzlement.

The railroad officials acknowledge that between $14,000 and $20,000 is missing. Both men lay the blame on the other.

REVENUE OFFICER FACES CHARGE OF DEFRAUDING U. S.

By Associated Press.

Fort Smith, Adk., Jan. 13.—Characterizing James H. Surber of Atlanta, Ga., as "the controlling figure" and the "moving spirit" of conspiracies "of wide scope," attorneys for the federal government here today filed bills in the United States district court connecting Surber with the widespread "moonshine" liquor frauds unearthed here last year by which the government alleges it was defrauded out of large sums of revenue. The bills were filed as the voluntary response of the federal attorneys to complaints of Surber's counsel that the charges against their client were so vague that an adequate defense could not be based upon them.

The government in another bill asks that the deposition of Thomas C. McCoy, of Asheville, N. C., be excluded on the allegation that McCoy was convicted in Florida last month of criminal conspiracy against the government. McCoy also was connected with the Fort Smith revenue frauds, it is alleged.

The government attorneys declare they will prove that Surber and McCoy with others implicated in the alleged conspiracy met in Chattanooga "on or about January 22, 1912, at which time they made a plan and agreement which thence forward formed a working basis for frauds against the revenue of the United States."

Surber's trial probably will be called Monday, January 15.

Buffalo Nickels To Buy Tomb for Buffalo Bill

By Associated Press.

Denver, Colo., Jan. 13.—Final arrangements were made for the funeral of Col. William F. Cody ("Buffalo Bill") at a meeting of committees representing the Elks and the city of Denver today. Few changes were made in plans already announced.

The only song his friends ever heard him sing, "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground," was chosen by his relatives today as one of the two vocal numbers to be rendered at his funeral.

The body is to lie in state for three hours in the capitol building tomorrow morning, guarded by national guards, members of the Grand Army and representatives of other organizations to which the colonel belonged.

A superintendent of a rural school near here today brought in the first contribution to a monument for Colonel Cody. It consisted of forty-seven new Buffalo nickels, one for each child in the school.

Automobile Parties Search for Lost American Aviators

BULLETIN.

By Associated Press.

Calexico, Cal., Jan. 13.—Lieut. Col. Harry G. Bishop and Lieut. W. A. Robertson Jr., military aviators, lost since Wednesday, have landed near the mouth of the Colorado river, which flows into the Gulf of California, according to belief expressed here tonight following reports from Indians, who said the machine was heading in that direction about noon Wednesday. The Indians stated the machine was traveling at a high rate of speed.

By Associated Press.

San Francisco, Jan. 13.—Five civilian automobile parties with five days' provisions were plowing the sand wastes of northern Mexico tonight in a rainstorm, hunting for Lieut. Col. Harry G. Bishop and Lieut. W. A. Robertson Jr., two army aviators lost in the desert without food or water since Wednesday. The rain that impeded their progress was a blessing, for the lost aviators, if they are still alive and marooned in the parched Mexican desert, as is believed.

Col. W. E. Wilder, U. S. A., telegraphed western division headquarters here tonight that the Mexican consul at Calexico had telegraphed the governor of the state of Sonora to order a troop of cavalry to aid in the search. Mounted soldiers under the orders of Governor Cantu of Lower California, are already in the search and the American commander at Yuma has been asked to co-operate.

Brig. Gen. Henry P. McCain, adjutant general of the army, telegraphed western headquarters here today from Washington that information had reached him indicating that Bishop and Robertson had been forced to land about 100 miles south of the border.

Mexicans Are Hunting.

By Associated Press.

Calexico, Jan. 13.—Mexican authorities here tonight said no telegraph or radio messages had been received from any point south of the border indicating the whereabouts of Lieut. Colonel Bishop or Lieutenant Robertson. General Esteban Cantu, military governor of Lower California, announced that additional parties were being organized to widen the search.

SOME LIVES LOST IN LAST EXPLOSION IN NEW JERSEY

By Associated Press.

New York, Jan. 13.—Legal action calculated to prevent the rebuilding of the munitions plant of the Canadian Car and Foundry company at Kingsland, N. J., and to fix responsibility for the explosions in the E. I. Du Pont De Nemours company's works at Haskell, N. J., was decided upon tonight.

Meetings of the board of commissioners at Kingsland and of the council of Pompton Lakes borough in which the Du Pont plant is located were held, after which it was announced that the authorities would immediately take steps to prevent a reptition of the disasters similar to those of Thursday and Friday nights.

Mayor Hirschfield of Pompton Lakes borough in a statement tonight declared that frequent disastrous explosions followed by fires in the Du Pont plant and the fact that responsibility for them had not been determined, had aroused the public generally. He asserted that it was "time the blame was placed if it properly could be."

Fragments of human bodies were found in the ruins at the plant today, according to County Physician Robert Armstrong. This would seem to indicate, he said, that at least two lives were lost in the explosions.

It was disclosed tonight that a quantity of nitroglycerine near the buildings at the Du Pont concern failed to explode, although the windows of the magazines were shattered.

Authorities of Kingsland decided to ask for a court order restraining the Canadian Car and Foundry company from rebuilding the plant which was destroyed Thursday night.

Butter and Egg Board to Be Investigated

By Associated Press.

Boston, Jan. 13.—Federal District Attorney George W. Anderson, who is in charge of the government's inquiry into the high prices of food and other necessaries, said today that the raid on the Chicago butter and egg board was part of the general program of investigation. Other food exchanges were also being inquired into, he said.

Doctor Tells How To Strengthen Eyesight 50 per cent In One Week's Time In Many Instances

A Free Prescription You Can Have Filled and Use at Home.

Philadelphia, Pa. Do you wear glasses? Are you a victim of eye strain or other eye weaknesses? If so, you will be glad to know that according to Dr. Lewis there is real hope for you. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored through the principle of this wonderful free prescription. One man says, after trying it: "I was almost blind; could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without any glasses and my eyes do not water any more. At night they would pain dreadfully; now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can even read fine print without glasses." It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by following the simple rules. Here is the prescription: Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets. Drop one Bon-Opto tablet in a fourth of a glass of water and allow to dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start and inflammation will quickly disappear. If your eyes are bothering you, even a little, take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have been saved if they had cared for their eyes in time.

Note: Another prominent Physician to whom the above article was submitted, said: "Bon-Apto is a very remarkable remedy. Its constituent ingredients are well known to eminent eye specialists and widely prescribed by them. The manufacturers guarantee it to strengthen eyesight 50 per cent in one week's time in many instances or refund the money. It can be obtained from any good druggist and is one of the very few preparations I feel should be kept on hand for regular use in almost every family." It is sold in Waco by W. B. Morrison and other druggists.

HEAD OF FARMERS' UNION SAYS BUY, NOT SELL COTTON

Special to the News.

Fort Worth, Jan. 12.—That the farmers of the South should not only hold what cotton they have but should buy more, if possible, is the advice given to the membership of the Farmers' union by President Henry N. Pope of the Association of State Farmers' Union Presidents in an article given out to the press today. The article says, in part:

"The recent drop of 5c a pound in cotton ought not to frighten the farmers, or others who are holding cotton, into throwing it upon the market.

"This drop immediately followed the ginning report announced by the census bureau on December 20, which led buyers to conclude that the federal agricultural department's final estimate of 11,511,000 bales, which was made December 13, was too low.

FEDERAL REPORT HAS GREAT EFFECT.

"The powerful effect of the cotton supply upon the market is forcefully illustrated by the market records. On August 1, the federal agricultural department issued a statement to the press estimating that the South would produce 12,916,000 bales and the market price on that date 12.6c. On August 31, the department of agriculture gave out an estimate of 11,800,000 bales and the price jumped to 14.6c. Another report was given out on October 2, estimating 11,637,000 bales, and the market immediately responded by moving up to 15.5c at the beginning of October and gradually rose and 19.6c was reached on December 1. The crop, at the time of the October report, was considered mature and no further reports were issued until December 11, when the federal department of agriculture gave its final estimate of 11,511,000 bales.

"The ginning report given to the press by the census bureau on December 20 showed 10,845,000 bales ginned to December 13, indicating that the total crop of 1916 would be around 11,930,000 bales, for in previous years we have had 90 per cent of the crop ginned at that time. But the 1916 crop has been more forward than the average crop and we have less than 5 per cent unginned. The final estimate of the department of agriculture is correct and the last ginners report, which will be issued January 16, will ve it. Cotton should immediately then return to 20c. In fact, this panic in prices is wholly uncalled for and ought to encourage those who hold cotton to buy more rather than to sell what they have.

REPORTS USUALLY NEARLY ACCURATE.

"Any person at all familiar with the ginning situation knows that there is less than 5 per cent of the cotton unginined at the time the last ginning report was made. The difference between the final estimate of the department of agriculture and the actual count from the ginning reports of the census bureau was less than 32,000 bales for 1915 and it will be equally accurate this year.

"While gambling may temporarily affect cotton prices, supply and demand is the ruling factor and one upon which all speculation is based. The farmer holding cotton now should not sell at least until the final ginning report is made. We have had two short crops coming together which has depleted the supply and no farmer should have any fear of holding cotton."

Consul General Gets Notification of His Removal

By Associated Press.

San Francisco, Jan. 13.—Consul General Franz Bopp, of Germany, received official notification today from Count von Bernstorff, German ambassador, of his "temporary removal" following conviction with Vice Consul E. H. von Schack and others of conspiring to set afoot an unneutral military enterprise against Canada. Von Schack was also removed.

"I will turn over the affairs of the consultate to Dr. Eric Zooepffel, consul general at Seattle," said Bopp.

A consulate attache said it was his understanding that orders to oust Bopp and von Schack came direct from Berlin. It was said that Lieut. George Wilhelm von Brincken, also convicted, would resign his position with the consulate.

What Is Behind Tire Quality?

"Sheffield" on steel—"Sterling" on silver—"Goodyear" on rubber—hall-marks of quality every one.

Value as definite and unchangeable as the coin you spend.

Service as certain as sunrise.

Character of this sort in a product is no accident. It finds its source in conscious purpose, its expression in conspicuous ability.

The quality of Goodyear Tires, the value they represent, the service you can depend on them to give, hark back directly to these two essentials—to Goodyear purpose, and to Goodyear ability.

Quality—value—service—aren't these the sum of your desire in a motor car tire?

You will find them, in profitable and satisfying measure, in every Goodyear Tire.

Each represents the highest accomplishment in its class. Each leads in its field.

The difference in price is due entirely to a difference in building cost. The Cords cost more to build, and they wear longer.

In either case, the money you spend buys 100 per cent value.

Every Goodyear product is built and marketed on that basis.

You yourself, by the amount you spend, determine the amount you shall receive.

R. R. COMMISSION ANNOUNCES MANY NEW DECISIONS

By Associated Press.

Austin, Jan. 13.—Decisions were announced today by the railroad commission on matters considered at the December and January hearings. The commission ordered a grade crossing to be constructed by the San Antonio Belt and Terminal railway and the Galveston, Harrisburg and San Antonio railway at the San Antonio river crossing, and the same character of crossing was ordered to be constructed by these railways, east of San Antonio near the oil talk property. Both of these crossings are to be protected by interlockers. These roads had petitioned the commission to prescribe the mode of crossing at the above points.

The commission granted petition for same transit privileges to apply on peanut cake and oil as now apply on cottonseed cake and oil; also granted petition allowing overflow baggage in party movements to take excess baggage rate.

Dismissed: Proposed amendment to tariff applying on sugar cane for planting purposes; petition of Athens Tile and Silo company to be placed by the Cotton Belt the station of Wilburn within the switching limits of Athens; proposition to prohibit the carrying of bedding as baggage in passenger coaches.

Granted: Petition for construction of passenger depot at Nolte on the Galveston, Harrisburg and San Antonio railway; depot also ordered to be built at Byron on the Panhandle and Santa Fe; rates on lumber from points on the Lufkin, Hemphill and Gulf railway to points in Texas; petition for carload rates on Oakoal.

GEORGETOWN WOMAN RELEASED BY GRAND JURY SATURDAY

By Associated Press.

Georgetown, Jan. 13.—Mrs. Carrie McLaren, who has been in the county jail here for several weeks while county officials and the grand jury were examining circumstances with the death of her former husband, Frank R. McLaren of Taylor, was liberated today. The grand jury found no bill against her.

Jim Pollard, the negro, who was jailed in connection with the case, also was released.

Jesse Calvin McLaren, son of the dead man, and Harry C. McBride of Ardmore, nephew of Mrs. McLaren, recently were indicted by the grand jury in connection with McLaren's death.

McLaren, a wealthy Taylor man who had been separated from his wife by divorce, met death late in November. He drove toward his home in his automobile near midnight. The next morning his body, badly burned, was found at the foot of an emankment beneath his overturned car.

He was thought to have been the victim of an accident.

Later, however, warrants were issued for Mrs. McLaren, Calvin M'Laren, McBride and the negro. The authorities claim confessions from McBride and McLaren.

Young McLaren was said to be th heir to his father's estate.

Sapp Brothers Will Not Be Tried at This Term

By Associated Press.

Waxahachie, Jan. 13.—The cases against E. M. Sapp and his younger brother, Louis, reversed in the court of appeals after conviction on a murder charge at Lufkin, Angelina county, and assigned for trial here, will not come to a hearing at the present term of court.

"E. M." Sapp and "Lou" Sapp were given forty and twenty years, respectively, after the Lufkin trouble. They were charged with the killing of Dick Watts, whose body was found buried in a shallow grave in a thicket in Hardin county in January, 1915. The state sought to show that Watts had information regarding the death of "E. M." Sapp's wife on a hunting trip which the Sapp brothers thought he might divulge, questioning the accidental nature of her death.

MEXICANS REPORTED TO HAVE BURNED BRIDGE IN TEXAS

By Associated Press.

Brownsville, Jan. 13.—There was considerable military activity in the lower border section tonight as a result of reports that a party of Mexican filibusters had crossed the Rio Grande yesterday from Texas at a point forty miles west of Brownsville, and burned a railroad bridge at Solinseno ranch, forty-five miles west of Matamoros. The report was made to American military authorities by Mexican Consul J. Z. Garza, of Brownsville.

Fort Brown authorities have ordered infantry detachments with automobile trucks held in readiness to move on an instant's notice from San Benito and Harlingen. At the same time the second squadron third United States cavalry, three troops of Virginia, three troops of Colorado and one troop of New Hampshire cavalry were ordered to begin a close border patrol west of Brownsville.

It is believed the filibusterers will attempt to return to the American side. The expedition, Consul Garza states, was a small one, and that Carranza cavalry had been rushed to the scene last night, but at latest reports had not encountered the filibustering party.

MAN ARRESTED IN INDIANA TALKS OF MURDER IN OHIO

By Associated Press.

Huntington, Ind., Jan. 13.—Blaming drink for a condition which may have beclouded his mind, Weldon H. Wells of Kansas City admitted tonight the police say that he might have killed Mona Simon in a hotel at Columbus, Ohio. Chief of Police Baker declares the prisoner's statement practically is a confession and believes that as Well's condition improves that the mystery surrounding the death of the Columbus girl will be solved.

"If I did do it I was out of my head with drinking," Wells said, according to the police. "I must have been crazy. I was drinking hard, I know."

When asked for a direct statement as to whether he killed Miss Simon, Wells is reported to have said:

"I don't know. I might have. The testimony of all these people in Columbus makes me doubtful and uncertain that maybe I did do it. If I had any sense at all I could not have done such a thing."

He has steadfastly denied knowing or meeting a girl while at Columbus. When told that a Columbus sporting writer had given information regarding his whereabouts, Wells is reported to have said:

"If Tom Daly said I was there Friday afternoon I must have been there. Tom would not turn on me. Tom would not tell anything on me that he did not know was right."

Judge to Enforce Biblical Laws as Well as Statutes

By Associated Press.

Little Rock, Ark., Jan. 13.—When Judge James Gerlach opened the Argentina municipal court this morning, he announced he would lay aside the statutes of Arkansas and enforce the legal code set forth in the Bible. Court then was opened with the Lord's prayer and a wheezy organ played "Nearer My God to Thee."

Gerlach was impeached two months ago and removed by the city council for unbecoming conduct. Friday the circuit court ruled that he had been removed with cause. His opponents declared that in future officers would be elected who had Christian character.

In opening court Judge Gerlach referred to these charges and said that henceforth he would see that the Biblical laws were followed as well as the state statutes.

EDUCATIONAL TOURS OF M'LENNAN COUNTY WILL BE STARTED TOMORROW

Educational tours which are to be conducted in McLennan county will begin tomorrow and will continue until January 26. Many places in the county will be visited by the specialists from the extension department of the University of Texas, the talks to be made by E. E. Davis and Morgan Vining. These will be accompanied by County School Superintendent R. L. Abbott, and will make the trips by auto. Mr. Davis and Mr. Vining are specialists in rural education and community law.

County Superintendent R. L. Abbott said last night that the schedule as originally announced would be followed. This provides that several places in the county will be visited during the educational revival. The itinerary is as follows:

January 15—10 a. m., Midway; 7:30 p. m., Crawford.

January 16—10 a. m., Patton; 1 p. m., Tonk Creek; 7:30 p. m., McGregor.

January 17—10 a. m., Harris Creek; 7:30 p. m., Speegleville.

January 18—10 a. m., Rosenthal; 7:30 p. m., Spring Valley.

January 19—10 a. m., Chalk Bluff; 7:30 p. m., Ross.

Peace Will Throw Millions Out of Work

By Associated Press.

London, Jan. 13.—It is estimated that between six and eight millions of persons now employed by the government representing half the wage earning population of the United Kingdom will have to be discharged at the end of the war, according to the report of the committee on labor problems after the war. All these workers will not be discharged simultaneously but it is probable that within two months after peace has been declared some two or three million workers will be turned off.

Grocer Fires at Robbers; Hits Two Customers

By Associated Press.

St. Louis, Jan. 13.—Two women customers of Emil Jost, grocer, were shot and seriously wounded tonight when Jost fired at two robbers who locked him in the refrigerator.

In the refrigerator was a shotgun. Jost took the gun and smashing the glass door, fired. One of the robbers was dangerously injured. Mrs. Elizabeth Cox, who was entering the store at the time, was shot in the abdomen. Mrs. Caroline Schwab, who was in the store, was also seriously wounded.

Swedish Steamer Compelled to Dump All Its Mail

By Associated Press.

London, Jan. 14.—A Reuter dispatch from Stockholm says: "A captain of a Swedish steamer, Ingborg, belonging to the Thule line, who has returned to Gothenburg from England, states that his steamer was stopped in the North Sea by a German submarine and that he was compelled to throw into the sea all the mail from entente countries, consisting of 700 sacks.

Otherwise, he said the German commander threatened to take the ship to Germany."

Kreuz Zeitung Comments on German Stand

By Associated Press.

The Hague, Jan. 13.—The Berliner Kreuz Zeitung editorially urges the immediate opening of a ruthless submarine campaign by Germany as a reply to the entente peace demands. It says that owing to German hesitancy in the use of Zeppelins against England, the British have had sufficient time to find a means to foil Zeppelin attacks.

It draws the parallel that unless submarine warfare is undertaken without delay the British will likewise find some new field against the U boats.

Transport Reported Sunk by Germans

By Associated Press.

London, Jan. 13.—According to an Amsterdam dispatch the Berlin government has issued the following official statement:

"One of our submarines on December 28 sank a British transport in the English channel. The transport was steaming with darkened lights and measured about 8,000 tons. She was convoyed by destroyers."

In making denial of this announcement, the secretary of the British admiralty said tonight "the above report is absolutely untrue."

TEXAS NATIONAL GUARD STATIONS ARE CLOSED

GENERAL FRED FUNSTON ORDERS ALL STATE OFFICES TO CEASE OPERATIONS.

Texas national guard recruiting offices in Waco and at five other points in Texas were closed yesterday afternoon, by orders from headquarters of the Southern department, the order issuing from Gen. Frederick N. Funston. The six offices mentioned were all that were in the state.

Capt. Charles F. Anderson and Corporal Thompson left last night for Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio, and others in the recruiting service will join their companies in Corpus Christi at once. Recruiting of the Texas national guard has ceased for the present.

The office in Waco was opened in June. The total number of men enlisted here was given as 233 up to last night.

TEUTONS EXPLAIN SINKING OF VESSEL OWNED BY NORWAY

By Associated Press.

Berlin, Jan. 13.—The German government has transmitted to James W. Gerard, the ambassador, a note concerning the sinking of the Norwegian steamer Tripel by a German submarine. The Overseas News agency gives out the following portion of the note:

"As stated by the German naval authorities the Norwegian steamer Tripel on November 10, 1916, was stopped by a German submarine, which, after making certain that her cargo was steel and iron for the Italian war command and destined for Genoa. It was impossible to bring the steamer into a German port under existing circumstances and the ship was sunk. A sufficient time before this the crew was allowed to leave the steamer.

"The weather was very favorable and the Spanish coast was hardly more than ten miles away. A full guarantee was given for the rescue of the crew."

The steamer Tripel, 2488 net tons, left Baltimore October 22 for Genoa. A Reuter dispatch received in London on November 11 last reported that the Tripel had been sunk by a submarine and her crew saved.

Mississippi Governor Favors Absolute Prohibition

By Associated Press.

Biloxi, Miss., Jan. 13.—Gov. Theodore Bilbo in a statement issued here today expressed himself in favor of calling a special session of the state legislature to enact legislation which would make "dry as a bone" and sent telegrams to members of the legislature asking if they would vote for "absolute prohibition" in the event an extraordinary session will be called.

The governor said if the legislators agree to vote for the bill the extra session will be called at once.

Don't stay stuffed-up! Quit blowing and snuffling! Ease your throbbing head! Nothing else in the world gives such prompt relief as "Pape's Cold Compound," which costs only 25 cents at any drug store. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, causes no inconvenience. Be sure you get the genuine.

BELGIAN WORKMEN MAY BE RELEASED ON NAMED TERMS

By Associated Press.

Berlin, Jan. 13.—Germany has notified Holland that Belgian workmen deported from the province of Antwerp will be given the option of returning to their homes in Belgium and if unable to find work there, of removing to Holland or returning to Germany. This step is taken in consequence of Holland's representations, based on the invitation of the military governor of Antwerp in October, 1914, addressed to Belgian fugitives in Holland, the military governor assured the fugitives that if they return they would not be drafted for forced labor in Germany.

The German communication explains that these assurances were given under quite different circumstances from the present and under the explanation that the war would be a matter of months only, but that Germany has decided to acknowledge and respect them.

A slightly different version of the German communication to the Dutch government was given in advices from The Hague on January 11, quoting a parliamentary paper which was issued by the Dutch foreign office. According to this paper Germany announced her willingness to repatriate the Belgians in question on condition that Holland undertook to care for them after they could not find work, it being asserted that Germany did not permit them to become charges on public charity. In this connection the German movement was represented as describing the American relief commission as an institution of public character, dispensing public charity. The parliamentary paper said that the minister of foreign affairs had accepted the German condition and would supply lists of the names of the Belgians concerned to Berlin.

Investigate Reasons Why Guards Refused to Take Oath

By Associated Press.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 13.—Questions involved in the refusal of members of the national guard to subscribe to the new federal oath are to be renewed by the United States supreme court. The circuit court of appeals in this city was instructed today to forward to the supreme court of certified writ in the case of Alexander W. Emerson and A. P. It had been circulated by a committee headed by Moorefield Storey of Boston.

NOBLE WORK IS DONE IN FRANCE BY WOMEN

SOLDIERS AND WAR WORKERS AIDED FINANCIALLY BY Y. M. C. A.

By Associated Press.

London, Jan. 13.—Since the beginning of the war the Young Men's Christian association has expended on an average 1850 pounds a day for the benefit of soldiers and war-workers. Its special fund has reached a million pounds.

Mr. Yapp, the general secretary, has just returned to London after spending several weeks in France.

"The Red Triangle," said Mr. Yapp, "is now to be seen along the whole line of the British armies at the front in France and at each of the big bases there are from twenty to thirty huts. In the foremost positions we have opened buffets, some of them in the ruins of shell-wrecked houses.

"Women have done noble work for us in France. Much of it entirely at their own expense. Throughout France between three and four hundred of them are helping the Young Men's Christian association. Social distinctions are not recognized by them. They are all doing their 'bit.' In a hut used by mud-stained soldiers fresh from the trenches I have met the daughter of the Earl of Leicester waiting on the men. Our helpers have included Princess Victoria."

It is understood that results of the conferences have been satisfactory so that the parliament probably will assemble about the middle of March.

Bill Asks Papers to Limit Size in War Time

By Associated Press.

Paris, Jan. 13.—Paul Meunier, deputy for the department of the Aube, has introduced in the chamber of deputies a bill requiring newspaper publishers to limit the size of their editions during the war and until three months after the cessation of hostilities to a total surface of 186,000 square inches. Papers sold for more than one sou, however, are to be allowed to continue their present form and size. No extra editions are to be allowed. The bill is intended to remedy the paper famine.

General Funston May Visit in Old Mexico.

By Associated Press.

Columbus, N. M., Jan. 13.—General Funston, who arrived here late today, gave an enigmatic answer when asked whether he intended to visit the field headquarters of the American punitive expedition in Mexico.

"I don't know, but will tell you better when I come out," he said.

Firing Heard Near Border Line

By Associated Press.

El Paso, Jan. 13.—Firing in the vicinity of Guadalupe, Chihuahua, opposite Fabens, Texas, yesterday started a report here that Villa followers had occupied the little town, which is thirty miles southeast of Juarez. Officers of the commands patrolling the border opposite Guadalupe said none of the patrols had reported any evidences of fighting near the town.

No report of any military activity in the vicinity of Guadalupe has been received by Fabens.

LARGE AUDIENCE SEES TRAVELOGUE

PRODUCTION IS BROUGHT TO WACO BY LOCAL ROTARY CLUB.

Despite the cold weather Charles Norton Hunt, under the auspices of the Waco Rotary club, addressed a large audience last night at the Auditorium theatre when he presented his travelogue, "A Trip Through Yellowstone National Park Via Gardiner Gateway." Conducting his audience through more than 140 miles of stagecoaching, winding around in the wonderland of Yellowstone park, Mr. Hunt explained the many beautiful and attractive scenes which were of great educational value.

Glimpses of wild animals, vistas at the end of which loomed the great snow-capped peaks of the Rockies, quiet corners by clear waters alive with trout, the corridors of magnificent tourist hotels, rocky gorges, spouting geysers, all passed in panoramic view as Mr. Hunt talked and flashed on the screen one view after another or used the motion picture where the character of the scene required.

VIEWS SHOWN OF GRAND CANYON.

The most thrilling views exhibited were naturally those of the Grand Canyon of Yellowstone, concerning which a famous Japanese traveler said:

"They say my land is the land of the rising sun. For a million years this has been the land of the setting sun. The sunsets of the past are dissolved on those long walls; they are the colors of all the yesterdays. And as the tip of the loftiest pine, which has been gilded with a level bar of fire, loses its light, we know that this day also is swallowed in the mist with all the yesterdays. But in our souls it has dissolved undying glory that renders the walls of memory forever luminous."

A number of views of the series showed scenes at the Mammoth Hot Springs, which is the central point and capital of the park. This is the headquarters of the government officials in charge of the park, and also of transportation, camping and hotel companies. There were several interesting views shown of Fort Yellowstone, located at the Mammoth Hot Springs, which is said to be one of the most attractive army posts in the United States.

Gardiner, the lecturer said, is the Northern Pacific railway park terminus and is located at the junction of the Gardiner and Yellowstone rivers. This terminus is connected with the Mammoth Hot Springs with a very fine road, which was built and is maintained by the government. He pointed out that this is the natural route by which to visit the park for the reason that each successive day's journey opens up a series of views and a line of phenomena each a little more interesting and wonderful than that which preceded. A splendid view was shown by the great $10,000 entrance arch built of lava blocks and dedicated by President Roosevelt in 1903. This arch built a short distance from the attractive rustic station at which tourists of the Northern Pacific leave the trains for their journey through this wonderland of 2,000,000 acres.

DWELLS BRIEFLY ON FLORA OF PARK.

While the lecturer did not go into any dry-as-dust scientific explanations of the curious configuration and physical aspects of this most marvelous portion of God's earth, he touched entertainingly upon the botany, forestry, geology, ornithology and other departments of scientific knowledge of this section, where Nature seems in freakish temper to have revealed herself much more intimately than anywhere else on the globe. He dwelt briefly, for instance, upon the flora of the park, showing how the great differences in altitude in the park naturally reflect themselves in the flowers and shrubs and trees, and afford those botanically inclined a wide field for study and recreation.

Mr. Hunt was introduced by James Hays Quarles.

Corns Peel Right Off With "Gets-It"

2 Drops, and the Corn Is a "Goner!"

When you've got to walk on the sides of your shoe to get away from those awful corn-pains, there's only one common-sense thing to do. Put 2 or 3 drops of "Gets-It" on the corn right away. Pain and inflammation will disappear, the corn will begin to shrivel from that instant—then it loosens and falls right off.

There's no other corn-remover in the world that acts like "Gets-It." No new discovery has been made in corn-removers since "Gets-It" was born. Don't forget that fact. "Gets-It" does away forever with the use of salves that irritate, bandages that make a bundle of your toe, plasters that half do the work, knives and scissors that draw blood. Use "Gets-It"—no more digging or cutting.

C. P. DIRECTORS TO DISCUSS SECURING BETTER COLISEUM

SUCCESSOR TO T. F. BUSH, WHO RESIGNED AS PRESIDENT, MAY BE NAMED AT MEETING TO BE HELD MONDAY NIGHT.

A meeting, called specially for the purpose of considering the matter of enlarging the COTTON PALACE coliseum or the building of a new structure will be held Monday night by the directors of the COTTON PALACE. At this meeting it is probable that consideration will be given to the matter of electing a successor to T. F. Bush, who resigned as president on account of other business.

A meeting will be held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms, and probably the whole of the problems in connection with the coliseum proposition will be considered. If the coliseum is built the architects' association of this city has proffered the services of all members in connection therewith, the total charge to be only 5 per cent. It was decided at the last meeting of the COTTON PALACE directors that the meeting Monday night should take up the coliseum matter and since that time President Bush found it necessary to resign, so that the question of a successor may come up at the meeting. Mr. Bush will continue as a director.

COUNTY ROADS IN GOOD CONDITION

SPLENDID SYSTEM IS USED

County Divided Into Districts, Each Supplied With Foreman and Helper.

Roads of McLennan county are in better shape for this time of year than ever in the history of the county.

Speaking of the general condition yesterday, County Engineer and Road Superintendent R. J. Windrow said that this winter had proved the best in several years for road improvement, and that the county was better organized to carry out its work than ever before.

"Less complaints are coming in than ever before," Mr. Windrow stated Saturday. "This can be attributed to the efficient system inaugurated by the county and to the good weather which has permitted much repair and new work to be accomplished."

McLennan county has a very unique and at the same time an extraordinary road improvement system that is now in practice. According to road experts, there is no other county in Texas with a like system and no other community in the entire Southwest is known to have a like plan.

DISTRICTS CREATED IN ALL PARTS OF COUNTY

The parent object is to create districts in all sections of the county and to supply that district with a foreman, a helper, and four mules and all tools necessary and material to repair and build roads. There are created fifteen districts, and all but two are doing actual work every day. These two will begin February 1.

Besides the permanent road districts that are being worked there are two convict camps at work in the county.

Engineer Windrow is confident that if the present progress continues throughout the present year that McLennan county will rank higher than many other counties in the state for the volume of road work done during the present year.

According to the present plan, the county is laid out in fifteen districts, and the foreman and helper in each district is expected to keep the roads in first-class condition in each district.

The system is known as the maintenance of roads. In other words, each foreman is permanently located in his district and spends every day that it is possible to work in keeping up the highways. In this work the aid of the farmers is earnestly solicited and in many instances the county has received material help from this source.

BRIEF SUMMARY OF DISTRICTS.

A brief summary of the districts will show that district No. 1, recently organized at Gholson, will begin work at Rogers hill very soon.

No. 2, located at West, is busy grading roads west of the city.

No. 3, located at Leroy, is grading west of the village and making other improvements.

No. 4, crew will be located at Elm Mott by February 1.

No. 5, crew is grading the pike between Axtell and Elk and fixing that highway in splendid condition.

No. 6, the crew located at Mart is working west of the city.

No. 7, located at Riesel, is busily engaged in building a bridge near Hallsburg, north of the city, and in grading highways.

No. 8, located in Waco, is repairing the macadam highway between the city and Springfield.

No. 9 crew is located at Rosenthal and is engaged in hauling gravel on the Levi road.

No. 10, located at Lorena, is busily engaged in grading the roads northeast of the city.

No. 11, located at Moody, is building bridges and repairing roads north of the city.

No. 12, located at McGregor, repairing roads south of McGregor and repairing new bridges.

No. 13, located at Crawford, repairing culverts and roads in the neighborhood of Prairie Chapel.

No. 14, new outfit will be put in operation February 1, and be maintained at Ocee permanently.

No. 15, located at China Springs, grading east of city and repairing bridges.

CONVICT CAMPS ARE DOING EXCELLENT WORK.

In precinct No. 1 there are thirty men and the foreman and guards working diligently to finish graveling the highway between Waco and Temple, which is a portion of the original Meridian road from Winnipeg to the gulf. About three miles of the six miles left to improve are completed, and most of the remaining two miles are graded. The last concrete culvert has been completed.

The other convict camp is working at Harrison with nine teams and about twenty men. This work is being done on the Waco to Marlin road between Tehuacana creek and Harrison. Half of the work has been completed, and the bridge across Shaw creek is finished.

"Safety First" Sign Placed on Dallas Road

Automobilists traversing the Dallas road out of Waco and nearing the point at which the interurban line crosses the highway, will now notice a large life size picture of a man ten feet high by five feet wide with one arm moving up and down automatically enclosing in the hand the word "Slow." This is the latest design to be employed in the county warning motorists of danger ahead.

Printed on this large sign are the words "Safety First. Slow. Complimentary to the Public by the Signal Sign Company—Waco."

This arm on the sign works about twenty-two hours out of every twenty-four, according to the inventor. It is intended that one shall be placed at every dangerous curve and railroad crossing in the county.

WACO HAS WHOLESALE AUTO ACCESSORY HOUSE

SPENCER-CARROLL COMPANY IS DOING THINGS BENEFICIAL TO CITY.

There are probably but a very few people, even among the members of those Waco organizations that are in close touch with the various business concerns of the city, who know that Waco is the home of the first exclusive wholesale automobile accessory house in the entire state of Texas, and the only one in the state at the present time.

In the efforts made to induce new business enterprises to locate here it is often an easy matter to lose sight of those already here and in successful operation.

Consequently a few brief facts about the concern in question should be interesting reading matter for Waco people.

About eight months ago the Spencer-Carroll company, exclusive wholesalers of auto accessories, located at Waco. The building they now occupy at 929 Austin street, was erected especially for them.

HAS BROUGHT FIFTEEN FAMILIES TO WACO.

According to Mr. Carroll, senior partner of the company, the Spencer-Carroll company has brought fifteen families to Waco, has six salesmen on the road constantly and carries between $80,000 and $100,000 worth of stock on hand all the time. He states that they have on hand over 7,000 different kinds of articles which go to make up a complete stock of garage and automobile supplies. And of each article there is from 100 to several thousands in the stock, which is constantly being replenished as goods are sold and shipped out.

An evidence of the extent to which the concern has grown is the recent appointment of J. C. Dillard, formerly traffic manager of the Waco Chamber of Commerce, and prior to that connected with the Taylor-Hanna-James company in a like capacity, to take care of the freight claims alone.

"We are prepared to completely equip any garage or retail automobile accessory house, no matter how large, with every article they need to repair, rebuild or equip an automobile," said Mr. Carroll. "Among the features of our business of which we are pardonably proud, is the fact that no wholesale house ever before attempted to carry on hand all the time brushes, parts and platinums for every known make of starter. This, however, we do. We also carry a complete stock of all tools, from the smallest needle-nosed pliers to the biggest ones made for heavy work."

DISTRIBUTOR OVER WIDE TERRITORY.

The Spencer-Carroll company is the distributor for many articles over a wide territory. For instance they act in this capacity for Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana for Heinze Springfield starters, while for other articles the territory they have in some cases covers just the state of Texas, etc.

"We buy and sell two carloads of Ford demountable wheels each month," said Mr. Carroll. "We sell a carload of batteries every three weeks, 500 Heinze starters each month, and other articles in the same proportion. We have just placed an order for 10,000 dozen automobile pumps, and will dispose of all of them in a short time.

KEEPS LARGE VARIETY OF ARTICLES.

The infinite variety of articles on hand is overwhelming to the layman who goes through the stock room. Car springs, for example, to fit 170 different models of cars, are kept in stock, and, it is said, a spring for any car whatever is instantly available.

Among the articles noted by the reporter in walking through were tool boxes, emory wheels, emory stands, air compressors, jacks, auto ambulances to pull in crippled cars, auto horns, electric light bulbs, spark plugs, belts, bolts, nuts, Ford parts, dies, files, auto numbers, hydrometers, polishes, headlights, cleaners, paints, varnishes, oils, vices, screws, plates, etc.

A 350-page catalogue for the firm will be off the press soon, so one can imagine the extent of the stock carried.

One thing of which all the employes of the company seems to be very proud is the recently acquired distributing rights for the Rayfield carburetor, in competition with a Dallas house which has had the distributing rights in the past.

In the Archidiocese of Cardiff, Wales, are now 20,000 Catholics with numerous churches and chapels.

LATSHAW TO ADDRESS MEMBERS OF Y. W. C. A.

THRIFT AND EFFICIENCY TO BE SUBJECT OF TALK ON TUESDAY NIGHT.

Election of Board of Directors to Take Place Friday—Membership Committee Meets Tomorrow.

David G. Latshaw of New York, member of the international committee of the Y. M. C. A. and who is to conduct a thrift and efficiency campaign in Waco, will address the members of the Young Women's Christian association Tuesday night, beginning at 8 o'clock. The lecture will be based on the subject of "Thrift."

Reports of the activities of the various departments of the association will be made at the annual membership meeting of the association to be held Friday night beginning at 8 o'clock. Every member of the Y. W. C. A. is urged to be present.

Election of new members on the board of directors of the association will take place Friday. Election boxes will be maintained at the headquarters and every member of the association will be expected to vote some time during the day.

Mrs. W. J. Wigley, chairman of the membership committee, has called a meeting of her committee for tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the headquarters for the purpose of completing plans for the annual membership meeting.

Classes in the educational department of the association are reported to be progressing.

GOLF DATES NAMED.

By Associated Press.

Houston, Jan. 13.—Announcement has been made that the Houston Country club's annual mid-winter invitation golf tournament, one of the largest events in the south, will be held February 21, 22, 23 and 24. More than a hundred and fifty entries are expected.

A chain that can be adjusted to fractions of an inch has been invented for holding automobile top arms to save the use of projecting brackets and straps.

Safe or Sorry WHICH?

Will you take chances with a cold, and risk catarrhal trouble? Or will you take Peruna and rid yourself of catarrh?

That's a question you must answer often this winter. Just remember, every cold that "gets well" of itself leaves traces of its visit. Sometimes these get to be serious. Often they manifest themselves in catarrh of the stomach and intestines.

PERUNA Conquers Catarrh

Every cold is a possible start; every attack of indigestion may leave catarrh. The medicine that overcomes the cold and sets the digestion to rights may also overcome the catarrh—if it is Peruna. This threefold usefulness distinguishes this remedy above all others. Its effectiveness is proved by the evidence of thousands, gathered in our experience of forty-five years, and it has helped so many you may reasonably expect it to help you.

In either liquid or tablet form, whichever fits your needs.

Manalin, the ideal laxative and liver tonic, can be taken with Peruna. In its tablet form it is delicious to the taste, convenient, and without unpleasant effect. 10c and 25c.

PLENTY OF MONEY.

The principal partners of the entente powers, England, France, Russia and Italy, have increased their paper note issues since the war began by more than $3,500,000,000, while their stocks of gold have increased but $100,000,000.

The Imperial Bank of Germany has added $1,000,000,000 to its paper obligations, and $250,000,000 to its stock of gold.

Wall street has been agitating the demonetization of gold upon the ground that it has become too abundant to be a suitable and safe basis of values.

All of this goes to show that there need be no fear anywhere that there will be a shortage in the supply of the circulating medium of exchange for many years to come. The per capita of actual money now outstanding far exceeds the wildest dreams of Brick Pomeroy or any other Greenbacker of his day.

The history of the world clearly points to one inevitable result of this surplusage of funds. The time is near at hand for a grand rush to exchange it for realty. Its symptoms are now visible. Its full outpouring may be expected before the close of the present year.

For once—and only once in history—there is admittedly plenty of money in every nook and corner of the world.

PROHIBITION IN DENVER.

A smashing reply to the saloon's attack on Denver prohibition is that by Gordon Jones, president of the United States bank of Denver. Mr. Jones, who voted for the saloon, fearing business harm from prohibition, admits: "I freely confess that I was a moral coward for years," on this issue. He gives a list of twenty-six definite benefits, every one of them of first class importance that prohibition has brought Denver. Among them is the answer to the saloon stories about increase of arrests for drunkenness under prohibition. The fact is that prohibition results in the course of time in such outlawry of public drunkenness that any person showing signs of intoxication is "run in," something that does not happen in saloon towns. The different practice of arrests therefore sometimes misleads the uninformed readers of statistics. But Denver had not been long enough on the prohibition bandwagon to effect this change in system. Mr. Jones shows that the first year after prohibition was adopted arrests for drunkenness in Denver decreased more than half—6.5 per cent. That means that drunkenness declined that much.

One other of Mr. Jones' smashing twenty-six statements is this:

Representative Williams of McLennan heads the house committee on criminal jurisprudence. This assures a diligent and we trust á successful effort to improve the penal code.

Colonel Cody left an estate worth only $65,000, but it must be remembered that he enjoyed an experience which could not have been bought for $1,000,000.

During one hundred years, from 1800 to 1900, church membership increased nearly 350 per cent in the United States, and during the succeeding ten years it just kept pace with the increase in population, which was about 25 per cent. This is the visible effect of the growth of materialism, which in Europe culminated in universal war. What will be its final results in the western world is still to be determined.

Carlock of Tarrant heads the house committee on civil procedure and Spencer of Wise heads the committee on criminal procedure. These appointments speak hopefully for earnest efforts to redeem the court house from the reproach now cast upon it.

The legislature of Colorado is expected to pass at its next session a bill to prohibit the importation of intoxicants. Then liquor will be an outlaw in Colorado, no matter how it gets there.

PINK BOLL WORM.

The pink boll worm is in Mexico, and it would be an easy matter for infected cottonseed to transport it to Texas. Warning should be given by both national and state authorities, and every available precaution taken to guard against the importation of this plague.

THE MARCH OF PROHIBITION.

The liquor traffic received two body blows this week, and they were delivered by the national government.

The supreme court declared the Webb-Kenyon law constitutional, and the senate passed the Sheppard bill to make Washington dry.

If the house concurs, as it certainly will should the measure come before it during the present session, there is due to be a great and continued drouth in the capital.

The vote of the senate was too decisive to leave room for hope of an early reversal.

Fifty-five senators recorded themselves for the bill, and only thirty-two against. This was not quite a two-thirds majority, but almost, and shows a remarkable increase in prohibition since the last roll call was taken.

In the supreme court, the decisions of which are guided quite as much by political leaning as by legal tradition, the vote was seven to 2 in support of the Webb-Kenyon law.

In making this decision the court was obliged to take the old doctrine of state rights into account, but, strange as it may seem to most people, that doctrine can be made to cut both ways.

It is just as much in accord with that doctrine for the federal government to protect a state in its wish to be dry as to protect some other state in its privilege of selling liquor.

The Chronicle has always contended that state rights mean anything and everything, and that it can be applied to about every side of every situation with equal propriety.

National legislation ultimately resolves itself into what a majority of the states want, and whenever the federal government fails to yield to a popular demand three-fourths of the states can always force its hand, which is one way of employing state rights to compel centralization.—Houston Chronicle.

PIGS THAT PAY.

In the report of Oklahoma Boys' Pig clubs are contained some figures that may interest farm boys of South Texas as well as their fathers.

In Woodward county of that state, Evan Patrick from an investment of $22.50 in a pure-bred gilt made a profit of $171.02. Nine thrifty pigs were farrowed by the sow and all brought a good price.

Another Woodward county boy purchased a gilt for $38.25. Four pigs were sold for $140. The boy has refused $75 for the sow and he has still seven pigs. The clear profit in one year from this investment is $270.

These profits are figured by deducting every expense and they are not unusual. Very little of the boys' time is occupied in caring for the pigs. Usually these young hog raisers do as much work on the farm as though they had no interests of their own. They attend school just the same. And the $171 in the one case, the $270 in the other case, and corresponding profits in many other cases are clear savings from the year's work. There is many a young bank employe in the cities who would be proud if he could save such a sum in any year.—Houston Post.

Armour & Co. made sales last year amounting to $525,000,000, and 25 per cent earnings. Beef has not usurped the place of cotton as king, but it is one of the vice-regents of the throne.

If pulling a candidate's leg is made criminal, as is now threatened at Austin, the only avenue of usefulness left to the idle patriot will be to carry the candidate's grip.

Pershing is coming out of Mexico, but it is by no means assured that he will stay out.

The best way to avoid cold feet today is to go to church. Our information is that all Waco churches will be comfortably heated.

El Paso has produced six sets of triplets in thirty days. And they call that an ideal climate.

Cotton is running like an experienced race horse which has struck the second quarter of a mile race. At that point he always slows up and gathers wind.

The gas company which supplies Dallas and Fort Worth with natural gas gave notice that industrial plants in those cities would be cut off when news was received of the approach of a blizzard. Evidence of the uncertainty of the natural gas supply continues to accumulate, and the public should be admonished to prepare in time for a substitute fuel.

Marlin, Jan. 13.—The body of John Martin was found yesterday afternoon near the headquarters at the county poor farm, hanging by a rope from a tree. He had been observed with a rope in his hand a few hours prior to the discovery of his body, by Mrs. Bozeman, wife of the manager of the poor farm, and upon her inquiry as to his reason for not coming to dinner was told that he did not want any. The deceased had lived in Falls county for a number of years. He leaves a widow and several children who reside in Marlin.

In a spirited debate of the high school senior and junior classes at the high school auditorium Friday, the subject being, "Resolved, That military training should be introduced into Marlin high school," the seniors having the negative and being represented by Trousdale Brown and Lester Levy, while the juniors were represented in th affirmative arguments by Basil Curry and Tom Glass, the seniors were declared winners by Judges Page Collier, G. A. Pringle and Dr. J. E. James. Both sides of the question were presented in a masterful manner and it required some deliberation on the part of the judges before a decision was reached. The final debate for places in the state contest will be held on February 16, according to a statement by Superintendent A. C. Ferguson of the Marlin schools.

February 13 has been determined upon as the date for the primary to be held in Marlin, and at which time nominees for mayor, city attorney and aldermen for the three wards of the city will be balloted upon. Majority rule will prevail, and in case of a second primary being necessary it will be held February 27. Candidates for mayor will be required to pay $15 each, city attorney $15 and aldermen $1 to have their names placed on the official ballot.

At a meeting in the high school auditorium Friday in which a musical program was rendered by Ernst School Boy band and a chorus of fifty girls' voices under the direction of Miss Alma Ernst, letters and sweaters were given the members of Marlin high school's victorious football team of the 1916 season. Coach D. S. Caldwell officiated in introducing the letter men and Superintendent Ferguson in an address praised their work and urged them to make the letter an emblem worthy of their best efforts. Those receiving the large "M" were Leroy Johnson, Robert Ernst, Edwin Gordon, Lester Levy, Sam Oakes, Eugene Herring, Paul Gardere, Charles Phipps, William Patrick, Trousdale Brown and Bill Dupuy. "Little M's"—Cub Woodland, Lea Allen Jr., Arthur Threadgill, Bill Connolly, Walter McKnight, John Peevy, J. C. Fountain Jr., Horace Hunnicutt, Hubert Lenoir, Willis Lang Allen, Godfrey Jennings and Orion Miracle.

Mrs. W. A. Patrick was hostess to the Social club Wednesday afternoon. In addition to the members, several guests gave added pleasure to the meeting.

The first meeting for several weeks of the Bridge club was at the pleasant home of Mrs. F. S. Heffner on Capps street, Thursday, and Mrs. M. L. Pinnes as hostess. At the close of the fascinating game a dainty refreshment plate was served.

Blue Eyebrows.

An Indianapolis woman, who, as a girl, was noted for her rosy cheeks, realized the other day as she was getting ready to go to a party that her cheeks had lost practically all their color and that her eyebrows were grayish. She thought darkened eyebrows would add to her appearance. So she picked up a pencil lying on a dresser, gave them a few touches and started off, well pleased with the effect. After she had been at the party for a time she met her sister. Sister gave her one hurried look and inquired:

"Did you pencil your eyebrows before you came?"

"Yes," apologetically replied the woman.

"I looked so whitish and grayish I thought a touch of color would help me."

An Angler's Struggle.

One of his favorites is about an angler who one day had four hours' tussle with a huge salmon before he was able to land it. When at last he had made sure of his catch he took it home in ecstasy and related his triumph to his maiden aunt. Of course, like all fishermen, he made as much of the story as possible, and laid special stress on the time it took and the immense energy he had to expend before he could bring the salmon safely to land.

When he had finished he waited anxiously for the praise due to his cleverness and heroism. For some moments there was silence, and then his aunt looked up from her knitting with a puzzled expression on her face.

"But, my dear Tom," she said, quietly, "why did you not cut the string and get rid of the brute?"—Tit-Bits.

Flood Prevention Meet at Austin Monday and Tuesday

Many of the men who met in Waco a few weeks ago and held a flood control and overflow prevention meeting at the State House will again meet for the purpose of furthering this work, the meeting to be held tomorrow and Tuesday in Austin.

W. W. Seley, president of the Brazos River and Valley Improvement association, is much interested in this work, and took a prominent part in the Waco meeting. He probably will go to Austin to attend the two days' meeting.

Flood prevention is a matter which is claiming much attention now, and the Austin meeting is expected to develop some definite lines of action.

W. C. T. U. to Observe Prayer Day Thursday

Frances Willard union of Waco will observe Thursday, January 18, as a day of prayer for national constitutional prohibition, and also will include a note of thanksgiving for the victories which the W. C. T. U. of the country believes has been won in the recent past.

Services of appropriate character will be held at Austin Avenue Methodist church from 2 to 4 o'clock in the afternoon, the public being invited. The program for this meeting is not yet complete.

Such meetings will be held all over the United States on the same day, this call emanating from the national organization of the Woman's Christian Temperance union.

Directors of Y. M. B. L. Meet Tuesday Night

Directors of the Y. M. B. L. will meet Tuesday night, and will have a number of matters before them, but probably nothing of special interest, according to President R. B. Dupree.

It is possible that something further may develop in the proposition of a railroad line from Palestine to Waco, this being the state railroad matter.

A special committee has been named by the Y. M. B. L. to handle this matter and every development will be kept up with closely.

A patent has been granted for a garment pocket with a celluloid covered window in front to permit a person to see the face of his watch without taking it out.

Postal Receipts for December Show Gain Over Dcember, 1915

Receipts of the Waco postoffice for the month of December, 1916, in comparison with those of the same month of 1915 show an increase of 9 per cent on the month. Receipts for December, 1916, were $19,503.44, while those of December, 1915, were $17,996.59. This shows an increase of $1,506.85, according to the report of Postmaster C. B. McCollum. The fiscal year of the postoffice ends in June of this year.

OBLE WORK IS DONE

COAL PRODUCTION AND CONSUMPTION SHATTER RECORDS

The production and consumption of coal in the United States in 1916 exceeded all past records. The quantity of bituminous coal mined last year is estimated by C. E. Lesher of the United States geological survey, department of the interior, as slightly more than 509,000,000 net tons, an increase, compared with 1915, of more than 66,500,000 tons, or 15 per cent, and greater by 31,000,000 tons than the record of 1913. Data furnished by the anthracite bureau of information indicate that the production of Pennsylvania anthracite was 88,312,000 net tons, about 600,000 tons less than in 1915. The total output of coal in the United States is thus estimated at 597,500,000 net tons, and the official figures when compiled, may show 600,000,000 tons, compared with 570,000,000 tons in 1913.

This estimate, which is to be followed shortly by a more detailed statement, shows that the increase was general, only three states, Maryland, Oklahoma and Texas, having had a smaller production than in 1915. The largest increase was in Ohio, whose production in 1916 is estimated at 37,000,000 tons, compared with 22,435,000 tons in 1915, a gain of 65 per cent. Colorado, New Mexico, Virginia and Washington show increases of more than 20 per cent, and Kentucky, Montana, North Dakota, Tennessee, West Virginia and Wyoming, of 14 to 18 per cent. In Pennsylvania the increase was about 17,000,000 tons, or 11 per cent.

The consumption of coal by the railroads in 1916 is estimated to have been 17,500,000 tons greater than in 1915, the use of coal in the manufacture of coke was greater by 20,500,000 tons, exports increased about 7,000,000 net tons, the coal mines used 500,000 tons more for steam and heat, and the increase in consumption, mainly by the manufacturing industries, was 21,000,000 tons.

The increased consumption of bituminous coal by the railroads and industrial interests of the country during the year brought about a condition in which the demand for coal was greater than the ability of the railroads to deliver it, and in some localities greater than the ability of the mines to produce it, because of scarcity of labor. There is no lack of coal in the ground, or of mines from which it can be obtained. The soft-coal mines, however, are not equipped to store coal that has been mined, and the coal must be loaded into railroad cars as soon as it is dug—in fact, the miners as a general rule do not go into a mine unless cars on hand to take the day's output.

The greater part of the bituminous coal produced in 1916 was sold on contracts at prices (agreed upon during the early part of the year) that represented increases little if any more than the increases in wages granted the miners. The high prices at which the small quantity of coal not contracted for was sold during the last three months of the year were the result of excess of demand oversupply. The buyers bid the price up, and as happens in the marketing of any article or commodity under like conditions, there was doubtless some speculative holding and trading that tended to raise prices. This factor and the inclination of the middleman and retailer to exact extra profits are not believed to have been any greater as regards coal than as regards other necessities whose prices have risen during the last few months.

MISS KATHLEEN BURKE THE FIRST WOMAN TO ENTER BESIEGED VERDUN

Thrift Campaign to Begin Tomorrow; Will Last 4 Days

Will Urge People to Adopt Plan of Saving

REASONS FOR CAMPAIGN.

It is claimed by those in a position to know, that 66 per cent of every 100 people who die in the United States leave no estate whatever of the remaining 34, only 9 leave an estate of $5000 or more, and the average of the other 25 is a little less than $1300. At the age of 65 years, 97 out of every 100 people in America are dependent wholly or in part on their relatives, friends or the public for their daily bread.

Today 98 per cent of the American people are living from day to day on their wages and a loss of employment would mean pauperism for all but 2 per cent. In 9 cases out of 10 these people are not seeking to improve their condition by saving, and it is for the purpose of getting more Waco people started on the path of thrift, that we are putting on this campaign.

To emphasize the importance of money saving a four-day campaign will be inaugurated by the Waco Young Men's Christian association tomorrow. Local business and professional men, headed by Louis J. Davidson, will have charge of the campaign, assisted by David J. Latshaw of New York, who is international secretary of the Y. M. C. A. Members of the local committee are F. L. Booth, B. B. Cobb, Rev. F. N. Calvin, Rev. D. A. McGuire, J. W. Carlin, W. V. Crawford and S. R. Hankins.

Several pastors of Waco churches have agreed to make reference to the campaign in their sermons today. In several pulpits the subject of the sermon will be "Thrift." At the Fifth Street Methodist church today, a talk on economy will be delivered by County Attorney Alvin M. Fraezier of Hillsboro.

SEVERAL TALKS BY LATSHAW.

Talks at a dozen or more places during the four-days' campaign will be made by Mr. Latshaw, who has had extraordinary success in conducting thrift campaigns in other cities. Mr. Latshaw will arrive in Waco Monday morning and will make his first talk at 9 o'clock to the Waco High School students. At noon tomorrow he will speak before the Rotary club, at 6 o'clock he will speak to the employes of Sanger Brothers, and at 8 p. m. he will address a meeting in the lobby of the Y. M. C. A. building.

The meeting at the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow night will be open to the public. There will be a specially arranged exhibit of interesting pictures and cartoons bearing on the subject of thrift.

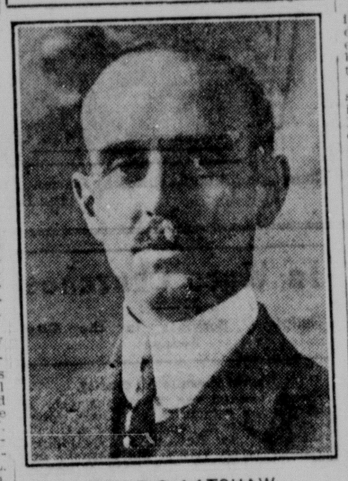

Addresses will be made Tuesday by Mr. Latshaw at the following places: At 10 a. m., West Avenue Grammar school; noon, Waco Sash and Door factory; 6 p. m., employes Goldstein-Migel company; 8 p. m., Young Women's Christian association.

Wednesday's program includes talks by Mr. Latshaw at Central Grammar school, Katy shops, Y. M. C. A., and Central Labor council. Thursday will be given brief talks to Tom Padgitt Co.'s employes, Toby's Business college and the Working Boys' club.

MASS MEETING TO END CAMPAIGN.

The campaign will end in a mass meeting at the Chamber of Commerce Thursday night at 8 o'clock, to which the general public is invited. Talks will be made by Mr. Latshaw and other members of the campaign committee.

Talks will be made at all the public schools during the campaign. Schools not included in the itinerary arranged for Mr. Latshaw will be addressed by members of a special speakers' committee consisting of A. C. Patton, L. E. Baine, F. E. McLarty and W. W. Woodson. Essays written by the school children on the subject of thrift will be judged early in the week and the prize of $2.50 awarded for the best one. Pupils in the schools are taking great interest in this prize offer, according to Supt. B. B. Cobb, who has the contest in charge.

The DOCTOR'S ADVICE

by Dr. Lewis Baker

The questions answered below are general in character, the symptoms or diseases are given and the answers will apply in any case of similar nature.

Those wishing further advice free, may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Bldg., College-Ellwood streets, Dayton, Ohio, enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope for reply. Full name and address must be given, but only initials or fictitious names will be used in my answers. The prescriptions can be filled at any well-stocked drug store. Any druggist can order of wholesaler.

"W. Z." writes: "I have such a very severe cough and cold and have not been able to get anything to help me. It is weakening my system."

Answer: Use the following and your cold and cough will vanish and you will soon be strong again. Get a 2½ oz. bottle of concentrated essence menthol-laxene and take every hour or two. This can be taken pure or made into a full pint of home-made syrup. Full directions as to use will be found on bottle. This is a mild laxative and will drive the cold from the system.

C. L. asks: "I have tried to cure dandruff, itching scalp, falling hair and baldness with numerous tonics, etc., but in vain. What do you recommend?"

Answer: I have been recommending plain yellow minyol for the past seven years and scores of my patients are delighted with the quick, pleasant action of this remedy in stopping itching, falling hair, dandruff, etc. It gives the hair health, lustre and vigor as nothing else does. Obtain in 4-oz. jars with full directions.

* * *

H. M. B. writes: "Can you please prescribe medicine which will relieve me of such distressing symtoms of kidney and bladder, as the following: Pains in small of back, soreness in region of bladder, frequent calls at night but scanty flow with pain, burning and foul odor, puffing of limbs, etc.

Answer: Those seeking relief from kidney and bladder disorders should begin taking balmwort tablets, a very sucessful formula sold in sealed tubes with full directions.

* * *

Mrs. N. L. Writes: "Last winter I was cured of a bad disease of bronchitis by using your prescription containing menthol-laxene, and have been very grateful and confident of getting good advice. I wish to know of a good, safe medicine to reduce my abnormal weight about 30 pounds."

Answer: I thank you for your confidence and advise that five grain arbolone tablets is the reliable obesity medicine which I would prescribe. In sealed tubes with directions. Any druggist can supply you.

* * *

Geo. R. C. Writes: "I have used a number of your prescriptions and have always been more than pleased with them. Just now I am a victim of pleurisy and lumbago—not serious—but very painful. What do you advise?"

Answer: For prompt, lasting relief of neuralgia, pleurisy, bronchitis, lumbago and rheumatic pains I advise the application of Pine-o-latum once or twice daily.

* * *

James J. asks: "For several months I have not been feeling well. My skin is sallow, my tongue is coated, have headache, as sleepless, nervous and bothered with chronic constipation. Please help me."

Answer: You need a laxative blood cleansing treatment in the form or three-grain sulpherb tablets (not sulphur). Overcome the tendency to constipation and gradually your good health and pure blood will return.

* * *

"Bloodless" writes: "I sign after my name "bloodless," because that seems to be my condition. I am pale, thin and chilly all the time. My appetite is fickle, but even when I eat a great deal I do not gain in weight."

Answer: I would advise plenty of exercise and a persistent use of three-grain hypo-nuclane tablets to increase your blood and flesh. They tend to improve digestion and the proper absorption of nourishment. A gain of a pound or two a week is not unusual.

* * *

Mrs. P. G. Writes: "I hesitate to ask advise as my case is so unusual. In a word, I am tired and worn out all the time. Rest does not refresh me. I have been married over a year and formerly did not know what it was to be tired or nervous. Sometimes I feel hysterical. I fear I will become a nuisance to my husband if this continues."

Answer: Your nervous system has been depleted. You need a tonic invigorating medicine that will aid in supplying more food energy to your nerves. Take three grain cadomene tablets regularly for several months.

* * *

Mrs. O. R. M. writes: "I am distressed and weakened by a local catharrhal trouble. Do you advise the douche treatment and what medicine is safe to use?"

Answer: This condition if local only can be successfully treated by using a douche made by mixing a teaspoonful of antiseptic vilane powder to a quart of water and use at least once daily until condition is corrected.

NOTE: For many years Dr. Baker has been giving free advice and prescriptions to millions of people through the press columns, and doubtless has helped in relieving illness and distress more than any single individual in the world's history. Thousands have written him expressions of gratitude and confidence.

Interurbans Between Waco and Dallas to Carry Parlor Cars

That the date for the placing of parlor cars on interurban cars running between Waco and Dallas has been set for April 15 was the statement made yesterday afternoon by Postmaster C. B. McCollum, who had just returned from Dallas, where he had been on official business and where he had talked with Burr Martin, vice president and general manager of the Southern Traction company.

Some time ago this matter was discussed and announcement of the proposed placing of what might be called "Pullmans" on interurbans was made in the Morning News.

It is understood that an extra fare of 25c will be charged for the privileges of these parlor cars.

St. Louis Swimming Pool Big Success

In their report of the progress of the swimming pool for Waco the committee stated to the Lions' club last Wednesday that investigation of swimming pools in other cities had revealed the fact that they were the most popular public amusement both for grown people and children that any of the cities that now enjoy them had found.

W. P. Killingsworth, chairman of the committee, quoted from the report of Dwight F. Davis, park commissioner of the city of St. Louis, as follows:

"The most interesting recreational development of the past season was the Fairground swimming pool. It is situated in the old amphitheatre, is circular in shape, 480 feet in diameter and is divided into shallow and deep pools by a strip of land which serves as a station for life guards, and for general administration of the pool.

"It is completely surrounded by a wire fence, an addition found to be necessary for the effective handling of both bathers and spectators. Admission to the pool is free. The enormous attendance showed the popularity of the pool both with bathers and spectators. It is estimated that 500,000 people enjoyed the swimming during the two months the pool was open and the number of spectators was still larger.

"The healthful exercise, the beneficial effect, the encouragement to the innocent use of leisure time, and the making of life bearable to thousands during the hot summer months, these and many other considerations made the Fairground pool valuable as a civic asset. The entire half million of bathers were handled without a single fatality or serious accident."

COMMITTEE IS CHOSEN BY Y.M.B.L. RELATIVE TO ROAD BOND ISSUE

County Engineer R. J. Windrow and W. W. Naman were yesterday afternoon named as a committee to visit Austin and confer with the attorney general's department relative to some plan by which bonds may be issued to build a system of good roads over McLennan county, including and taking in points which have not yet had the good roads.

This action was taken at a meeting of the special committee of the Y. M. B. L. on bonds for the county good roads movement, held at the office of County Engineer R. J. Windrow. It is desired to inaugurate a movement to build roads in the remainder of McLennan county by a bond issue plan if this is favored by the people, but as bonds already have been issued in precincts one and two of the good roads area, it is a legal puzzle to know how to proceed to include this in a county-wide movement.

At the meeting held yesterday afternoon an opinion was read from W. M. Harris, assistant attorney general, in which it was suggested that it will not be possible to pay off the existing road bonds with an additional levy without expressed legislative authority. Therefore a special act of the legislature may be asked, conferring this authority, so that the bonds may be issued for the remainder of the county if the people so vote.

MATTER IS REGARDED AS IMPORTANT ONE.

The matter is regarded as one of the most important before the people of this section, and if there is any legal way in which to give the rest of the county a chance to build good roads, the tax to fall on all the county, it will be found, according to beliefs.

A letter was read at this meeting from W. H. Prentice, who superintended the construction of the good roads around Waco and West and other points in the county, in which the writer said that he is at present in Hopkinsville, Ky., in connection with road matters. He stated that Kentucky is far behind the road movement here, and that data regarding the roads built in McLennan county will be used there in familiarizing the people with the best forms of construction.

Parker to Go to New York to Buy for G.-M. Company

R. E. Parker, manager of the women's ready-to-wear department of the Goldstein-Migel company, will leave on the Texas Special this afternoon for New York to make purchases of spring and summer stocks for his department. Mr. Parker will join Messrs. Hirschberg and Migel, who are already in the market, and will remain in New York several weeks.

The rapidly growing business of the Goldstein-Migel store makes it necessary for many buyers to be in the markets at this season of the year, in addition to the permanent buying staff maintained in the metropolis all the year around. Buyers for other departments will leave for New York shortly, in fact, from now until the season is well advanced, the big department store will have a constant stream of buyers going back and forth between Waco and the eastern markets. By thus keeping in closest touch with the source of supply, the Goldstein-Migel store is enabled to present the newest styles and most attractive values at all times.

I. Bernstein of Conway, N. H., has potato stalks five feet six inches tall, and still growing.

Not a Pimple Anywhere in Sight

And Any Woman May Become Free From All Blemishes of Face or Skin by Using Stuart's Calcium Wafers.

One of the greatest blessings a woman can have is to be possessed of a fine, fair skin on face, neck and arms. A little attention now and then to the blood condition makes this possible. Women are great sufferers from blood disorders and hence their complexions are marred because of this fact.

"A Beautiful Complexion Always Is a Center of Admiring Gaze."

Stuart's Calcium Wafers, which are as pleasant to take as a peppermint, give in an exceedingly short time a complexion that will rival the ideals of an artist to produce. They act in such a natural way, by cleaning out the pores, throwing off all skin discolorations and blood impurities, that they do their work of beauty building almost before you can believe it possible for them to act at all.

You may obtain a box of these delightful wafers from any druggist anywhere. Price 50 cents.

Farmers' Congress to Meet at A. & M.

"With a program of educational nature, and proper publicity before the congress meets, I believe that the 1917 meeting of the Texas Farmers' congress will have the largest attendance in its history," said Frank P. Holland, member of the executive committee, yesterday.

This is the first time in many years that the dates for the congress are known this early in the year, so as to give all an opportunity far in advance to make arrangements for the meeting. It was announced that the farmers' short course at the A. and M. college of Texas will be held at the time of the congress; that is that the short course will commence on the first day of the week that the congress meets and will continue through that week, dividing time with the congress, thus giving every one who attends the short course an opportunity to attend the congress.

Monday, July 30—Farmers' short course all day.

Tuesday, July 31—Farmers' short course all day.

Wednesday, August 1—Farmers' short course in the forenoon and in the afternoon and first general session of the farmers' congress in the evening.

Thursday, August 2—In the forenoon sectional meetings; in the afternoon farmers' short course; in the evening general session farmers' congress.

Friday, August 3—In the forenoon sectional meetings; in the afternoon farmers' short course; in the evening closing session of the farmers' congress.

Saturday, August 4—Closing of the farmers' short course in the forenoon.

J. G. Wren for City Recorder.

I hereby announce as a candidate for City Recorder, subject to the democratic primaries February 13th.

If elected, I promise the same fair and impartial treatment that my previous record in this office shows, tempering justice with mercy, realizing, however, that all laws and ordinances must be enforced. Respectfully,

CINCINNATI AUTHORITY TELLS HOW TO DRY UP A CORN SO IT LIFTS OUT.

You corn-pestered men and women need suffer no longer. Wear the shoes that nearly killed you before, says this Cincinnati authority, because a few drops of freezone applied directly on a tender, aching corn stops soreness at once and soon the corn loosens so it can be lifted out, root and all, without pain.

A quarter of an ounce of freezone costs very little at any drug store, but is sufficient to take off every hard or soft corn or callus. This should be tried, as it is inexpensive and is said not to inflame or even irritate the surrounding tissue or skin.

CHAS. B. BRAUN FOR RECORDER.

I desire to announce that I am a candidate for the office of city recorder, subject to the action of the democratic primary February 13, 1917. As to my qualifications I solicit the investigation of all who do not know me personally. I believe in a just and impartial enforcement of the city ordinances and promise that my sole interest will be, if elected, to use good judgment in administering the duties of this office. The election is less than a month off, but in the meantime I hope to personally see a majority of the voters and I respectfully ask for the consideration and the cordial support of the voters of the city of Waco.

STOP CALOMEL! TAKE DODSON'S LIVER TONE

New Discovery! Takes Place of Dangerous Calomel—It Puts Your Liver To Work Without Making You Sick—Eat Anything—It Can Not Salivate—Don't Lose a Day's Work!

I discovered a vegetable compound that does the work of dangerous, sickening calomel and I want every reader of this paper to try a bottle and if it doesn't straighten you up better and quicker than salivating calomel just go back to the store and get your money.

I guarantee that one spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone will put your sluggish liver to work and clean your thirty feet of bowels of the sour bile and constipation poison which is clogging your system and making you feel miserable.

I guarantee that one spoonful of this harmless liquid liver medicine will relieve the headache, biliousness, coated tongue, ague, malaria, sour stomach or any other distress caused by a torpid liver as quickly as a dose of vile, nauseating calomel, besides it will not make you sick or keep you from a day's work. I want to see a bottle of this wonderful liver medicine in every home here.

Calomel is poison—it's mercury—it attacks the bones, often causing rheumatism. Calomel is dangerous. It sickens—while my Dodson's Liver Tone is safe, pleasant and harmless. Eat anything afterwards, because it can not salivate. Give it to the children because it doesn't upset the stomach or shock the liver. Take a spoonful tonight and wake up feeling fine and ready for a full day's work.

Get a bottle! Try it! If it doesn't do exactly what I say, tell your dealer to hand your money back. Every druggist and store keeper here knows me and knows of my wonderful discovery of a vegetable medicine that takes the place of dangerous calomel.

PLANS BEING MADE FOR "LIBRARY WEEK"

EFFORTS WILL BE MADE TO INTEREST MORE MEN IN INSTITUTION.

DETAILS ARE BEING ARRANGED

Contests to Secure Advertising Poster and Slogan Have Been Started.

For the purpose of getting more people—especially men—to use the Waco public library, the week of February 4 to 10 has been designated as "Library Week," and during that week the local publicity men, headed by the Waco Ad club, will exhaust every means known to their profession in a campaign of advertising and education regarding the house of books at Twelfth and Austin streets.

TWO PRIZE CONTESTS ARE STARTED.

Two interesting prize contests have been started, one being an offer of ten dollars by the Waco Ad club for the best poster advertising the library, and the other a prize of five dollars by the Lions' club for the best slogan for the library. Rules for the poster competition are as foNows:

The competition is open to all persons residing in this city, and each person may submit one or more designs.

The poster may be in black and white or in colors; there are no restrictions as to the style of work or the materials employed, except that the dimensions must not be greater than 22x28 inches nor less than 14x22 inches.

The poster must be, either by its design or its wording, an advertisement of the Waco Public Library.

All designs must be submitted not later than February 1, and are to be delivered at the library.

The designs will be judged as to the merit of the work and on the advertising value of the design and of such wording as may be used.

The design which is awarded the prize will become the property of the Waco Public Library.

Persons desiring to submit slogans in competition for the Lions' club prize should bring or mail them either to the Waco Public Library, or to Rev. F. N. Calvin, chairman of the Lions' club committee. Slogans shoul be brief and to the point, and should emphasize some feature of the library or its service. A good slogan, now used by the public library of Toledo, Ohio, is "Learn More, Earn More." Other Slogans are "He Succeeds—He Reads" and "A Book for Every Reader, a Reader for Every Book."

ENTRIES MUST BE IN BY SATURDAY NIGHT.

It is hoped that the slogan contest will bring some excellent phrases, from among which a suitable slogan for the local library can be selected. All slogans must be in the hands of the committee not later than Saturday night, January 20, so that the winning slogan may be selected in time to be used in the advertising for Library week.

Miss Pauline McCauley, librarian of the Waco Public Library, made a request through the Morning News that the regular patrons of the library would write letters setting forth some of the benefits derived by them from the use of the library. Many letters were received in response to this request, several of which are quoted wholly or in part:

In the News I read of your proposed "Library Week" and the request for a testimonial. I presume no one in Waco is more indebted to the library than I am. Even with our own Baylor library, we cannot begin to supply our students with sufficient material for research papers and collateral reading. It is thus that the public library has been of inestimable service to us. My students—and I number them by the hundreds—have often spoken to me of the uniform courtesy of your staff and of the intelligent assistance given them. I cannot overrate the service your library is rendering to the English department and it is a great pleasure to be able to express my gratitude and that of my pupils.

I sincerely trust that your campaign may be a great success. Cordially,

A. J. ARMSTRONG,
Head of English Dept., Baylor.

I thoroughly enjoy the use of the library. It is a source of much help as well as pleasure. Whether I go there to read; to get aid for my Sunday school lesson; for general information, the efficient aid of the librarian and her able assistants is always mine for the asking.

MRS. O. C. WYLEY JR.

LIBRARY IS ESSENTIAL TO EVERY TOWN.

We think the library is essential to every town. It furnishes reading to those who are not able to buy books, as well as assistance to the general public.

You have a good building, a favorable location, excellent selection of books and a courteous and efficient staff of assistants.

We came here strangers and visited your library, received membership cards and have enjoyed the evenings reading. We wish every town could have such a library. Very truly yours,

MR. AND MRS. W. M. HALLAM.

I can truthfully say that I have received more pleasure and benefit from the Waco Public Library than from any other source. TED JOHNSON.

The public library is a comfort and a blessing to those who have been in Waco only a short time. When one is far away from friends and is homesick, a visit to the library is a certain panacea. There, under the expert guidance of kind librarians, one meets many old friends and makes new ones among the well chosen books. And in the homelike atmosphere of the reading room, with one's favorite magazine before him, one may forget that he is a "stranger in a strange land."

A NEWCOMER.

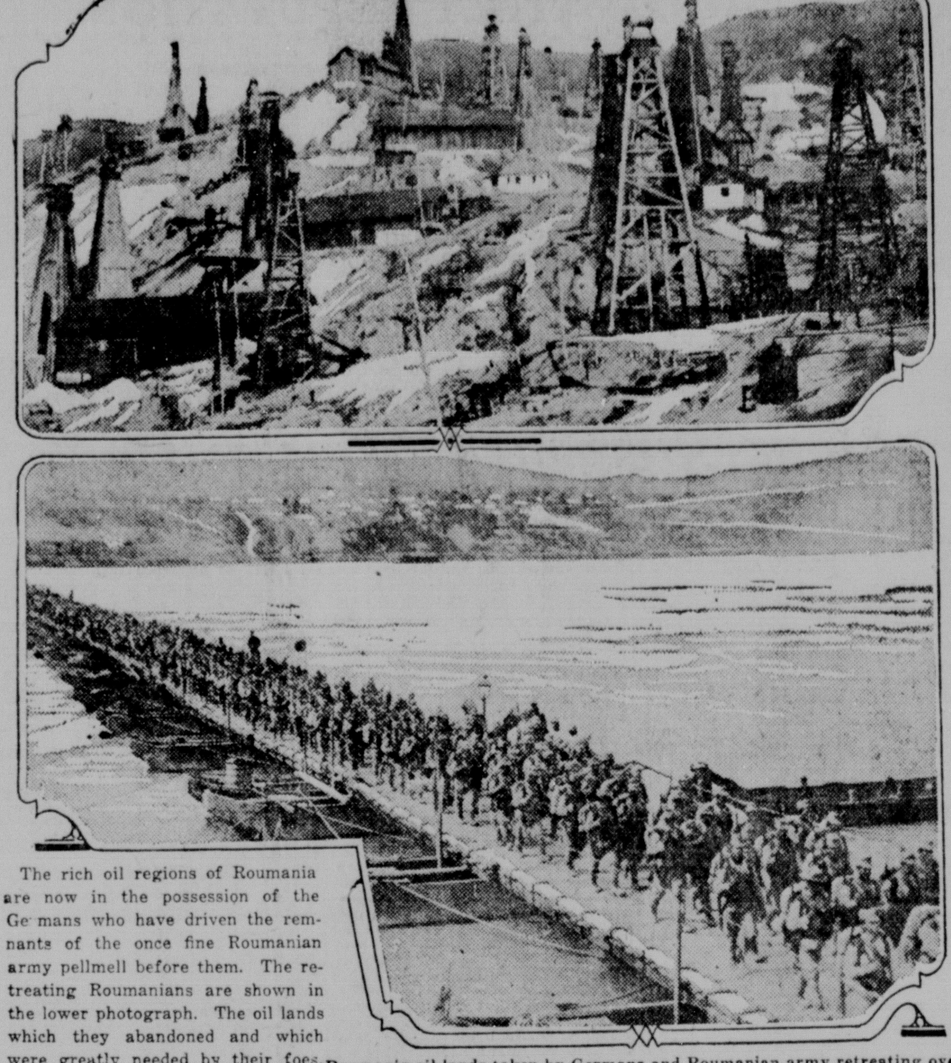

FINDS MATERIAL FOR DEBATES.

It can be conservatively stated that there are more than a hundred persons in Waco who are working on debates at all times. Material is needed for these debates and the debaters are not willing to purchase it. The Waco Public Library has one of the most complete collections of debating material in the state. The material includes the best that can be secured, such as "The Intercollegiate Debates," which give verbatim the great college debates each year; "The Debater's Handbook Series," each volume of which contains voluminous material on one debate; government reports, the best source for data; and a complete file of the important periodicals, not to mention hundreds of pamphlets, speeches, etc. In my own experience of some years' standing I have never had occasion to seek material at the public library without success. Without the collection there it would have been impossible to prepare a debate well and foolish to expect to win. The fact that the material is so well catalogued and arranged makes it very easy for one to use it. If one cannot find it, however, the staff are always glad to get it for him."

ROUMANIANS FLEE AS RICH OIL REGIONS FALL INTO FOES' HANDS

The rich oil regions of Roumania are now in the possession of the Germans who have driven the remnants of the once fine Roumanian army pellmell before them. The retreating Roumanians are shown in the lower photograph. The oil lands which they abandoned and which were greatly needed by their foes are shown above.

Secures $300,000 Dry Goods House

Through the combined efforts of Waco business men and H. L. Williams of St. Louis, Waco is to have a $300,000 wholesale dry goods house in the immediate future.

First announcement of this concern for Waco was made yesterday. The entire stock of $300,000 has been placed among men of Central Texas and Waco.

President J. M. Penland of the Chamber of Commerce was instrumental in securing the wholesale concern for Waco through the Chamber of Commerce.

Stockholders of the new business are as follows: J. T. Davis, George McLendon, W. D. Lacy, H. H. Shear, J. R. Milam, H. W. Carver, W. W. Cameron, E. R. Bolton, W. R. Clifton, T. A. Cheeves of Marlin, Goldstein-Migel company, J. Lee Davis, T. F. Bush, J. M. Penland, Clifton Manufacturing company, C. H. Higginson, W. W. Davis, J. N. McFarland, R. J. Potts, Walter G. Lacy, E. W. Marshall, G. B. Higginson, B. G. Kendall, R. B. Dupree, V. V. Damon.

If plans materialize the new establishment will begin business in time for fall trade. The concern is to be known as the Williams Dry Goods company.

Officers and directors of the company will be elected at a meeting of the stockholders to be held the last of this week. A charter will then be applied for at Austin.

Epidemic of Enthusiasm Hits Provident Heights Church

A genuine epidemic of enthusiasm has spread throughout the entire membership of the Provident Heights Baptist church, of which J. P. Harrington is pastor, according to the members of the congregation thereof, and the coming of the new year has brought a promise for a record-breaking year.

During the past two months there has been forty-seven additions to the church membership, the Sunday school membership has been increased to 220, a thorough and complete religious census has been taken, the church has recently adopted the duplex envelope system by which the pastor's salary and all the expensus of the church including church debt, foreign and state missions and all benevolences are being promptly met; a large choir and orchestra has been organized and a full course teacher's training class started, in which the following text books are being used: Book 1, "The New Convention Normal Manual;" book 2, "The Graded Sunday School; book 3, "After the Primary, What?"; book 4, "Teaching and Teachers;" book 5, "Talks with the Training Class;" book 6, "The Doctrine of Our Faith;" book 7, "The Heart of the Old Testament;" book 8, "New Testament History."

TRAINING CLASS TAUGHT BY WIFE OF PASTOR.

The teachers' training class is being taught by Mrs. J. P. Harrington, wife of the pastor. Mrs. Harrington is conducting the class along modern methods, she being an experienced teacher from some of the leading educational institutions of the south. Twenty teachers are soon to be graduated in the first book, which gives them a diploma as "King's Teachers," such as is given by the Southern Baptist board, located at Nashville, Tenn.

The Sunday school of the Provident Baptist church is thoroughly graded in every department, and the following are the classes and teachers installed the first of the year:

J. W. Pearson, superintendent of Sunday school.

Primary department: Superintendent, Mrs. T. O. Glover; secretary, Miss Addie Fay Harlow, and Mrs. Rosa Smith, Miss Carrie Morgan, Mrs. Willie Johnson, Mrs. E. C. Trent, Miss Rose Selman and Miss Willie Daniels, teachers.

Junior department: Miss Roxie Henderson, superintendent, and Mrs. J. W. Pearson, Miss Myrtle Steger, Miss Earl Burley, Miss Gillie Mae Whitman, Mrs. H. B. Sligh, Mrs. W. V. Browning, Mrs. M. Guyton and Mrs. G. W. Wehrung, teachers.

Intermediates: John Hurtik, H. R. Haney, Mrs. Dr. Horace Aynesworth, and Mrs. F. M. Longley, teachers.

Senior department: Mrs. Crate Dalton, teacher of Berean class, and Crate Dalton, teacher of the Fidelis class. Adults, C. A. Nabors, teacher of the business men's Bible class; J. A. Stanford, teacher of the mothers' class; Rev. C. A. Whitman, teacher of the old men's class, and Mrs. J. P. Harrington, teacher of the training class work.

CENTER OF EDUCATIONAL AND SOCIAL LIFE.

Every effort is being spent to make the church not only a place of worship for its members and friends, but a special effort is being made to make it a center for all educational church work and the social activities of the church, ship is to surround the church with a spirit of welcome and friendship for those who attend. A special music committee has been appointed by the church who are anxious to get in touch with any member of the church who is interested in bettering conditions along this line.

OLD FOLK NEED "CASCARETS" FOR LIVER, BOWELS

ENJOY LIFE! DON'T STAY BILIOUS, SICK, HEADACHY AND CONSTIPATED.

Most old people must give to the bowels some regular help, else they suffer from constipation. The condition is perfectly natural. It is just as natural as it is for old people to walk slowly. For age is never so active as youth. The muscles are less elastic. And the bowels are muscles.

So all old people need Cacarets. One might as well refuse to aid weak eys with glasses as to neglect this gentle aid to weak bowels. The bowels must be kept active. This is important at all ages, but never so much as at fifty.

Age is not a time for harsh physics. Youth may occasionally whip the bowels into activity. But a lash can't be used every day. What the bowels of the old need is a gentle and natural tonic. One that can be constantly used without harm. The only such tonic is Cascarets, and they cost only 10c a box at any drug store.

Rotarians to Hold Meeting Tomorrow

Probably there will be discussion, at the Rotarian meeting at 12:15 o'clock tomorrow at the Hotel Raleigh, of the proposition to levy an assessment of $1 per quarter on each member, the money thus produced to be used as an entertainment and emergency fund specifically, though this proposition will not be voted on until Monday, January 22.

The toastmaster and speaker for the day are not announced for the meeting tomorrow, in order to arouse a little curiosity on the part of members and stimulate attendance, but the thought for the day will be given by H. P. Manley.

A rousing meeting is anticipated.

Committee Does Little Work; No Increase in Fund for Hospital

Owing to the fact that many meetings of stockholders and directors of business institutions were held in Waco last week there was hardly any time put in by the committees soliciting funds for the additions to Providence sanitarium. About one-half the money has been raised.

The total amount sought to be raised is $50,000. The intention is to try and get the committees out this week. Another meeting of the general committee probably will be held soon.

J. H. Mackey is chairman of this committee.

Members of the committee state that they think the full amount will be raised by proper effort, and that the effort will be made.

Here and There

The Young Men's Wesleyan class of the South Fifth Street Methodist church would be glad to have any young man in Waco not affiliated with a class to meet with them in their class room Sunday morning promptly at 9:45 o'clock, at which time an exposition of the lesson will be rendered by the teacher, C. J. Clanton. Several members will make brief addresses. Special music is provided.

Farmers did a great deal of plowing last week and it is stated that the ground still is breaking well, an unusual condition, as it has been rather dry since the November rains. It is declared by many that there has never been a time in the history of this section when lands were in as good condition at this time of the year as they are now in.

Winter agriculture and dairy shows or fairs are well patronized in New Zealand and are regarded as very beneficial. They usually run four days and are largely attended.

LAUNDRY PRICES PULLED BACK TO EARTH

REPORTER MADE AERIAL FLIGHT, BUT WACO LAUNDRYMEN LANDED HIM SAFELY.

An article appeared in a local paper a few days ago in which a well known Waco laundryman made quotations showing the manner in which prices of laundry supplies were going up.

A reporter of a local paper then misquoted the laundry prices in his story and sent them to the skies, but the Waco laundrymen happened to catch hold of the rope and pulled him and his prices back to earth. For the benefit of the laundry trade and to correct any erroneous impression this article may have had we herewith quote the old and new prices and allow the public to judge for themselves the per cent of increase:

	—Prices— Old	New

EVERYBODY SEES A CHANGE IN FATHER, SAYS GRATEFUL SON

SUFFERED OVER TWENTY YEARS AND SPENT THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS TRYING TO GET WELL. TROUBLES ARE OVERCOME.

"My father has suffered from chronic stomach trouble for over twenty years and has paid out thousands of dollars on medicines and doctors," said G. W. Slayton, a well-known Cobb county farmer, who lives near Symrna, a short distance from out of Atlanta.

"We tried nearly everything trying to cure him, and he went off to the springs, thinking maybe the water would help him, but it just looked like nothing would reach his trouble. Then he tried dieting and lived on liquid food until he almost starved—but even that failed to do any good, and he just kept going from bad to worse.

"I don't guess there ever was a case as stubborn as his, and if there ever was a confirmed dyspeptic he was one of them, and I guess he would have been one yet if it hadn't been for this Tanlac.

"The first we heard of this medicine was when my father saw an adverisement in the papers from parties he knew in Tennessee, who were friends of his, and he knew what they said about it was the truth—so he got it right away and began taking it.

"Well, sir, it acted just like magic—and everybody notices the change in father now—why, he is just like a different man, and sits down to the table and eats like a farm hand. Only yesterday he ate pork and turnips for his dinner, and ate so much we were actually afraid he was overdoing the thing, but he laughed and said that nothing would hurt him now, and that he was hungry and expected to eat and make up for lost time.

"Now, when a medicine will do things like that, I think people ought to know about it, and I want to say right now that I would not give one bottle of Tanlac for all the other medicines and health resorts in the country put together."

Tanlac is sold in Waco by Morrison's Old Corner Drug Store under personal direction of a special Tanlac representative.—Adv.

Serbian Minister Will Be Received at Washington

By Associated Press.

Washington, Jan. 13.—Arrangements were made today for Ljourbomier Michailovitch, the first Serbian minister ever accredited to the United States, to present his credentials to Secretary Lansing Monday.

The accrediting of the minister here raises the question of reciprocating with an American minister to Serbia. Previously, one minister, resident at Bucharest, has been accredited to Rumania, Serbia and Bulgaria, but during the present war that arrangement has been found unworkable. A separate post in Serbia could be created only by act of congress, and so far no plans for such action have been made.

Postal service by aeroplane is proposed by a German corporation to link Berlin and Constantinople and cities between them.

CROSS, FEVERISH CHILD IS BILIOUS OR CONSTIPATED

LOOK, MOTHER! SEE IF TONGUE IS COATED, BREATH HOT OR STOMACH SOUR.

"California Syrup of Figs" Can't Harm Tender Stomach, Liver Bowels.

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs" that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish, or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passed out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When the little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed n the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here, so don't be fooled. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company."

AMERICAN UNION DOES NOT FAVOR MILITARY TRAINING

By Associated Press.

Washington, Jan. 13.—Vigorous opposition to any form of universal military service or training was expected before the senate military committee today by several speakers for the American Union Against Militarism. Physicians and physical educators headed by Dr. James Warbasse of New York, assailed particularly the suggestion that physical benefit would be derived from military training in the schools. They were followed by a delegation of college men under the leadership of Max Eastman, formerly of Columbia university.

The committee which has under consideration Senator Chamberlain's universal training bill and has heard a number of army officers and others in its support set aside three days in which to hear witnesses designated by the union against militarism. At the outset today representatives of the union made it clear that they were not opposed to building up an adequate army and navy but would direct their arguments during today's session and those next week specifically against any proposal for universal service.

The group of physicians and physical educators contended that the sort of physical training required in a military course lacks elements of exercise essential to well rounded bodily development and that military drill in schools does not really teach boys the art of war because they are too young to handle real weapons and undergo the rigors of adequate instruction.

Eastman, a student of psychology, declared the psychology of military training is opposed to every educational theory of American democracy and that the enactment of compulsory military training by legislation would be the greatest step backward the nation ever has taken. The sole purpose of military training, he said was to train out of a man his individual initiative and to cultivate the instinct of submission. He argued that adequate payment would bring all the soldiers the country might need.

The present agitation for military training, Eastman said, is only the plea of aristocracy to sustain its position. He satirized the pleasure which he said the socially elect derived from publication of the fact that Vincent Astor slept at Plattsburg in the same dog tent with his valet.

Twelve A. & M. Boys Quit School; 21 Drop Main Courses

Special to The News.

College Station, Jan. 13.—The December slaughter of students is over at A. & M. college, and according to figures submitted to President Bizell by Dean Charles Puryear, twelve A. & M. students have been required to withdraw from college and twenty-one have been required to drop their regular work. The twenty-one students which were forced to drop back from their regular class work will be permitted to remain in school but must take new studies which will be, in a sense, preparatory to their resuming their regular class work next year.

Stringent rules govern the dropping of students from the rolls. Each cadet must pass half of his work or else he will be dropped from the college rolls. In many other Texas instituutions students are required to pass only two-fifths of their work.

The record made by the entire student body, more than 1,200, is considered especially good this season in view of changes in methods of grading. The college faculty has adopted the policy of not holding examinations. Grades are determined by daily grades and monthly quizzes. At the close of the December session all students who have failed to pass one-half their work are dropped. The basis of grading has made the work much harder on students up to this time.

The second term begins February 8. No term examinations will be held. Classes will continue up until February 7, and then two days will be allowed for registration.

Five Soldiers Have Deserted

By Associated Press.

Columbus, N. M., Jan. 13.—The desertion of five soldiers with some equipment from the punitive expedition last Thursday was believed to have been responsible for a story which gained circulation on the border that a large number of American soldiers had deserted the expedition, taken a machine gun and had embarked on a filibustering expedition toward the west coast of Mexico.

Lieut. Col. C. S. Farnsworth, base commander, characterized the filibustering report as a fabrication. He said the five deserters were apprehended thirty-six hours after they left.

Youth Found Guilty of Killing Father of Sweetheart

By Associated Press.

Wichita Falls, Jan. 13.—C. E. Smith, the youth who has been on trial here for killing T. C. Hollander, father of the girl to whom he was paying attentions, today was found guilty, the jury assessing his punishment at thirty years in the penitentiary.

The shooting took place on a downtown business corner last August.

PASTOR WITH LONG LIST OF ESCAPADES GETS A PARDON

By Associated Press.

Topeka, Kans., Jan. 13.—W. M. Stuckey, once a pastor of a church in Williamsburg, was paroled today by Governor Capper. He still had a little over two years of a five-year sentence on a charge of abduction to serve. Stuckey has been in a Kansas City hospital for the last two months with a broken hip, sustained while drilling with the prison fire brigade at the state penitentiary at Lansing.

Stuckey in 1909, it was shown at his trial, deserted his wife and several children and went away with a 17-year-old girl, one of his church members. He was brought back from Illinois in 1910 and given a five-year sentence on the charge of abduction. While on bond a year later pending a decision on his appeal to the supreme court, Stuckey fled the state. He was not apprehended until 1914, when he was located in Florida, where he had mrried a Cuban woman. He was brought back to Kansas and began serving his sentence. Last winter he was granted a temporary parole to visit his wife, who was ill in Kansas City.

IN FIVE MINUTES NO SICK STOMACH, INDIGESTION, GAS

"PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN" IS THE QUICKEST AND SUREST STOMACH RELIEF.

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach headache, you can surely get relief in five minutes.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula, plainly printed on these fifty-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will understand why dyspectic troubles of all kinds must go, and why it relieves sour, out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. "Pape's Diapepsin" is harmless; tastes like candy, though each dose will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but what will please you most, is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

This city will have many "Pape's Diapepsin" cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be enthusaistic about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever take it for indigestion, gases, heartburn, sourness, dyspepsia or any stomach misery.

Get some now, this minute, and rid yourself of stomach misery and indigesting in five minutes.

POSTAGE INCREASE ON NEWSPAPERS IS STRICKEN FROM BILL

By Associated Press.

Washington, Jan. 13.—Postoffice department recommendations for a zone system increasing postal rates on newspapers and magazines for penny postage on local deliveries, and for curtailment of the pneumatic tube mail service in cities, were stricken out of the annual postoffice bill by the house sitting as a committee of the whole. It is expected another vote on the provisions will be demanded when the measure comes up for passage next week, and if they again are rejected they will be reintroduced in the form of separate bills.

The postoffice bill, carrying appropriations of $322,000,000, was completed today in the committee of the whole and house leaders expect to pass it Tuesday. Other provisions stricken out include a $100,000 appropriation for an experimental airplane mail service and a proposal for a bonding guaranty system for postal employes. Repeated efforts to put into the bill a section authorizing government ownership of telegraph and telephone lines were blocked by points of order.

Debate on the pneumatic tube provision developed a bitter fight between members of the postoffice committee and representatives from the cities where tube services now are in operation. An amendment restoring authority to continue such services in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston and St. Louis finally was adopted by a vote of 152 to 104.

Twenty French Ships Sunk in Week

By Associated Press.

Paris, Jan. 13.—The central committee of French ship owners today decided to call the attention of the government to the danger threatened by the disappearance of the merchant marine, if national ship building yards are not able to construct vessels promptly.

The committee pointed out that fifty-nine ships of which twenty were French, were sunk by submarines last week and that it is impossible to replace them abroad.

Senate Reports Texas Company Bill Favorably

By Associated Press.

Austin, Tex., Jan. 13.—The Texas company bill was today reported favorably by the senate committee on mining and irrigation. This is the bill which gives power to the Texas company to produce oil.

Judge A. J. Beatty, general attorney of the Texas company, appeared before the committee in behalf of the measure. He said his company wanted the authority under this measure to produce and prospect for oil in addition to the powers now conferred on the company. There was no opposition to the bill by the committee.

Woman Suffragists Plan to Present Educational Campaign

Special to The News.

Austin, Tex., Jan. 13.—It is largely an educational campaign that the Texas Equal Suffrage association proposes to conduct from their headquarters in Austin during the present session of the legislature. It has been found in Texas, as well as other states, that when the full meaning, purposes and the results to be accomplished by means of the votes of women are presented and understood by the average citizen, he is converted to the cause. Acting upon this knowledge, the members of the legislature are to be made thoroughly acquainted with every possible phase of the question which is now of such vital interest to not only the women, but to the masses of the people of this state.

While it is too early in the campaign to determine with exactness the number of supporters which the proposed amendment has in the house and senate, the situation is most encouraging and it is believed that by proper effort and understanding on the part of the suffrage workers and those to whom they desire to give enlightenment on the subject, the submission of the amendment will be accomplished.

The earnestness of the officers and co-workers of the Texas Equal Suffrage association is already exemplified by the activity that is to be witnessed in and around the legislative headquarters that they have established here.

STATE PRESIDENT TO PUSH QUESTION.

Mrs. Minnie Fisher Cunningham, state president, who opened the headquarters several days ago, will remain constantly on the ground throughout the session or until the subject of submitting the amendment is entirely disposed of.

Upon the walls of the headquarters room of the organization are banners and pennants which portray in terse sentences some of the things for which the women, by granting them their right to vote stand for. These include such concise inscriptions as the following:

"Mother's Vote Protects the Home;" "Home Problems—Health, Pure Food, Pure Milk and Water Supply, Cost of Living, Schools, Sanitation," all of which are sought to be brought about through the votes of women. "Better Babies" is also another slogan of the organization.

It is planned that the representatives of the different local equal suffrage organizations of the state shall take turn about in assisting in the legislative work in Austin, each visiting delegations to remain a week or so. Among those who arrived Friday to put in the coming week here are Mrs. T. E. Armstrong of Dallas, president, and Mrs. Sherin Bonner, secretary of the Dallas organization; Mrs. Helen Moore of Texas City, congressional chairman of the state organization; Miss Kate Hunter, first vice president of the state organization, and Mrs. E. S. Maury of San Antonio, Mrs. R. L. Sanford, secretary of organization of the San Antonio Equal Franchise society, arrived here Monday and will remain for some little time assisting in legislative headquarters work. She gave an enthusiastic account of the growth of the woman suffrage movement in the San Antonio territory. She said that the San Antonio society has about 1,000 members and that they have been engaged for some time in waging a very active campaign in the interest of equal suffrage.

MANY MEMBERS IN SOUTH TEXAS.

As a result of these efforts the growth of active membership of the local organizations of the state has been little short of marvelous. The educational work of the cause is conducted by means of visits which organized teams of five members each belonging to the San Antonio organization. These workers visit towns in the San Antonio territory each week, making the trip by automobile that carries a banner with the words "Suffrage Special." By these excursions it is found that an interest in the movement is readily awakened and that much lasting good is thereby accomplished. Usually on the first trip of the "Suffrage Special" a street meeting is held and this preliminary work is followed by a meeting of the women of the town who organize and enlist their services for the good of the cause.

Army Captain Is Given Lighter Sentence

By Associated Press.

Washington, Jan. 13.—The sentence of dismissal from the army imposed by courtmartial recently at Fort Worden, Wash., of Capt. William F. C. Jepson, fourteenth infantry, has been commuted by President Wilson to a loss of twenty numbers in the lineal list of captains. The captain was found guilty of fraud in the handling of quartermaster's supplies.

NOT A PARTICLE OF DANDRUFF OR A FALLING HAIR

25-CENT "DANDERINE" MAKES HAIR THICK, GLOSSY, WAVY AND BEAUTIFUL.

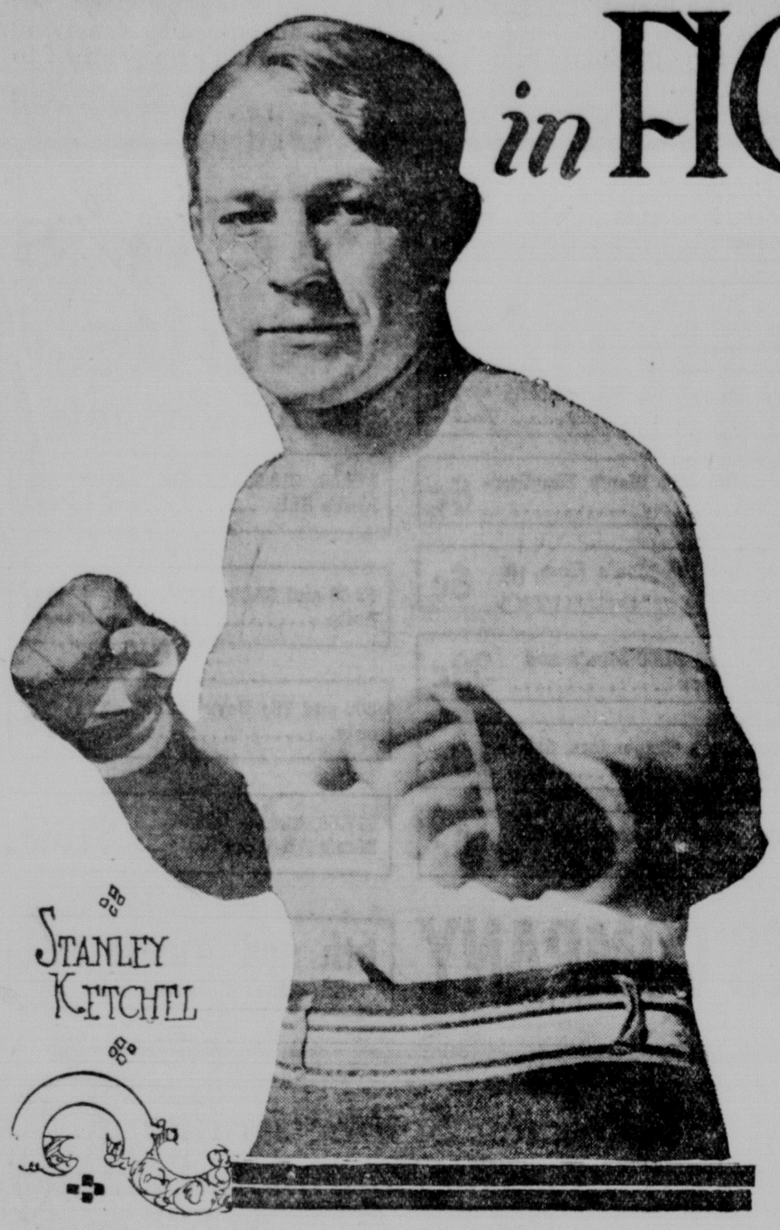

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you sure can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine.

The LIVING FLAME in FIGHTERS

THERE have been many theories advanced along eugenic lines, but few have taken the specimen of perfect woman or perfect man and analyzed the laws of nature that produced the perfect one. There have been many athletes of many different types. Good health and training naturally tend to breed a good disposition. The prize fighter, however, has fighting blood, a living flame, if he is of the first class. The successful fighter must have more than a perfect physique. He must have the fighting heart.

One question is asked here and Sheridan has answered it with intimate knowledge. The question is: Will the son of a perfect mother and father, if born of love that is as perfect as the parents are physically, be an exceptional specimen—in spirit, physique and youthfulness?

Sheridan has gone into the past to answer, and the man he chose as an example, fits the question to a dot.

BY J. B. SHERIDAN.

"HIS mother was but 15 when she bore him, and he was a living flame."

So wrote Richard Barry in his story of Stanley Ketchel, the fiercest of all the fighting men that have graced, or disgraced, Fistiana. Ketchel was the boy who knew nothing but fight. From the moment the bell rang to mark the making of a round, to the moment it clanged to mark its finish, Ketchel did nothing but swing blows as a Catherine wheel swings sparks.

He never backed up a foot in his ring career. He feared no man. He knew but one way to travel, and that was forward. He was the Excelsior of the prize ring. It was onward, ever onward, with Stanislas Kiecal, known in the ring as Stanley Ketchel.

He was the fighting man of all time. Great battlers have gone before him, men who knew neither fret nor fear when in the lists, but Ketchel outshone them all. There have been dour battling men who have fought fiercely and sourly, who loved battle as a boar loves mast, men who gluttonized in gore. There have been men like Battling Nelson, who loved fight and who loved more the money that went with fight. There has been men like Sullivan, who loved to triumph and then bask on the warm sunshine of public adoration.

There have been men like Fitzsimmons, who have, with a high mind, liked to fight. Corbett, too, and McCoy, chaps liked to deceive and dent opponents; men who delighted in the craft of the ring and who smiled as they deceived and hurt an opponent. There has been the bellicose Sharkey, a berserker right, a raging bear, a lover of battle, with a canny eye in the back of his head for the almighty dollar.

All these there have been, and then in a class by himself, Stanley Ketchel, "The Living Flame." Maybe it was because he was born of the flush of his girl-mother youth that made Ketchel the very impersonation of the spirit of youth. He was the boy eternal. Life for him was one great, glad, glorious day. He lived a lot in his three and twenty years. All he thought of was living. He was like "plain Michel Ney," the prince of the Borodino, the "bravest of the brave."

There were brave men before Ney, men just as brave. There have been brave men since, but there have been few men who took such blazing, boyish joy in the touch and smurch of battle as the marshal, of whom it has been said that he could not plan a campaign, of even a battle, but could, better than any man of his wide and spacious days, fight the battle planned by another.

That was Ketchel. He did not think about fighting when he was not fighting. He could not plan fights. Some one else had to do that for him. Once engaged in battle, he was the very darling of the soul of Mars. He cheered and sang and joyed in the conflict. The batter of gloves, the stress of clinch, the patter of breathlessly striving feet, the strain of hardly tried lungs, the pounding of wrought and dilated hearts was music celestial to the soul of this foundling Polish boy in whom truly lived the spirit of fire and sword.

Worked as a Man at 15.

HE WAS bred in daring and in bravery, swaddled in endurance and suckled in song. His mother was but 15 years old. She was without a qualm or a fear. She was but a poor Polish immigrant and she had not counted the cost. She did not look into the future and ask what it held for her son. She was so young that all the world looked bright and gay. In that spirit Stanislas Kiecal was born and bred. Small wonder that he was a "living flame" in his short life a living epitome of the "fair land of Poland."

Born at Grand Rapids, Mich.; taken to Butte, Mont., then back to Michigan, and of his own will back to Butte, Ketchel was "on his own" when he was a lad of 14. Even at that early age he undertook a man's work, just as fifteen years before, his girl-mother took upon her young shoulders the event of motherhood. It did not run in the blood to fear the world. Had not Poland long lived through fire and sword? Who fearing fire or the sword could have lived through the ages of Turk and Teuscher, Magyar and mujik, that in turn visited the fair land of Poland.

At 15 Ketchel was holding a man's job in the smelters; the smelters, whose smoke is so vicious that no green leaf, or no green grass, or no green thing of any sort lives in the borough of Butte. He was put shoveling the burning, vile-smelling refuse of the furnaces into flat cars. His work demanded that he should labor on both sides of the car, that is, shovel slag from the left and right sides. This was hard work, but it made him that most desirable of all things in a ring, a two-handed fighter, a man to whom either hand is right; a man who can punch or fend with the one hand just as well as with the other. Most men are one-handed and carry their knock-out punch, if they have one, in the right. Ketchel "packed" a knock-out punch in either hand.

He had been a cowboy before he had become a laborer in the smelters. He loved horses. Better still, he loved music. It was his love of music that led him to be a prize fighter. Had he lived under fairer conditions Stanley Ketchel might have been a great orchestral leader, maybe a great composer. He had in him the living flame that burns so brightly in all composing and poetical bosoms. He might have been another Chopin, another Mozart, another Tschaikowsky or another Wagner.

Bred to arms, he might have been another Kosciusko, or another Poniatowski. His mother was not thinking of these great things when, at 15, she brought the boy into this world. In his 23 years he lived a lot of life, and in his way shot across the firmament as bright a meteor as any human of them all.

Loving music, he would follow the shrill of a fife or the tinkle of a piano all day long. Being a smelter hand in Butte, where was he to find the music that his soul craved? Only in the dance halls open to the miners and their clan.

Love of music took Stanley Ketchel to these dance halls of youth. He would hang around the halls clad in his overalls and fetch and carry for the whisky-worn "professor" who banged the keys of the tinpannies, known as the pianos in the dance halls. All that he begged was a chance to touch the keys. He was happy if between times, early in the morning when the dance was done, he was permitted to sit upon the stool and laboriously pick out the scales on the piano.

Runs Into a Fight.

THIS passion dwelt wtih him to his dying day. There never was a time during the training before his fights or during the wild wassails that followed them, that Ketchel would not break away from his sparring partner or from his dancing partner, to slide upon the stool and pick out the scales upon the piano.

Hanging about the dance halls of Butte he ran into a terrific battle. A trio of cowboys were "seeing the town." They came into the hall where Ketchel stood and proceeded to make a waiter dance by the ancient and well-worn device of shooting close to his toes. Ketchel came into the room. He saw what was being done and removed his coat. Then he approached the cowboys with the intention of whipping all three at once.

The cowmen were game and had knightly ideas of their own. They would not think of ganging against a kid. So they let the largest and boldest man among them tackle Ketchel. That champion endured but a moment. There was a panther-like leap on the part of the 16-year-old boy, a snake-like darting forth of the arm and the first cowboy was done. It required but a moment to dispose of his fellows. In all it took Ketchel very little more time to whip them in details than en masse. In much less time than it takes to tell of it, the cowboys were beaten, the hall was cleared, the waiter had regained his breath, his hair fell flat on his head and the dance went on.

This accomplishment won Ketchel no small meed of fame in Butte. The owner of the dance hall made him his "bouncer." It was Ketchel's business to see that peace was kept in that dance hall. It is recounted that, despite his love of battle, he kept that peace.

His first fight in the ring was with Kid Tracey, when Ketchel was just 16 years old.

In 1905, Ketchel won eleven battles by the knockout route before a crack man, Jack (Twin) Sullivan held him to a twenty-round draw. In 1907 he won nine straight battles by the knockout route. No man drew with or defeated him in that year.

* * *

Ketchel's Victories.

THE year of 1907 found Ketchel fighting the first-fighters. He beat George Brown in three rounds, knocked out the great Joe Thomas in twelve rounds, beat Thomas, the toughest of the welterweights in twenty rounds, and then fought the same Thomas a twenty-round draw. Ketchel had but four fights in 1907. Three of these were with Thomas, who had been deemed unbeatable at welterweight.

In 1907, Ketchel began to go great. He whipped Mike (the other twin) Sullivan in one round and three months later disposed of Brother Jack in twenty rounds. He leaped into the middleweight class and beat the bold Billy Papke in twelve rounds. He then knocked out the tough Hugo Kelly, a middleweight champion, in three rounds, and beat Joe Thomas to the floor in two rounds. On September 8, Ketchel met with his first defeat. Papke knocked him out in twelve rounds. Two months later, the unterrified Ketchel knocked out Papke in eleven rounds.

Ketchel waded through them all in 1908 until he met Jack Johnson. Then, after a terrific battle of twelve rounds, the Pole received the second and last knockout of his life. He weighed 170 pounds and stood 5 feet 8 1-12 inches tall, to the 225 pounds of bone and muscle and the 6 feet 2 inches of the negro giant. Ketchel, as was his wont, carried battle to the big man.

Ketchel was anything and everything but a careful fighter. Care formed no part of his nature. When he saw the negro prostrate and dazed, his only idea was to go on. When the negro staggered to his feet, Ketchel was upon him like a panther. Johnson had one punch left. He landed it on Ketchel's chin and "The Living Flame" went down and out. Only for the needed 10 seconds, though. At the expiration of that time he was up again and begging for fight, but, under the rules, knocked out.

It had been a glorious fight for Ketchel. He was outweighed by 50 pounds. This fight hurt Ketchel badly. He could not bear to lose and to lose to a negro stung him to the very soul. Though he did fairly well in the following year, the last of the twenty-three he was to spend on earth, Ketchel was never the same boy after this defeat by Johnson that he had been prior to that calamity. He boxed Frank Klaus and Sam Langford two no-decision bouts and whipped Porky Flynn, Jim Smith and Willie Lewis in punches. His match with Smith, fought on June 10, 1910, was his last in the arena.

Life is hard on "living flames." They start out burning brightly and, for a time, set their little part of the world afire. Yet the world is as easy to set on fire as a wet water dog. He who sets the world on fire makes of himself an ever-flaming torch. In the end the torch burns out before the world is even singed.

So it was with Stanislas Kiecal. He was well burnt out when in October, 1910, he went to the Missouri Ozarks to take his vacation and was shot in a quarrel with a farmhand over the favors of a young woman. He had lived many lives in his 23 years. He was a man at 14. He had defeated giants of trained athletes when he was 16. Then he took hold of life as he saw it and lived a year in every day.

* * *

When the great day dawns and the dead arise and come to judgment, it is a good bet that the first to answer the call, with a cheer and a bound, will be Stanislas Kiecal, "The Living Flame."

Current Events in Woman's Sphere

MRS. LILLIE DONNELL STRAIN, EDITOR
1110 South Fifth St. Telephone 3467

The Press Club.

The Press club will meet on Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock with Mrs. J. W. Carroll, 603 North Seventeenth street.

Mrs. M. B. Willis Calls Meeting.

As president, Mrs. M. B. Willis calls meeting of the executive board of the Methodist federation at her home, 617 South Fourth, for Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Current Event Club.

The secretary of the Current Event club, Mrs. J. H. Hutcherson, makes announcement that the meeting of the club for this week will be with Mrs. J. H. Sturgis, 1416 Washington, rather than with Mrs. J. H. Mackey as previously announced.

With Mrs. A. C. Patton Next Friday.

The Social circle of the First Presbyterian church will have a silver tea at the residence of Mrs. A. C. Patton 1214 Austin avenue, Friday, January 19, from four to six o'clock. Everybody invited to come.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Noyes.

Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Armstrong invited Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Hale and Mr. and Mrs. George McLendon for dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Noyes who were their guests while in the city for Mr. Noyes' lecture engagement at Baylor university.

Mrs. W. O. Wilkes Concerning Parent-Teachers' Association.

It is announced by Mrs. W. O Wilkes, president of the Parent-Teachers' association, that at their next meeting in the high school auditorium, which will be on the last Wednesday of this month, January 31, Myron T. Kessner, supervisor of the Dallas playgrounds, will deliver at three o'clock an address on "How to Play."

Provident Heights Parent-Teachers' Association.

The Parent-Teachers' association of Provident Heights school met Friday. Mrs. E. C. Trent's resignation was followed by the appointment of Mrs. P. J. Connally to succeed her as secretary. It was decided at this meeting that the mothers would serve hot lunches to the children on Tuesdays and Fridays. Miss Minnie Rogers will conduct at next meeting, the first lesson on the "Study of Child Nature."

Notes From the Art League.

Mrs. O. L. Stribling as chairman is actively engaged in increasing the membership of the Art league and feels much encouragement in the fact that twelve from among the San Souci pledged to membershin last week, and Mrs. W. W. Early secured four additional members from the Domestic Science club. All clubs of the city are now to be canvassed for Art league members with the expectation of accomplishing greater things in future for Waco in the art line.

Mrs. H. C. Black for Mrs. Hardesty.

To afford friends the pleasure of an afternoon with Mrs. Irving Hardesty of New Orleans, Mrs. H. C. Black invited Mesdames Susan Downs, Jerry Early, W. H. Talley, Walter Cocke, William Meade, William Sleeper, Misses Cora Lee Jennings and Pauline Carrington for tea in her cozy parlors. Mrs. Hardesty's home visits are always the inspiration for assembling groups of congenial friends and the gathering with Mrs. Black was just a tribute of friendship. As a matron Mrs. Hardesty's popularity is just as pronounced when as Miss Annie Kiniard, she was so general a favorite.

Y. W. C. A. Notes.

Attention is called by Mrs. R. B. Spencer to the annual election of Y. W. C. A. directors for next Friday evening at eight o'clock. There are more than 2,000 Y. W. C. A. members and every member who cannot be present at this meeting is urged by the board of directors to go and cast a vote in a ballot box now arranged for this purpose at the Y. W. C. A.

Opportunity is now afforded at the Y. W. C. A. for those desiring instruction to join very interesting classes in millinery and dressmaking.

Mrs. Grace Wigley is calling a committee meeting at the Y. W. C. A. for Monday afternoon at two o'clock to complete arrangements for the annual membership party.

Miss Pearl Mayfield for Bunco Club.

Mrs. William Green of North Fifth street entertained with a bunco party for her niece, Miss Pearl Mayfield. Delightful refreshments served on bamboo trays and pretty decorations gave added pleasure to the guests. The club and guest prizes were handpainted vases, and a puff box. They were captured by Mesdames James Moore, Catney and M. L. Snell. Enjoying the afternoon were Mesdames William C. Green, Walsh, Snell, Moore, Hicks, Cathey, Lawrence Hall, J. K. Lewis, King Abernathy, Misses Julia Murphy, Mary Mayfield, Josephine Torrence, Vera Currier, Thera Sewell, Pearl Warner, Catherine Mayfield and Frances Proctor.

Mrs. Lon Brooks of California Hostess.

Mrs. J. W. Carroll opened her home for the first time since her recent bereavement, for an afternoon musical, given complimentary to Mrs. Lon Brooks of California, now a popular visitor in the city. This was not an elaborate affair, but was most delightful. A program of music was given by the talented musicians included in invitation. A delightful salad plate was a pleasing finale to the hours for Mrs. Lon Brooks of California, and Mesdames Gaylord Bebout, J. N. McFarland, T. N. McMullin, Howard Mann, Hutchings, A. M. Martin, D. J. Byars, Charles Atkins, G. J. Rousseau, Guy Witt of San Antonio, Misses Sallie Keith, Minnie Johnston and Juanita Smith. The hostess and Miss Lewine were the accompanists for the afternoon.

Social Session with Mrs. J. W. Holloway.

The first social session for this year of the Austin Avenue Missionary society came Friday in the home of Mrs. J. W. Holloway. More than one hundred were in attendance to enjoy the musical numbers of Mrs. Guy Harrison and Miss Pauline Crawley. The work being done by the society was represented by little Bertha Seat, who, dressed as a poster, portrayed the Study Book or Missionary Voice, the Bible and the Year Book of the society, who are pledged to love, care for and develop this child, who in turn introduced twelve of her playmates, each dressed in a costume to represent a different field of work that is receiving help from the Missionary society. New members were welcomed. Mesdames J. O. Jackson and S. C. Gage poured tea and sandwiches were served. The officers of the society received with Mrs. Holloway, the hostess.

Mrs. Ben K. Jennings Club Hostess.

The Friday Bridge club met with Mrs. Ben K. Jennings who entertained them in the gold room of the Hotel Raleigh. In compliment to Mrs. Zoe Mitchell's niece, Mrs. O. L. Davis of Trinidad, Colo., now a charming visitor in the city, three extra tables of players enjoyed the hours with the club. The club prize, a unique set of table pencils for bridge parties, fell to Mrs. J. S. Hill, parafait glasses went as guest prize for top score, to Mrs. George Zizinia, the consolation cut favored Mrs. Reeves Halsey with a black and white tea pot and a pretty piece of lingerie was presented by the hostess to Mrs. Davis, the honoree.

Mrs. William Sleeper Pours Tea.

An invitation into the Sleeper home is always an assurance of pleasure, but when the hostess names so charming an honoree as Mrs. Charles Langhorn of Richmond, Va., the pleasure is doubled. Thus it was that the hours of Thursday were whiled so delightfully with Mrs. William Sleeper and Miss Ada Risher, who poured tea for Mrs. Langhorn, including the close friends of the honoree. Mrs. Lucy Starr Grider presided over a table handsomely set with silver service and fragrant with fresh blooms. The tempting refreshment plate was passed by Misses Anne Risher, Alethia Sleeper and Olive Halbert.

This was an early January courtesy to be recalled by Mrs. Langhorn when she returns to her Virginia home.

With Mr. and Mrs. Lee Younce.

Complimenting Misses Lola Lankford, Bertha Copeland and Pauline Woodall, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Younce entertained a score of guests in their home on Friday with games and music. Flowers were prettily arranged to grace the home and refreshments were enjoyed by Misses Bertha Lankford, Lola Lankford, Pauline Woodall, Pauline Roberts, Leign Roberts, Ludile Masters, Essie Lankford, Bertha Copeland, Willie Bell Daniels, Maurine Nichols, Ruby Wilson, Lucile Wilson, Bessie Dobbins, Annie Lester, Zoe Pierce, Kate Hill, Willie May Burk, Lillian Buster and Annie May Smith; Messrs. Buel Johnson, Robert Thomas, William Stanton, Leslie Talbert, Fred Lee, Sam Rayburn, Paul Mabrey, English Barnes, Floyd Eason, Forest Buchanan, Hail, Rollo Morris, Bill Copeland, Wade Starnes, C. B. McLaughlin, Jesse Derrick, Ed Bowman, Kercum and Smith.

An Evening With Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Darden.

Before the marriage of Miss Annie Kinnard to Dr. Irving Hardesty, instructor of anatomy in Tulane university, she was one of the efficient teachers of the Waco high school, together with Misses Bell Edmond, Nellie Mullens, Annie Forsgard, Marie Leslie and Mrs. W. E. Darden was the able principal. In remembrance of those days, the home visit of Mrs. Hardesty, now of New Orleans, was the inspiration for Mr. and Mrs. Darden to assemble within their hospitable home the above named teachers who were so congenial, also Miss Le Tellier and Miss Grace Prather, members of the Darden household. The hours sped quickly in recalling other days and in the enjoyment of having Mrs. Hardesty again with them.

Mrs. Darden provided a most palatable refreshment plate for her guests which came at conclusion of a very delightful evening. This is numbered

Waco Representatives Will Go to Beaumont Meeting on Railroad

While it has not yet been definitely decided by the Chamber of Commerce who shall be sent to Beaumont, it is a settled fact that one or more persons will be sent to that place January 18 to attend the annual meeting of the Beaumont Chamber of Commerce, the intention being to make the Waco-Beaumont railroad the chief consideration at this meeting.

Telegrams have been sent to Beaumont assuring the Chamber of Commerce representatives there that Waco will be represented, and it is understood that it is planned to give the project a big boost on that occasion.

The outcome of this annual meeting will be awaited with interest in Waco.

Two Reformed.

Mr. Curran and Mr. McManus spent their Saturday half holiday in artistic pursuits. Among the objects examined was a fine new public building. The feature of this building that appealed most strongly to Mr. Curran was an inscription cut into a huge stone.

"MDCCCXLVIII," he replied aloud. "What does them letters mane, Tim?"

"That," replied cultured Mr. McManus, "stands for 1898."

"Oh," replied Mr. Curran. Then, after a thoughtful pause, he added: "Don't yez think, Tim, that they're overdoin' this spellin' reform a bit?"—New York Times.

CHRISTINE MILLER TO SING IN WACO FRIDAY

PRIVATE HEARING WILL BE GIVEN AT AUDITORIUM BY EMINENT CONTRALTO.

A number of prominent musicians and music lovers have received cards of introduction to a private hearing to be given by Christine Miller, the eminent American contralto, at the Auditorium theater next Friday night. This charming artist has risen to great popularity on the concert stage through sheer ability and personality, and has achieved a remarkable success for one of her years. She has appeared as soloist with the Boston Handel and Hayden society at a number of occasions with the New York Oratorio society, the Toronto choir, the Chicago Apollo club, Pittsburgh Mozart, the Boston Symphony, the New York Symphony, Chicago Symphony, Cincinnati Symphony, Minneapolis Symphony orchestra as well as in many of the important musical festivities.

Miss Miller was selected as the representative American artist to illustrate at San Francisco on Edison day, October 21, the success which Mr. Edison has attained in his research work in accoustics and toward the re-creation of sound without distortion.

Miss Miller was present at the Auditorium the same interesting series of scientific experiments and comparisons of tone values that were presented by her in San Francisco. Miss Miller will be assisted by Arthur Walsh, a capable violinist who comes from the Edison laboratory to assist in these experiments.

Will Make Efforts to Raise the Episcopal Pension Fund Today

Waco's contribution to the pension fund of the Episcopal clergy will be made today when a campaign for this purpose is conducted between the hours of 2 and 5:30 o'clock among the members of the Episcopal church of the city.

Rev. W. P. Witsell, rector of St. Paul's, is anxious for Waco to raise a minimum of $5,000, and efforts will be made to do this. More than a score of men will go out in the whirlwind effort to raise the amount.

Bishop George H. Kinsolving will be here from Austin, and will preach this morning and perhaps tonight, and will as far as possible aid in the movement to add Waco's quota to the nationwide campaign to raise $5,000,000 for the purpose mentioned.

Pierce-Dossey.

A. Q. Pierce of Waco and Miss Julia Dossey of Denison were married yesterday morning at 9 o'clock in Fort Worth. Miss Dossey had been living in Waco for the past six months.

MRS. BOISSEVAIN, SUFFRAGE MARTYR, AN INSPIRATION FOR STATUE BY PAUL SWAN

Swan's statue of Mrs. Boissevain.

"Forward out of error,
Leave behind the night;
Forward through the darkness,
Forward into light."

The above little four-lined poem embodies the whole sentiment of this carefully moulded and most expressive statue of Inez Milholland Boissevain, the suffragist who died while fighting for the cause.

The figure is by Paul Swan, sculptor, painter and dancer. In his studio he has many works of art fashioned by his own hand—statues, paintings and other treasures. Paul Swan is known principally for his graceful dancing, but only a few people know him as an artist.

Many prominent suffragists who knew Mrs. Boissevain have expressed great interest in this symbolic statue. Some who have seen it claim for it the personification of Mrs. Boissevain's life and ideals.

WACO ATTORNEYS HAVE CHANCE AT JUDGESHIP.

Waco's attorneys will have a chance for judgeships.

Speaking of the benefits to be derived locally from the court, County Judge James P. Alexander said:

"This court would mean much to everybody in Waco. It would mean that from eight to ten attorneys from points outside the city would come here every week and stop at the hotels; there would be three judges, clerks and attendants who would reside here, and briefs would be prepared, making work for the printing offices and others. Litigants would come to Waco and would engage Waco lawyers to handle their business in many cases, and the establishment of the court would mean that Waco would be made more of a legal center."

The Membership of Our 1917 Christmas Savings Club

WILL SOON BE COMPLETE

Since we know that Christmas always arrives on time and as so many are unprepared to meet the financial obligations that season always put upon us—why not do a little systematic saving this year—put a little by each week—an amount that will hardly be missed—and the size of the check we'll send you just before Christmas will be a pleasant surprise to you. It will enable you to remember your friends and loved ones in the way you'd really like to do it, and will make the coming Christmas an altogether enjoyable one—a Christmas on which you'll do the things you want to do without either financial strain or contracting debts. Remember, our membership is nearly complete, so you'd best come in and get it started at once.

ROOM WILL BE MADE IF NEW COURT CIVIL APPEALS COMES HERE

Room will be provided in the McLennan county court house for the new court of civil appeals in case Waco secures this court, and also the furnishings, library and other needed things will be furnished, it was decided at a joint meeting yesterday afternoon of the county commissioners and directors of the Waco Chamber of Commerce.

The county commissioners only agreed, however, to furnish the room in the court house for the court, judges and attaches, the library, vault and things of that character. Other matters will be handled by the Chamber of Commerce.

The joint meeting of the commissioners and Chamber of Commerce directors was made possible through County Judge J. P. Alexander calling the commissioners together for this purpose.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE COMMITTEE IS PRESENT.

Present for the Chamber of Commerce were J. M. Penland, E. F. Drake, J. J. Powers, Dr. J. J. Deane, W. G. Lacy, R. J. Windrow and C. P. Link. These men, with County Judge Alexander, the commissioners, Representative Newt B. Williams and others, examined the space in the court house.

The commissioners were all in favor of the proposition, and after looking the building over it was decided that it would be feasible to use at least one-half of the fourth floor of the building, and that space for the jurymen could be arranged elsewhere. The room on the fourth floor will do well for the judges, clerks, private offices for the judges, etc. Room for the library can be provided.

As to furnishings for the court room, and the placing of a law library in the building, this will have to be provided for by the Chamber of Commerce and other agencies of the city, which will be done if the court is secured. If the court is created and located in Waco it will make the ninth court of this character in Texas.

WOMAN LAWYER IS TO BE ASSISTANT ATTORNEY GENERAL OF ILLINOIS

Miss Jeannette Bates, woman lawyer of Ardmore, Ill., and village attorney in that town, has just accepted a position as assistant attorney general of Illinois. She is the second woman in the United States to have such a position. She is a capable attorney. Her hobbies are children, gardens and preserves.

DEDICATION OF FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH WILL BE THIS MORNING

Money having been pledged with which to clear the First Presbyterian church of all debt, it was decided by Dr. C. T. Caldwell and the membership that the church located at Eleventh and Austin streets, should be dedicated today. There also will be a fellowship meeting tonight which is expected to prove of interest.

Rev. Dr. S. A. King, who was pastor of this church for forty years, reached Waco yesterday and will be among those present at the dedicatory services this morning. The sermon will be preached by Rev. John V. McCall of Hillsboro at 11 o'clock. At this service there will be in attendance four daughters of Dr. S. A. King, who was pastor of the church when it was located on Austin street between Eighth and Ninth streets, these daughters being Mrs. H. A. Wilson, Cincinnati, Ohio; Mrs. F. A. Barnes, Mooreville, N. C.; Mrs. A. M. Gribble, Austin, and Mrs. P. H. Burney of Turnersville, Texas. At the morning service the choir will sing, "Lift Up Your Heads, O Ye Gates." This will be under the supervision of Prof. Jack W. Parnum.

At the fellowship meeting at night Dr. Caldwell said yesterday there would be short talks by several visiting Presbyterian ministers, these probably including Dr. S. A. King of Austin, Rev. John V. McCall of Hillsboro, Rev. Robert Gribble of Austin, Rev. Julian Sleeper of McGregor and Rev. J. J. Grier of Waco. The congregation of Rev. J. J. Grier will attend the night service in large numbers, as there will be no service at the Second Presbyterian church. Both services are expected to be interesting.

Getting Too Fat? Try This—Reduce

People who don't grow too fat are the fortunate exception. But if you find the fat accumulating or already cumbersome, you will be wise to follow this suggestion, which is endorsed by thousands of people who know. Ask your druggist (or if you prefer write to the Marmola Co., 864 Woodward ave., Detroit, Mich.) for a large case of Marmola Prescription Tablets. 75c is the price the world over. By doing this you will be save from harmful drugs and be able to reduce two, three or four pounds a week without dieting or exercise.

If you, my sister, are unhappy because of ill-health, if you feel unfit for household duties, social pleasures, or daily employment, write and tell me just how you suffer, and ask for my free ten days' trial of a home treatment suited to your needs. Men cannot understand women's sufferings. What we women know from experience, we know better than any man. I want to tell you how to cure yourself at home at a cost of about 12 cents a week.

If you suffer from women's peculiar ailments causing pain in the head, back, or bowels, feeling of weight and dragging down sensation, falling or displacement of pelvic organs, causing kidney and bladder weakness or constipation and piles, painful or irregular periods, catarrhal conditions and discharges, extreme nervousness, depressed spirits, melancholy, desire to cry, fear of something evil about to happen, creeping feeling along the spine, palpitation, hot flashes, weariness, sallow complexion with dark circles under the eyes, pain in the left breast or a general feeling that life is not worth living,

I INVITE YOU TO SEND TODAY FOR MY FREE TEN DAYS' TREATMENT

and learn how these ailments can be easily and surely conquered at home without the dangers and expense of an operation. When you are cured, and able to enjoy life again, you can pass the good word along to some other sufferer. My home treatment is for young or old. To Mothers of Daughters, I will explain how to overcome green sickness (chlorosis), irregularities, headaches, and lassitude in young women and restore them to plumpness and health. Tell me if you are worried about your daughter. Remember it costs you nothing to give my home treatment a ten days' trial, and does not interfere with daily work. If health is worth asking for, then accept my generous offer and write for the free treatment, including my illustrated booklet, "Women's Own Medical Adviser." I will send all in plain wrappers postpaid. To save time, you can cut out this offer, mark your feelings, and return to me. Send today, as you may not see this offer again. Address,

AUTOMOBILE NEWS

Announcement Extraordinary

It is with the greatest of pleasure that we announce to the public the fact that we are distributors for the NASH line of cars for the following counties: McLennan, Bell, Falls, Coryell, Bosque, Hill, Limestone, Milam, Hamilton and Navarro.

Already some of the live dealers in this territory can realize what the NASH line would mean to them, and how much more convenient it will be for them to have a distributing point in Waco rather than Dallas or Fort Worth. There are likely very few dealers in this entire territory but what would rather have the NASH line than any other six-cylinder line on the market.

For the benefit of those who may not be entirely familiar with the history of Mr. C. W. Nash, we will say he is one of the three biggest men in the automobile industry of today. You have heard of Henry Ford; also of John N. Willys, because their names are connected in a way with the cars they build. You have often heard of the Buick car; well, when you hear of the Buick you hear of Mr. Nash, as he has been the head of that great factory for a number of years, and it was he that built up the great popularity and reputation the Buick now has. He was the man behind the gun, and had the Buick car been known as the Nash car, the name of Nash would be a household word; and we can assure you that it soon will be, and the owner of one of these cars will point with great pride to the NASH nameplate, and the dealer who is fortunate enough to secure this agency will feel that it is second to none, and can always figure it as an important asset.

We took the NASH distributing agency because we knew what a great man he is; we knew of his great success in the past; we knew he had always taken great pride in building nothing but good cars; we knew he had never failed in any of his undertakings; we also knew that his past experience of such wide range would be of great assistance to him in building a car that would be an improvement over anything else he has ever built—and realizing all these things to the fullest extent, we ask, where is the man who would not be proud to own one of these cars, and where is the dealer who would not consider himself fortunate in securing this agency and who would not prefer it to any other six-cylinder line?

An Opportunity for Live Dealers in the Nash Agency

It is our intention to select good dealers from each of the above counties. It cannot be secured by simply answering this advertisement. It is far too valuable to give out promiscuously. You know how valuable an agency contract has been for the car he has been building, and you can easily see how this can still be a more valuable one. The territory allotted each dealer will be larger, which will also add to the value of the NASH contract. It will NOT be necessary for the NASH dealer to make unprofitable deals to find an outlet for his cars; it will NOT be necessary for him to get out and "SELL" every NASH car he gets; a great many of them will be sold before they reach him. The demand has already been created; it is up to you to convince us that you are the right kind of a dealer, and then the territory is yours.

We feel that we can interest the best dealers in our territory for the reasons already mentioned and from the fact that the factory purchased by Mr. Nash at an expenditure of $9,000,000, with over 100 acres floor space, is one of the finest equipped factories in the entire country. So with this wonderful equipment in the hands of a man like Mr. Nash, there is nothing left to fear about his product not being one of the leading cars in America. It will be well for all live dealers to get in touch with us at once, while the territory is unallotted, and be ready for the spring business. If you are a progressive dealer and want to improve your opportunities, now is your chance to get an agency that will be very much sought after, and one that will be unequaled in many ways. We expect to be in our new home at Ninth and Austin Sts., in the new Primm building by February 15th, and until that time you can find Mr. Brown at the Auto Dept. of the Herrick Hardware Co.

Look out for another announcement of our four-cylinder line in the near future. We have a great surprise in store for you.

Auto Is Helping to Upbuild City

The automobile has been one of the causes of the rapid development of Waco. Each week brings in several hundred cars from nearby points—and some from points as far as thirty or thirty-five miles. These cars bring pleasure-seekers and shoppers who spend their money in Waco.

Good roads have been a boon to the city. They also have been a boon to the rural districts and have done wonders for the farmer. Without them it would be hard for the many cars to make the trips to Waco and in return in just an hour or two. Many persons who purchase motor cars immediately begin to look to Waco to do their buying of merchandise. The car gives them a chance to purchase articles from different stores and return to their homes conveniently taking their packages with them.

Waco theatres also get many persons living in this and adjacent countries. The automobile allows the rural theatre-goer to attend the theatre and at the conclusion of the performance motor home in a jiffy.

WHAT DOES SPEND IN WACO?

How much money does the tourist who lives near Waco but outside of the city limits spend in Waco each week? Five dollars was the estimate given by one merchant, three by another and seven by another. Using five dollars per week for the figures, each autoist spends annually in Waco approximately $260. In and near Waco including small points that are in easy reach of the city with the assistance of the good road and automobile, there are aproximately three thousand cars. Then if each of these three thousand motorists spend $260 annually in Waco—this means a years expenditure of $780,000. This money is mostly attracted to the city by the automobile. Without the car shopping away from home is inconvenient. It is troublesome.

And the estimate of $780,000 being spent in the city yearly by the man with the motor is constantly increasing. During the week preceding the last one which was nothing unusual in the sale of motor cars, forty-two motor vehicles were registered in McLennan county. Of this number sixteen were registered by persons living in points other than Waco. At this rate there are an average of 803 automobiles being registered annually in McLennan county exclusive of the many cars purchased by persons residing in the city. If each of these 803 automobile owners at the end of the year spend five dollars each week in Waco it will mean a weekly expenditure of $4008, or a yearly expenditure of $208,416 which added to the $780,000 estimated to be spent by the tourists who already own cars, the grand total of $988,416—nearing the million dollar mark.

AUTO CONNECTING LINK BETWEEN CITY AND FARM.

The above figures are not erratic but are believed to be conservative estimates. Without the automobile the family living outside of the city limits often finds it inconvenient to attend the theatres or picture shows located in Waco. They find it unhandy to buy their groceries, drugs or clothing from Waco. They do not have to board a train and go to one place—probably not Waco. With the modern car, with McLennan's paved highways, they are offered Waco in which they can do their sight-seeing and shopping.

COTTON PALACE crowds were increased by the tourists who live outside of Waco and in McLennan county. Crowds to many events staged in Waco are increased by the incoming automobiles.

Then the automobile man is doing wonders for Waco. Each car he plants in some locality not many miles from here is causing more money to be spent in Waco and is unbuilding a greater city.

Sport Suits for Tourists.

Strictly tailored sport suits of velveteen, corduroy and medium-weight wool materials are very much worn for touring as well as for town wear with the extra big machine coat over them while riding. Women declare they are much smarter, for dining at wayside hotels or for shopping, than heavy suits. Natty little vests of leather or fansy material add an appreciable bit of protection, especially when worn over the lightweight flannel shirtwaists. The skirts, though close fitting, have ample side pockets which form the trimmings when put on military fashion with buttons.

One-Piece Dresses for Motor Use.

One-piece dresses for motor use are gaining many advocates on account of their extreme comfort. One may wear a short motor corset or even go without a corset and still, with the big, loose wraps worn to match, the gowns and the usual furs look perfectly all right. This means a lot on a long trip. These gowns are not the old-fashioned, untidy-looking affairs that they once were, but are cut on new and becoming models, and the materials used are adapted for the purpose.

Refrigerator Cases Handy for Touring.

Trekking refrigerator cases hold cracked ice enough in the chamber to keep things cold twenty-four hours. There are four one-quart bottles and a food carrier fitted into the case. The case is of basswood, black canvas covered, with convenient carrying straps on the top.

PROGRESS OF AUTO TRADE IS AMAZING, SAYS L. J. OLLIER

"Being a thoroughly dyed-in-the-wool automobile man, I am naturally enthusiasatic about all automobile shows," says L. J. Ollier, vice-president and director of sales of the Studebaker Corporation, who was one of the leading figures representative of the industry at the New York Automobile Show last week. "But," continued Mr. Ollier, "I really think the show at Grand Central Palace was simply wonderful.

"The progress that has been made in the automobile industry, as exemplified by the magnificent displays of the many models at the New York show, was truly amazing. I cannot help but marvel at the changes just a few years have made.

"It was about fifteen years ago that I rode down the streets of Chicago in an automobile of the early type. It rattled and wobbled and made a noise like a truck load of castings, but I was delighted with it. In fact, I saw so much promise in the vehicle that I felt sure of its success, and as a consequence I have been affiliated with automobile manufacturing and selling ever since.

"When the possibilities of the automobile as a factor of modern transportation began to be known, there were thousands of men all over the country who saw millions in it, and without capital or business resources, they commenced to manufacture automobiles with as little fundamental knowledge as they possessed capital.

INSISTENT DEMAND SOLD ANY KIND OF CAR.

"Those were the days when automobile knowledge was not very general. There was an insistent demand for cars, and selling almost any sort of car was easy. We never worried about finding a customer for our cars, such as they were, and I guess we had a dozen buyers waiting for every car we could get from the factory. Then it took a mighty long time to produce a car—in fact, Studebaker produces more cars in one day than all the makers put together used to make in an entire year in those days.

"Today, the average man has a pretty fair working knowledge about automobiles, and year by year, he becomes more critical as his knowledge grows greater. You'll find the average man nowadays talking interestingly about motor efficiency, transmission, differentials and other mechanical parts. It is more a question of the biggest value for his money now and the manufacturer who can produce a car that gives the biggest value to sell the most cars.

"It was not so many years ago when the public figured automobile value on the basis of price alone. They took for granted that the higher the price the better must be the value. Those were the days before quantity production came into vogue, and with it the introduction of increased efficiency methods in the making and distribution of cars.

STUDEBAKER CANNOT SUPPLY INCREASING DEMAND.

"Yet, as I look back over my experience in the automobile field, I find the same conditions existing today as they did then, in one respect. Then, with manufacturers only producing a car or so a month, it was a case of always waiting to make delivery. Now, even with Studebaker's tremendous production of about 100,000 yearly, we find ourselves unable to keep up with the constant public demand for our cars. It has gone from one extreme to the other.

"From what I have seen and heard at the show I am convinced the series 18 Studebaker cars will make motor car history. It is one more Studebaker design that fixes new standards of value—that gives to the public a new conception of motor car worth at popular prices.

"As Studebaker stands today, it is the result of years of concentrated effort on a single basic design by our engineers and designers to produce a car that can compete successfully with any other car for public favor. The fact that the Studebaker was so nearly 100 per cent perfect was brought home to us when we came to plan the Series 18. After studying the situation from every angle, we were forced to the conclusion that, point by point, in construction, power, and quality, the 17 Series Studebaker stod out preeminent as the great value of 1916. It remained then for us to devote our entire thought and effort to improvements and refinements, to make the series 18 more comfortable, more luxurious, and to embody every assential feature of cars in the highest price range.

"While I am enthusiastic, I try at all times to look at the new Studebaker models from the public's angle. And going back into my own experience as a dealer, I can imagine how I would have felt a few years ago with such wonderful cars as the new Series 18 Studebaker to offer the public."

ONLY THREE PUNCTURES ON 3,000 MILE TOUR ON NOTED GOODYEAR TIRES

An interesting tour serving to emphasize those qualities in automobile tires sought after by all motorists, was the one which Goodyear tires have just come through triumphantly—as equipment on a 1916 Hupmobile which has just completed a 3000-mile trip over the worst possible roads through virgin territory.

This time the scene was laid in South Africa, where American cars are rapidly increasing in popular favor, and it all came about in this manner:

At the last Johannesburg automobile show, E. Collins, an exhibitor, bargained with a visitor, little realizing the difficulties to be overcome, to include Piggs Peak, near the eastern African coast, in one of the many tours then being planned.

Accordingly, a party of five made the start from Pretoria in the first automobile tour ever attempted over this route. Road conditions could hardly have been worse. The entire trip was a continual battle with steep grades, bridgeless rivers, trackless heavy sand, stretches of numberless angular boulders, broad belts of ten-foot reeds, slimy river banks and other obstacles.

The nature of the country traversed can best be imagined from the statement that on certain days an average speed of three miles an hour was maintained. Twenty-five miles of the tour were covered over an old transport trail that had been abandoned for twenty years, necessitating frequent use of ax, pick and shovel.

But despite the hardships endured and the thrills experienced, the party expressed themselves amply repaid in the wealth of magnificent scenery and the innumerable varieties of wild animals and birds seen. Quite frequently the roars of lions could be heard. Upon the arrival of the party at their destination they were received by a native police guard of honor and shown every courtesy.

In spite of the 3000 miles of all but impossible country traversed, only three punctures were experienced by the Goodyear tires with which the car originally was fitted and the tour was completed with the tires in practically as good condition as when the trip was started.

"ENGINE" IS NOW PROPER WORD INSTEAD OF "MOTOR"

William Guy Wall, chief engineer of the builders of National twelve and six-cylinder cars, says it will be a hard job to get the public to say "engine" instead of "motor."

But the Society of Automobile Engineers has issued an edict declaring that the term motor has been erroneously applied to the power plant of an automobile and that it should be called engine.

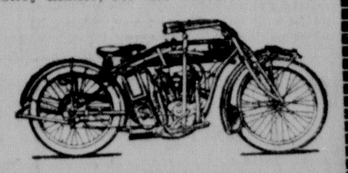

"Literally, a motor is merely a means of transforming a certain type of energy into power, and thus a steam engine might as aptly be termed a motor as a machine operated by electricity.

"But a line must be drawn somewhere, and it has been decided to leave the term 'motor' to the electric field, and to apply 'engine' to the power plant of the car."

NEW YORK AUTOMOBILE SHOW BROUGHT TO END

MOTOR CAR MAKES WONDERFUL DEVELOPMENTS IN RECENT YEARS.

New York, Jan. 13.—Blue prints and greasy gears were no more popular at the seventeenth annual New York automobile show, just closed at Grand Central Palace, than receipts and cooking utensils would be on the table at a "swell" banquet.

The race for popularity among the various cars exhibited soon narrowed itself down to a contest of "good looks" and the attendant attributes that go to make the sum-totaled thing called beauty in motor cars. Taking their cue from what the auto show barometer registered manufacturers expect the coming motor season to be one of a nation-wide favoritism for style and luxury. The manufacturer whose only claim is that of utility will find an unresponsive audience in U. S. A. this year according to these prophets.

MOTOR CAR NOT INTEGRAL PART OF LIFE.

How these engineers reconcile this popular fancy with the fact that an automobile in reality is a composition of machinery is well answered by Geo. M. Dickson, president of the National company at Indianapolis, featuring both six and twelve-cylinder cars: "When the first cars were bought, buyers had to make of themselves a board of judges to decide whether the men who built the cars knew their business. Buying a car then was a risk. Utility was the only measure. There was no latitude to exercise personal tastes. And the motor car was not then an integral part of social life. Today, certain reputable builders have taught the public to measure a car by what it does and not by what it is; by its performance, service, comfort and convenience and not by a technical analysis of its component parts. The public has learned that a car cannot be good unless it is built good and accepts certain trade mark names as guarantee sufficient that it is both. Therefore having at last been relieved of the necessity of graduating from an engineering school in order to safely buy a car, the public has exercised its privilege of searching for new styles, greater luxury and improvements that add to the convenience and comforts of motoring."

PUBLIC FAVOR FOR AMERICAN CARS.

Perhaps the war in Europe is the reason (although American designers claim it would have been so anyway) public favor was shown for the new creations of American builders in preference to the imported designs. American designers have perfected their art and claim that it is an empty fallacy that Europeans are better designers. Just because it comes from Europe, they declare, is no reason that it is better.

Taken as a whole, the manufacturers made more actual sales at the show this year than ever before. Those having the most stylish and up-to-date cars enjoying the greater success in sales.

Light---Glare---Safety

The glare and blinding dazzle of an automobile headlight is a positive menace to the safety of both motorist and pedestrian. That is why such lights are contrary to the law. Furthermore, they are inefficient and wasteful.

Waco, Texas, Nov. 11, 1916.

To Whom It May Concern:

Dear Sir: I take pleasure in advising you that I have made a personal investigation of the workings of the Osgood Autolite Deflector and have approved of the same. In my opinion this device complies fully with the City Ordinance and the requirements of this department relating to the using of headlights for automobiles.

I am using the Osgood lens on my personal car and have found them satisfactory in every instance. It removes the glare and blinding dazzle from the headlight without injuring the efficiency of the light, and furthermore, it throws the light down on the street where it is needed, and not into the faces of pedestrians or other drivers of vehicles. Any car so equipped will be passed by this department. Respectfully,

GUY McNAMARA,

Practical Vulcanizing Hints

D. R. CAIN

To Prevent Sticking.

The sticking of tires to the mold after vulcanizing has always been a great source of annoyance to all repairmen. The best applications heretofore used as possible preventatives have been lacking in some respects. Therefore the discovery of G. R. Carmichael, a repairman of Perth Amboy, N. J., of the use of a material which overcomes this trouble will be welcomed by vulcanizers everywhere. Since the discovery is so simple, the wonder is that no one has reported it before.

So simple a substance as cocoa butter solves the problem. The method is this:

Clean the mold thoroughly with fine emery paper. Then after allowing it to warm up a little, go over it with a piece of cheese cloth saturated with cocoa butter. Next wipe till glassy and apply soapstone.

This method of preparing the mold has been tried in the Goodyear repair school and found to work perfectly.

Why Some Repairs Fail.

A few repairmen are attempting to use materials from two or more concerns in the same repair. For example, sometimes a fabric from one firm curing at 40 pounds steam pressure for 40 minutes, with gum from another firm, curing at 55 pounds for 50 minutes. This combination inevitably results in improper curing of one or the other, or both of these materials. It is best to use one make of repair materials for satisfactory results.

Repair From the Outside.

This question is often asked, "Why not tear down sections on the inside of the tire?" here are the most important reasons briefly stated.

Dirt and water penetrate a tire from the outside. Many a repairman working from the inside has had trouble due to not cleaning up the dirtiets part of the injury, just under the tread or side wall.

It is much easier to do thorough work in replacing the plies on the outside and the repair is always much stronger and more durable.

Thorough Buffing.

Cushion gum should always be used between the fabric and the tread stock. It gives a much firmer union.

If the surface of a casing is not first roughened sufficiently, outside patch repairs usually loosen in use. An overflow of material beyond the injury will also cause this peeling off. Thorough buffing and cleaning off are the best preventatives.

Cementing Reliners.

Before cementing reliners the paint on the inside of a tire should be scraped off. If possible turn the tire inside out, a part at a time, and buff with a power driven brush. However, gasoline or other liquid preparations should not be used. They gum up the surface and make good work impossible.

Claude Oden Moves in New Quarters on Austin Street

Among the changes in the circle of automobile men of Waco during the past week is the transfer of the Austin Avenue Garage to Claude Oden. Mr. Oden has taken charge of his new place of business. He will do repair work, offer the public storage, gas, oil and service. In connection with his garage he will also maintain a rent service. First class cars are kept for rent—among these being limousine and touring cars.

W. M. Oden, who has maintained headquarters at the Court House Garage, has moved his offices to the Austin Avenue Garage. He will continue to sell the Haynes car, which he has been dealing in for some time.

Camp Rolls for the Car.

Shattuck camp rolls varry a soft, light blanket, an air pillow, a rubber or canvas collapsible wash basin, toilet articles, and has pockets for extras. The rolls are of khaki.

The necessity of procuring protographs and lst-minute news of the United States submarine H-3, which recently went ashore at Eureka, Cal., was responsible for one of the most strenuous automobile trips ever taken in northern California. As the Eureka-San Francisco railroad schedules did not permit a round trip in time to secure films for the Sunday papers, the San Francisco photographers and reporters resorted to the automobile transportation method. The frozen mud of the roads imposed a terrific strain on the Buick car and its Goodyear tires, but despite this the scene of the wreck was reached in ample time to secure films, which were sent in by train to the papers. The entire trip of 700 miles was covered without trouble by the Goodyear tires, which already had seen 5000 miles of hard service.

Preparedness Against Motor Car Trouble Is Important

The man who can find trouble on a car and fix it in a few minutes is to be congratulated, but the many who anticipates trouble and so keeps it away is nothing short of a genius. Yet it is simply a matter of knowing what is likely to happen and then preventing it from happening. For instance, such a man grinds valves before they begin to leak compression and so lose power.

He is the man who touches up the points of the circuit breaker or interrupter occasionally, so they will not become to corroded that they can not make good contact. Hence the primary current is always running and so a good spark is produced. This is merely a matter of drawing a piece of fine emery cloth through the gap a few times with the points closed. By this means the oxide is prevented from forming in sufficient quantity to stop ignition.

He also keeps close watch on his storage battery. He sees that the electrolyte covers the plates at all times and adds distilled water at least once every two weeks. He also tests the strength of the electolyte, noting if it is kept up to its full strength by the charging system. If not, he has it attended to before it gets serious.

He keeps close watch on his ammeter, as that is the pulse of the whole electric system. He knows just what amperage each lamp and combination of lamps should draw, just what amperage should be going to battery at certain speeds of the engine. If anything is wrong he finds and fixes it.

He keeps a supply of inner tubes in the car, a supply of patches, jack, tools of all kinds and the tires on his spare rims fully inflated. His oil supply is kept up, his air system does not leak, and he never runs out of gasoline. In fact, his car always seems to be tuned up and running as it should. Do not think this is a fanciful picture. Such men exist. Try to be one of them.

Children's Touring Coat.

Cinnamon brown Vicuna cloth is a favorite material for children's touring coats this season. The material does not crease, does not show dust and combines prettily with beaver fur, which usually is popular for children's use. The little coats are military in cut, with the short shoulder cape, buttoned on the left shoulder with fur buttons. The hats are made of the cloth with soft rolling or stitched brims, with a trimming of small beaver heads around the crown.

OUTPUT OF JEFFERY PLANT IS INCREASED

NEW BUILDINGS AND EQUIPMENT ADDED TO FACTORY RECENTLY.

Just how easily the Giant Jeffery factory, recently acquired by The Nash Motors company, lends itself to increased production, has been illustrated by the fact that since the coming of C. W. Nash to Kenocha, and the installation of his manufacturing policies, the output of the plant has already been greatly increased.

C. W. Nash, widely known to the trade by his reputation as a "quantity producer" and a merchandiser in gigantic wholesale lots, again demonstrated his rare manufaciuring ability when he selected the Jeffery factory as the parent site of the Nash Motors company.

"On my first visit to Kenosha," states Mr. Nash, "I recognized how well suited the Jeffery factory was to carry out my principles. I found it an immense plant covering 100 acres of ground with thirty-two acres under roof. It was manned by 3,000 skilled mechanics and equipped with the finest machinery obtainable. The plant I learned was practically independent of parts and accessory makers, and that Jeffery cars and trucks were built 93 per cent in their entirety within the walls of that factory.

NEW BUILDINGS ARE ERECTED.

"Immediately after the purchase had been completed I set about to increase the production, and found it a comparatively simple matter. We placed orders for more equipment, erected a new foundry and a new body building, and after installing a progressive factory arrangement, more suited to the needs of large quantity production, we soon had the plant busy turning out cars and trucks on a largely increased schedule.

The experience of C. W. Nash as a manufacturer dates back to the days of carriage building when he first originated the principles of quantity productoin and quantity selling, and had charge of the manufacture and sales of the largest and most successful carriage and buggy business in the world.

He was attracted to the automobile industry early in its history, when as president of the Buick Motor company, he applied the same policies. Here his phenomenal success won world-wide attention and two years later he was made active head of the General Motors company, where he set about to apply those same principles to all of the allied companies. In this position he quickly became one of the greatest powers in the industry and the last year of his presidency of that company, the General Motors' earnings totaled nearly twenty-nine million dollars.

Now that Mr. Nash is heading a new company bearing his own name and installed in one of the largest and most complete factories in the country, he will be able to realize more completely his ideals of manufacture than ever before.

South America Is Fertile Field for American Car

That South America offers a fertile field for the consumption of American cars is stated by John Barrett, director general of the Pan-American Union. Mr. Barrett will deliver a timely address at the banquet of the Society of Automobile Engineers, to be held in New York City on Jan. 11

From his twenty-three years experience in the diplomatic service, part of which was spent as United States Minister to Argentina, Mr. Barrett is able to advise the automobile industry as to the methods which will open the South American markets to American-made automobile products. The tile of his address will be "Pan-American Commerce; Our Opportunity." Mr. Barrett has just returned from an official trip of two months' duration to England and France where he consulted with the officials of those countries as to international trade conditions.

The second speaker of the evening will be Howard E. Coffin, one of the most prominent members of the Society of Automobile Engineers, who has devoted much of his time recently to services as chairman of the Industrial Preparedness Committee of the Naval Consulting Board. He is now a member of the Advisory Commission of the Council of National Defense.

More than 700 reservations have already been made for the banquet.

Paisley Shawls for Winter Touring.

Paisley shawls are being made into evening wraps by those who have them. One having the cream white center with the depe Persian border is made into one of the wonderful draped French models lined with heavy white brocade and trimmed with sealskin. The coat is gathered into the waist line by a band of Persian embroidery like the border. The yoke of white velvet is edged with the fur, and the high collar is of the fur. Though the coat is a most elaborate affair, the shawl has not been cut.

Satin Hats for Auto Women.

Satin hats seem to have come into being to hold the center of the fashion stage for some months to come. Like their fear wearers, they are already boked for spring touring and are also featured with arly summer frocks. A soft flannel rubdown keeps them in good condition, no matter how dusty the trip, and they come in many becoming shapes. Those in black or white with a square but soft crown and adjustable rolling brims are most popular.

Headquarters of Two Local Auto Companies Are Moved

To changes of interest to Waco motorists along the Franklin Street "automobile row" are the removal of W. W. Brown, the automobile broker, from 611-13 Franklin to 617 Franklin, and the occupancy of his old quarters by Frank McKerall, formerly of the Dixie Motor Sales company.

Mr. Brown remodeled and repainted the front of his new location, and has it very conveniently arranged for his business. He has also put in a line of auto accessories.

Mr. McKerall will operate a garage and accessory house at 611-13 Franklin under the name of Dixie Garage. He is having extensive improvements made but expects to be ready for the transaction of business by Wednesday or Thursday. The Dixie Garage will cater especially to the owners of the King 8, Stevens Six, Allen 4 and the Dixie Flyer, doing all repairs, furnishing storage room, etc.

Slip-On Sweaters for Autoist.

Slip-on sweaters may be had now in all materials. They have the pointed necks with little soft knitted ties under the flat Dutch collars and narrow april string belts to confine the fullness at the waist line. They are especially pretty in white Shetland, having colored angora collars, cuffs and ties.

W. F. Pottinger of Hillsboro drove a 490 roadster home Saturday.

E. R. Boyles purchased one of the new model 34 Sensible Six Oaklands last week.

Mr. Graves of the Lorena Harrwrae and Lumber company, purchased a 490 Chevrolet Saturday.

C. L. Dickson of Munger is the proud possessor of a Baby Grand Chevrolet, purchased the past week.

Randolph Ball, on the sales force of the Herrick & McLarty Auto company, sold a model 34 Oakland six last week.

M. C. Daly, with Herrick & McLarty Auto company, sold a 34 sensible six Oakland in Marlin last Wednesday.

F. E. McLarty, cashier of the Central Texas Exchange National Bank, bought a 34 sensible six Oakland this week.

Sl McGhee, the leading salesman with Herrick & McLarty Auto company, went to Leroy Friday in the interest of the company.

V. M. Washam says that the prospects are good that this will be known as a Maxwell year for Waco, as prospects are coming in in good shape.

N. S. Clifton, one of Herrick & McLarty Auto company's wide-awake salesmen, spent the past week at Marlin in the interest of the company.

Mrs. J. S. Dixson, 1605 Baylor street, purchased a 1917 model 490 Chevrolet last week. Mrs. Dixson made a trip to Rosenthal Friday in her new car.

E. B. Reed of Waco purchased a Paige Fleetwood six last Wednesday. The Fleetwood is getting to be the most popular car in Waco. The sale was made by M. C. Daly.

T. D. Humphrey, manager of Herrick & McLarty Auto company, attended the meeting of the Auto Dealers and Accessories club Friday night and reports an interesting program.

V. M. Washam reports the sale of a 1917 Maxwell to G. M. Cox, formerly manager of the local Coco Cola company. This is the second Maxwell that Mr. Cox has owned. He is moving to San Antonio and says he did not feel like going any way except to drive through in a new Maxwell.

Thompson & Bletsch of Marlin were in this week, and drove out the following cars: One Oakland eight, one Paige Fairfield six, one Oakland sensible six, one 490 Chevrolet roadster, 1 490 Chevrolet touring, one 490 Chevrolet winter top. The manager, Albert Bletsch, is a live auto dealer and has enjoyed a nice business the past season.

Ward & Phillips report the following sales for the past week: Marion-Handley 6-40 to Mr. Gurley of West; Marion-Handley 6-60 to Fritz Itschner of West; Oldsmobile Eight to L. L. Ainsworth of Waco; Oldsmobile Eight to M. D. Dugger of Waco; Bletsch & Thompson, Marlin, two Saxon Sixes and one Saxon Four; W. T. Sullivan, Bryan, Marion-Handley 6-40 roadster; J. T. Hickson, Rosebud, Glide Six; R. B. Connet, Rosebud, Glide Six; A. B. Connet, Bryan, Glide Six.

Mr. Rayburn and Mr. Tate made a business trip to Dallas Saturday for a couple of those classy Chalmers that are becoming so thick on the streets of Waco. Mr. Rayburn advised that he was placing an order for as many Chalmers as he can possibly get, as business so far is as good as in the last months of 1916 and prospects are unusually favorable for a big business during January and Febuary.

Mr. Nettles is in town again after a week's trip over part of the territory now controlled by McLendon Hardware company and is very enthusiastic over prospects for an unusual line of sub-dealers for the Chalmers in the territory. The big business man is the future automobile dealer and quite a large part of the territory is covered and cars will be delivered as soon as shipments begin to arrive from the Chalmers factory.

Mr. W. E. McDaniel was up from Hubbard City last Thursday and celebrated the day by purchasing a Cadillac Eight from the McLendon Hardware company. Mr. McDaniel is now the owner of a 1916 Cadillac 8 and a 1917 Cadillac 8 and says he is more than satisfied with both.

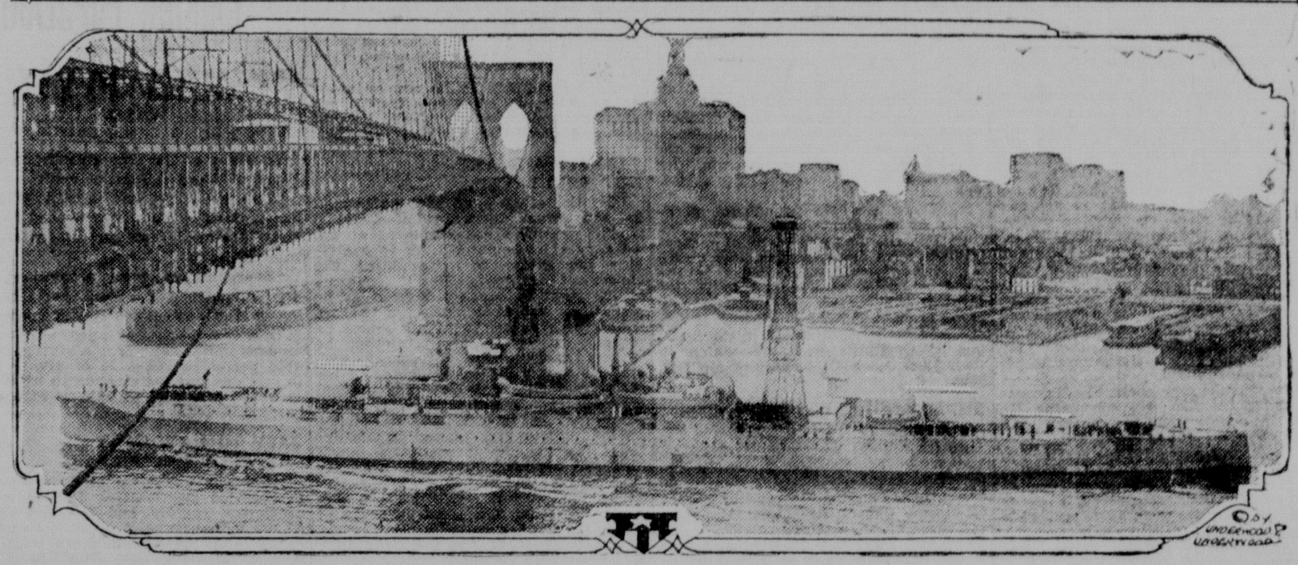

Mr. J. H. Mayfield of Holland came to Waco last Thursday and purchased a Chalmers 6-30 from the McLendon Hardware company and remarked that he had owned several cars but had never driven a car that handled so easily as the Chalmers. He is thoroughly convinced that the Chalmers is the car for him.

Dr. W. E. McKinney of Temple purchased a Chalmers 6-30 from McLendon Hardware company Saturday. He was the lucky man in securing the special painted roadster which McLendon has had on show since last Saturday, an from which several future orders have been secured.

Mrs. Ralph McLendon is now driving a new Chalmers 6-40, 7 passenger, special paint job which was seen and admired by hudreds of people at the Cotton Palace.

This car is fitted with the latest design of Victoria top in the French Kakie, the body being in a medium light blue, with black fenders and running gear.

MOON CAR COMPANY IN SAME HANDS FOR PAST ELEVEN YEARS

D. Y. Craddock, sales manager of the Waco Moon Motor Sales company, reports the sale of a Moon car, model 6-43 touring car to W. H. Young of San Antonio. Mr. Young is an engineer on a regular run of the famous Katy Texas Special, Waco to San Antonio.

In explaining why he feels that Moon sales will be good during 1917 Mr. Craddock says:

"In these days when automobiles companies are being formed every day perhaps some of you are asked the history of the Moon Motor Car company, relative to its substantialness, financial responsibility, etc.

"Out of all of the automobile companies in business in 1905, eleven years ago, when the Moon Motor Car company was organized, and the first Moon cars were marketed, the companies that are now operating and haven't been in the hands of receivers three or four times, changed officers or hands, or been reorganized two or three times, can be counted on the thumbs of one hand. During this period of eleven years Moon cars have been made by the same company, by the same backing and by the same men as near so as the evolution of time would permit. And with the fact that the Moon car always has been made first with the idea of proving a source of satisfaction to the owner as well as contentment and pleasure to the dealer, has put this car in every civilized nation in the world and with dealers now handling the car in some of our own large cities for a period of as long as ten years.

"Joseph H. Moon does stand behind his dealers and his cars; that's what the public wants and that is what has made his millions for him in both the buggy and the automobile business.

"This has built a reputation that can not help but be lasting, and as time goes by increase tremendously the already proven superiority of the Moon car.

"The annual gain in business of each consecutive year since 1914 has been not less than 50 per cent and our 1917 output has been contracted for with at least 60 per cent increase over that of our 1916 output."

PLANS BEGIN FOR SPRING AUTO SHOW

WILL BE PROMOTED BY AUTOMOBILE AND ACCESSORIES ASSOCIATION.

Elaborate displays of the late model motor cars will be included in the automobile show which will be given during the spring style show, according to plans of the automobile dealers. It is intended to have the cars on display at the COTTON PALACE coliseum.

Initial plans for the show were discussed at a meeting of the Waco Automobile and Accessories association held Friday night at Hotel Raleigh.

Officers of the association to serve during the ensuing term have been elected as follows: Percy Willis, president; W. E. Brown, vice president; E. F. Zarr, secretary.

SAYS EACH ELEMENT OF TRAFFIC SHOULD BE IN PROPER PLACE

"If each of the elements of traffic could be kept in its proper place at the right time the big problem of regulation would be solved," is the opinion of R. M. Rowe, president of the American Automobile Association, whose recent utterances at the Safety First convention caused considerable comment throughout the country, because the doctrine was put forward that the pedestrian must also be regulated as well as the vehicle in bringing about improved traffic movement.

"The sidewalks are for pedestrians and the streets primarily for vehicles," continues Mr. Rowe. "The pedestrian should be and is safeguarded in his use of the sidewalks and designated crossings, where he should at all times have the right of way. When he attempts to use the streets at points other than at crossings, then he should do so at his own peril. Furthermore, when he occupies the street at any other than designated crossings it be prima facie evidence of gross carelessness on his part, and he should be made to assume the responsibility for his conduct. On the other hand, drivers of vehicles should have precedence between crossings. They should have a right to expect that they will have to look out only for other vehicles.

"After all, there are just these two important elements in traffic—vehicles and pedestrians—and both contribute to accidents. Undisputed records, however, show that in over 80 per cent of all accidents the fault is that of the pedestrian, and in less than 20 per cent the blame attaches to the vehicle. This includes street cars, motor busses and all forms of street carriers. Limiting the report to accidents between automobiles and pedestrians, it is stated 92 to 96 per cent are the fault of the pedestrian.

"What lessons are we to learn from these facts? Vehicles—particularly motor vehicles—are now regulated by law that any further attemnt in that direction would not help matters. Personally, I am convinced that we have so much law for the motorist that, to make him as safe as he can be made as an element of street traffic, we must get rid of much of our present law and simply that which remains.

PEDESTRIANS ARE NOT REGULATED.

"On the other hand, the pedestrian as the other important element in traffic, we have not regulated at all. As a rule, he is not willing to contribute his share to eliminating the causes of accidents. He is tenacious of his right to conduct himself as he pleases on streets or highways, to cross where he pleases, to stand where he pleases, to go in any direction he pleases, at any time he pleases. And, strange to say, he is supported in his view by public opinion; and the old common law, which recognizes the superior rights of the individual on the public highways, is quoted in his defense. Courts and juries have upheld him, and awarded him heavy damages even when he is guilty of gross negligence. His attitude is "Hit me if you dare!" Whereas the great majority of motorists do everything in their power to avoid accidents, the great majority of pedestrians do not.

"In all fairness, what right has the pedestrian to jeopardize with his own life the life and the liberty of those operating vehicles under conditions of modern necissity that nave completely changed the whole question of the relative rights of those engaged in traffic? It must not be inferred that in attempting to regulate and control the pedestrian it is to give additional license to the motorist. Just the opposite is the purpose, which first and last is to avoid accidents.

"I am fully aware that any attempt in the past to regulate the pedestrian has promptly called forth sharp criticism from various sources. But in no other way can the number of accidents resulting in serious injury and death be reduced to any appreciable extent."

NOVEMBER SALES ARE REPORTED LARGE BY NASH MOTOR COMPANY

During the first three months of C. W. Nash's active presidency of the Nash Motors company, successors to the Thomas B. Jeffrey company at Kenosha, Wis., Jeffrey sales have broken all records according to Al Reeke, general sales manager.

"The month of November, just closed, was the biggest sales month in the history of this plant," declares Mr. Reeke. "During those thirty days our books show an actual increase of 381 per cent over the business done in the corresponding month last year.

"We have just finished compiling the big increase in car orders which were placed during and immediately following our dealers' conference here November 13 and 14. The figures show that our production must be speeded up at least twenty-five per cent to fill immediate orders and that our dealers have specified contracts covering all four and six-cylinder cars that we will be able to build during the coming season.

"Since September 1, when Mr. Nash first came to Kenosha our sales have been keeping just ahead of our production. It is particularly significant that just at this time, which is normally the slack selling season of the year, that under Mr. Nash's leadership the company should break all prior records. Every indication points to December as even a bigger selling month than the period just passed."

All motordom is interested in watching the progress of C. W. Nash as president of the Nash Motors company. He is known by all the trade as the pioneer builder of motor cars in large quantities on a strictly schedule basis.

Now for the first time Mr. Nash is heading a company that bears his own name. In assuming the reins of his new business Mr. Nash announced that no change would be made in the Jeffrey product during the coming season, and expressed himself as well pleased with the high good quality of the whole Jeffrey line.

The Comfort Car

By Walt Mason.

Now, this is how your uncle feels: A car may have gold-plated wheels, upholstery with silken hems, and fenders studded o'er with gems, but if it jars me when I ride, and shakes my organs up inside, and shoves my spine up through my hat, well, I want no more of that.

You know just how it is with nags; a man has one of which he brags; there's not a blemish on its frame, it looks superb and sound and game, but when you pay your money down, and try to drive it out of town it bucks around and throws a fit, and leaves your heart and dashboard split. The finest, smoothest, slickest hoss may be at work a total loss.

And sometimes a man will buy a car that glitters like a polar star; it looks so nifty and serene he thinks that buying gasoline for such a car will be a treat, it's good enough, in looks, to eat. But when he starts from his abode, to take a jaunt along the road, his boat will jar and skid and slide till it's a punishment to ride. And ever, as he reels along, there's some dad-busted thing goes wrong; he's always lifting up the hood to ask the engine to be good, or crawling underneath the works, to see what causes all those jerks. He never knows a minute's peace; he's mad, and spotted up with grease.

A car like that, that's never right can bring no comfort or delight. And if you take a good long ride across the blooming countryside, you'll see a dozen hoodoo boats that strive to get their owners' goats.

Now, there is this about the Haynes: No owner of this car complains. He rides in comfort on its springs, and as he rides he smiles and sings: there is no jolt or jar or strain; as smoothly as an aeroplane, the car goes skimming o'er the hills and fills that owner's soul with thrills. He doesn't have to leave his seat and drop some wrenches on his feet, an adjusting bolt, re pairing spring, or t'other thing. The Haynes is not a trouble car; and so the owner jaunts afar; he never has to mix with grief and finds his journey all too brief.

If you are going to heat your house why not the best? See our gas burning hot-air furnace, demonstrating plant in our office. Torbett & Germond Co.—Adv.

GOODYEAR TIRE FIRM FORMS COSMOPOLITAN CLUB FOR WORKMEN

The latest event of significance in the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company's program for promoting a better understanding between the company and its alien workers and of fostering allegiance and love for "the land of the free," is the formation of the Goodyear Cosmopolitan club. This club is composed of workmen representing twenty different nationalities.

The charter members of this veritable "congress of all nations" are men of prominence and influence among the men of their respective nationalities, and are expected to be instrumental in promoting fraternal helpfulness among them. Among these men—some of whom are Americans still in the making—the utmost enthusiasm for American institutions and ideals prevails.

Nowhere has the wonderful prosperity of the automobile industry with its attendant demand for men, gathered together a more cosmopolitan group of workmen than that found in the Goodyear plant at Akron, Ihio. A trip through the factory reveals that men from practically every quarter of the civilized globe have a part in the making of Goodyear products—which in their turn reach all corners of civilization.

EMPLOYES EDUCATED AT FACTORY SCHOOL.

As the alien workman without a knowledge of English, naturally experiences much difficulty in communicating his thoughts and receiving those of others, one of the most important activities of the Factory school of The Goodyear Tire and Rubber company is the education of these employes.

Realizing that inculcation of American ideals in all employes of alien birth, is a problem which employers must help to work out, The Goodyear company retains a highly efficient corps of instructors experienced in this field.

In the citizenship classes, the company has been extending to these men the opportunity to learn American history, geography, the fundamental principles of American government and other subjects designed to increase their usefulness as intelligent citizens of the land of their adoption. All are urged to apply for citizenship papers and become true Americans.

SAXON ROADSTER IS GAINING POPULARITY

"Every luxury, every attraction, every convenience of a costly car is present in the new series Saxon roadster. It is a completely equipped, absolutely modern motor car. It is a sturdy, durable performer, capable of giving day in and day out satisfaction to its owner at a lower cost of upkeep than any car made today.

EASY TO HANDLE IN CROWDED TRAFFIC.

"It is the easiest car made to handle in crowded city traffic. Its ability to accelerate rapidly and the flexibility of the motor make it possible to wend in and out of the thickest traffic—without shifting gears—in the least possible time.

"We find that 6,000 buyers selected Saxon roadsters last year for use on country roads—and we find that they gave a satisfaction to their owners which could not have been surpassed by heavier and more expensive competitors.

"At the outset Saxon roadster was built right. It experienced a slow, cautious development—no changes being made in the design until we were convinced they would add serviceably to the car. Today we see Saxon roadster a complete automobile in every detail, made up of the finest material possible to obtain and with all the improvements and refinements which one finds on the most expensive cars.

NEW STARTING AND LIGHTING SYSTEM.

"First and foremost among its new features is a two-unit starting and lighting system. It is a Wagner-built system—than which, no car can have finer. This starting and lighting system alone lifts Saxon roadster far above the level of other low-priced cars. No car today can claim to be modern without a starting and lighting system. Motor cranking by hand, because of the time it wastes and the risk of accident it involves, has been outlawed by all makers of fine cars.

"And so in Saxon roadster, as in the high-priced cars, you simply sink a button to the floor with the heel of your shoe and the car goes humming away. Next among the added attractions is the new style body. The design is of the latest type and the body is larger and roomier. From the standpoint of both beauty and riding comfort Saxon roadster is now fully comparable to cars of high price."

Athletics occupy a prominent place at the mammoth plant of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company at Akron. The company employs an athletic director to supervise all the athletic activities of the various departments. A magnificent athletic field of 40 acres permits a generous program of sports extending throughout the entire year. Last week about 250 members of the various Goodyear teams were banqueted and addressed by the executive officers of the company, who extended words of encouragement and congraulation to the athletes for their fine work in upholding the Goodyear name in athletics. Sweaters bearing Goodyear emblems were presented to members of the football squad.

It is well known by motorists that tires are designed to sustain certain loads, and that these loads cannot ordinarily be exceeded without injury to the tires. However, the factor of safety which is built into Goodyear Cord tires, was emphasized last week when a Locomobile car, carrying fourteen men, was driven over the brick road between Buffalo and Lancaster, N. Y., at a rate of speed exceeding 63 miles per hour. The Goodyear tires used already had covered a distance of 10,000 miles.

(Adv.) TOM L. McCULLOUGH.

PIKES' PEAK HIGHWAY ASSOCIATION TO MEET EARLY IN FEBRUARY

St. Joseph, Mo., Jan. 19.—Selection of the best available route to connect with the Pikes Peak ovean-to-ocean highway west from Salt Lake City, Utah, will be one of the important subjects to be dicided the annual meeting the Pikes Peak Ocean-toOcean Highway Association here early in February. Plans also will be formulated to guarantee an automobile route of scenic beauty.

During January state branches of the association in Utah, Colorado, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Pennsylvania, will hold meetings to select delegates to the local gathering.

At the national meeting New England good roads organizations will be asked to assist in the extension of the route to Boston and other large cities of the east and plans are bing formulated to designate the route with appropriate markers.

C. F. Adams of Chillicothe, Missouri, is president of the association and A. W. Henderson of Colorado Springs, is Secretary.

AUTOMOBILES CARRY MORE THAN ELECTRIC ROADS SAYS REEVES

Automobiles are giving a greater passenger transportation service than the entire steam railroad system of the United States, or all the urban and interurban electric roads, according to Alfred Reeves, general manager of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, who made this assertion in an address to the highway engineering meeting at the Automobile Club of America last Thursday afternoon.

The meeting was promoted by section D, engineering, of the American Association for the advancement of science, and was held under the joint auspices of this association, the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education, the Automobile Club of America, the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce and the National Highways Association.

In support of his assertion, Mr. Reeves quoted figures from the Bureau of Railway Economics, showing that the steam railroads carried 1,053,000,000 passengers in 1914, with little increase in 1916, an average distance of 33 6-10 miles, of a total of 33 1-4 passenger miles, and earned a revenue of $700,400,000 on this service. By comparison, the 3,250,000 passenger automobiles now registered in the country, averaging 5000 miles a year, which is very conservative, and three passengers per car, gave a service of 48,750,000,000 passenger miles, worth $900,750,000 on the railroad basis of 2c per mile, or $200,000,000 more than the railroad passenger service.

The street and electirc railroads carried 9,500,000,000 passengers in 1912 (the latest year for which official figures were at hand.) The average distance traveled was four miles, making 38,000,000,000,000 miles. This produced a little more than half a billion dollars, averaging 1 1-3c per mile. At this rate of fare the automobiles rendered a service this year of $598,500,000 or $98,500,000 more than the street railways.

Mr. Reeves further said that the 250,000 commercial motor vehicles in the country, averaging 25 miles a day, with average loads of 2 tons, give a total of 3,750,000,000 ton-miles annually. Taking 20c per ton-mile a fair average cost of hauling by horse-drawn vehicles on the public roads, this is worth $750,000,000 a year.

PACKARD TO BE WELL REPRESENTED AT SHOW

Five queenly cars, chosen from a group of twenty-two especially finished for exhibition, will represent the Packard Twin Six line on the floor of the Grand Central Palace.

They are standard in design, and their chassis are the same as in every Packard car, but in color scheme, fittings and appointments they are individual creations.

Imperial in its violet purple and its gold is the seven-passenger limousine with cab sides. The body, door panels and wheels are in the royal color; the striping on body, panels and wheels is done in gold leaf. Appropriate monograms are blazoned on the door panels. The interior is finished in yielding broadcloth of finest texture. Carpeting, curtains, laces and upholstery are all of Laidlaw designing. The metal fittings of the interior are of dull gold finish, in a quiet, rich harmony with the whole effect.

Another noteworthy car is the six-passenger landaulet, entirely lustrous black with the exception of its white wire wheels and its distinctive white striping of body and door panels. The upholstery is Laidlaw Japanese tapestry; the lining of the ceiling, blue damask. The robe rail of silk and the thick-ply carpet are black.

GUN METAL GRAY IS TONE OF 2-25 BROUGHAM.

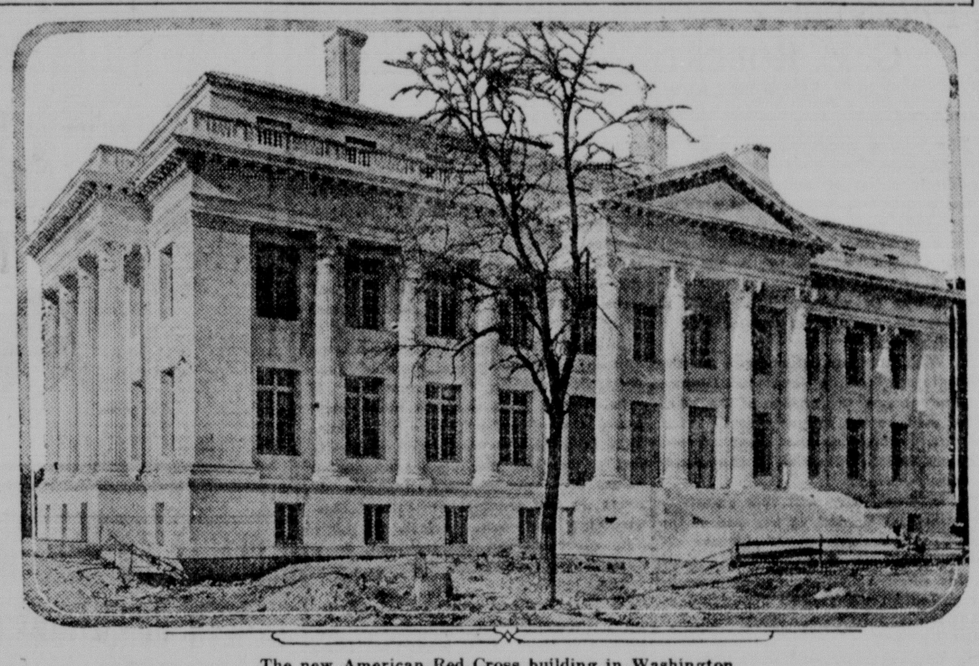

Gun metal gray is the tone of a 2-25 brougham. Gray to match is the note of body striping, door panels and wheels. The interior is upholstered in keeping.

Cobalt blue shimmers on body and door panels of an open car of the seven-passenger touring model. The wheels are in natural hickory. The striping is of white and fine gold lines. The upholstery is the standard that has done so much to make Packard and luxury synonymous.

AMERICAN RED CROSS WILL SOON MOVE INTO FINE NEW BUILDING

The new American Red Cross building in Washington.

The American Red Cross will move about January 15 from its present quarters in the State, War and Navy building into its new headquarters, a magnificent white marble edifice which occupies an entire square between the Corcoran Art Gallery and D. A. R. hall. On its cornerstone, which was laid by President Wilson and former President Taft, the building is labeled: "A Memorial to the Heroic Women of the Civil War." Construction was begun early in 1915.

French Newspaper Says Germans Plotted to Use Germs as War Aid.

Le Journal, a Paris newspaper, recently published an article by Henry Darby, its Bucharest correspondent, charging the Germans with a new form of frightfulness. According to this article, the Rumanian prefect of police soon after Rumania declared war found hidden at the German legation many deadly disease germs, which, according to Le Journal's inference, the Germans planned to loose upon the Rumanian population in the event of a German defeat.

Part of the disease germs were intended for humans, others for cattle and horses. Packages of high explosives, the Paris newspaper says, also were found at the German legation.

TEXAS POWER AND LIGHT COMPANY EMPLOYES MAY BUY PREFERRED STOCK

Dallas, Tex., Jan. 13.—All regular employes of the Texas Power & Light company and members of the employes family or household now have an opportunity to purchase the preferred stock of the company on a partial payment plan.

This stock pays dividends at the rate of 7 per cent annually, the dividend being paid to stockholders quarterly.

None of this stock has been on the market previously. The idea in giving employes and their family this opportunity is aptly expressed in a letter by General Manager F. R. Slater, announcing the plan, which reads partially as follows:

"We believe that this plan may be the means of staring some of our employes to saving. If we can accomplish this, we will have attained a good result, because the more we can get our employes to save the better citizens and members of our organization they are going to be."

The idea of giving each employe a chance to obtain a proprietary interest in the company also helped to carry out the plan.

STOCK PURCHASE PLAN ATTRACTIVE ONE.

From an investment standpoint, this stock purchase plan makes an attractive proposition. The stock will be sold at the par value of $100 per share on terms of $5 down and $5 per month per share purchased. No individual can subscribe for more than 10 shares. Employes subscribing will receive dividends on the FULL FACE VALUE OF THE STOCK from the date the first payment is made, and no interest will be charged on the deferred payments. Assuming that the employe could get from a savings bank as much as 6 per cent on his savings the stock will pay him a NET return of 7.4 per cent per annum. In case an employe leaves the company before his stock subscribed to has been paid for, he will either be given a certificate for such number of shares of said stock, if any, as can be fully pair for by the cash theretofore paid, plus interest on such installments at the rate of 6 per cent per annum, less dividens received.

Learn Shorthand and Touch Typewriting

The young man or woman who is a proficient stenographer will never suffer from want. The demand for young men stenographers is so great that the Government is offering all sorts of inducements and circulating all kinds of literature to get those who are now ready to accept positions, and to encourage those who do not write shorthand, to take up the study.

There are many good systems of Shorthand in the world and there may possibly be some as good as ARISTOS or JANES' SHADELESS SHORTHAND, but without any question of a doubt, there is none better. The word ARISTOS is from the greek and means "The Best" and the system carries out its title to a letter. Thousands of the most famous writers of Shorthand, write ARISTOS. Mr. A. Janes, the author of the system, was a Parliamentary Reporter for nearly 50 years and it was after 40 years of professional experience that he published ARISTOS and gave it to the world.

There are so many prominent Court Reporters and famous writers of ARISTOS that it would require great space to enumerate them, but Mr. W. E. Clark, who was Private Secretary to Hon. Vanve M. McCormick, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee of the Wilson Campaign is deserving of special mention. Mr. Clark handled all the business in connection with the office and in fact occupied about the same position that Geo. B. Cortelyou and William Loeb filled during former campaigns, and is worthy of the same distinction they achieved.

Mr. Clark is a graduate of Toby's Business College, Waco, Texas, and a writer of ARISTOS SHORTHAND. He is an unusually efficient and rapid stenographer. For years he has been Secretary to Congressman Robt. L. Henry.

Any young man who has a High School education can in a few months become quite an efficient stenographer and if he will attend Toby's Business College he will get a course as thorough as is possible to be given.

In addition to ARISTOS Shorthand and Touch Typewriting Bookkeeping, Banking, Commercial Law, Penmanship, Business Arithmetic, Grammar, Spelling, Business Correspondence, The Adding Machine, Multigraph and all modern office appliances are thoroughly and practically taught.

ELEVEN GOVERNORS TAKE OFFICE IN MIDDLE WEST THIS MONTH; SIX NATIVE SONS OF STATE

By Associated Press.

Chicago, Jan. 13.—Eleven states of the middle west come under new administrations within the first few weeks of January and in six of them—Indiana, Kansas, Nebraska, Ohio, Texas and Wisconsin—"Native Sons" were victorious in the November races for governor.

The ages of the new governors range from the 33 years of Keith Neville, of Nebraska, to the 55 of Frank Orran Lowden, of Illinois and Emanuel Lorenz Phillipp, of Wisconsin.

Democrats elected four governors—Missouri, Nebraska, Ohio and Texas—and republicans seven—Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, North Dakota, and Wisconsin.

Their election as governors carried into state offices for the first time Fardner, of Missouri, Goodrich, of Indiana, Neville, of Nebraska, Frazier, of North Dakota, and Sleeper of Michigan. Second terms were won by Ferguson, of Texas, Philipp, of Wisconsin and Capper of Kansas.

Republican Succeeds Democrat.

Joseph A. A. Burnquist, of Minnesota, republican, also will start a second term, having served out part of one term as successor to Gov. Hammond, democrat, who died in December, 1915. Burnquist was elected lieutenant-governor at the time Hammond was elected governor.

Republicans succeeded democrats as governors in Illinois, Indiana and Michigann. Republicas held their own in North Dakota, Kansas, Wisconsin and Minnesota and democrats continued in power in Missouri, Ohio and Texas.

Of the native sons, Indiana's new chief executive, James P. Goodrich, has lived all of his half century of existence within a mile of the farm in Randolph county, where he was born. Though prominent in the politics of his native state and the nation for many years he never sought an elective office before he became a candidate for the governorship. Politics has not taken all of Mr. Goodrich's time; he has been also farmer, lawyer, bank president and teacher in the Winchester, Ind., Sunday school.

Arthur Capper is the first native Kansan to be elected to the governorship in that state. Born in the town of Harnett 51 years ago, he early had a leaning toward journalism and from reporter he developed into a newspaper owner, and still loves the profession. It is pointed out by his friends that the state capital at Topeka is largely governed and policed by newspapermen. The county sheriff is a former city editor, the mayor a writer on one of the Topeka papers and the chief of police a former newspaper man.

Sports Helped to Fame.

Nebraska's young governor—Keith Neville— was born in North Platte, 33 years ago— has for some time been prominent in business circles and in sports but, even as recently as a year ago, he was not known politically outside of a limited local acquaintance. His interest in baseball and football brought him into notice among lovers of those games, as he, for twelve years, ending this season, coached the North Platte high school football team to state championship honors.

"The Good Luck Politician" is sobriquet by which Governor-elect James Middleton Cox of Ohio is called among his personal and political friends, for this native of the Buckeye state is known to have a habit of overcoming difficulties in a manner explainable only by reference to fate, luck or other "forces." An aggressive democrat, Cox's election to congress from the Third Ohio district eight years ago, marked a political epoch in that hitherto republican stronghold. Among Cox's manifold activities is the ownership and personal direction of two lively newspapers, one at Springfield and one at Dayton. The secret of his success is laconically described by his friends as "Pep."

From a toiler in the vineyards of California, the lumber camps of Washington and the mines of Nevada to a banker and political power in his native state of Texas is the pathway that led James Edward Ferguson—known to thousands in the Lone Star state as "Jim"—to the governor's chair. The term on which he is now about to enter is his second and followed his declaration that he would stick to his anti-prohibition policies on which he was first elected in 1914. Born 45 years ago this son of a Methodist minister living in Bell county, Texas, determined early to make his own fortune and set out for the west in his sixteenth year. After some years in the west he returned to Texas and studied law, earning a living in the meantime farming. He was admitted to the bar but later began a banking business and then entered politics.

Wisconsin Stays Republican.

Honored for the second time by election to the governorship of the state in which he was born, in Sauk county, 55 years ago Gov. Emmanuel Lorenz Philipp, of Wisconsin, was re-inaugurated on the first day of the new year. He said he would have "economy" as his main policy for the coming term, as is was during his first governorship. Setting a personal example, he directed that the inauguration ceremonies be as informal as possible, including elimination of the inaugural ball. Gov. Philipp has been particularly popular with German and Swiss citizens of Wisconsin and he speaks both languages fluently. Men of both nationalities call him their "Landsman."

Frank Orran Lowden will be the richest governor Illinois ever had and will be one of the most versatile, for he has been farmer, school teacher, lawyer, legislator and once served as lieut.-colonel in the First Regiment, Illinois National Guard. In 1896 he married Florence Pullman, one of the heirs of the millionaire George Pullman, and the same year he came into prominence in politics as a champion of William McKinley for president. Defeated for the republican nomination for governor by Charles S. Deneen in 1903, after the nominating convention had ballotted for three weeks, he received some consolation three years later in being sent to congress from the Thirteenth district. He retired, after serving two terms, and devoted his time to his five thousand-acre farm in Ogle county, "Sinnissippi," as the estate is named, is said to be one of the finest farms in the country, equipped with every modern device and worth more than $2,000,000.

When Frederick D. Gardner, of St. Louis, takes his seat as governor of Missouri he will be holding the only elective office for which he was ever a candidate. Gardner has amassed wealth as a manufacturer and has taken an active interest in commercial matters, particularly as an advocate of rural credit system by which farmers can obtain long time loans at low interest. After studying the rural credit system prevailing in Europe, which he visited especially for that purpose, he drafted a bill known as the Gardner Land Bank bill and this was passed by the Missouri legislature in 1915. Gardner is a native of Kentucky. After a public school education he began his business career as office boy in a casket factiry which he now owns.

Came to Michigan Penniless.

The man who came to Michigan, a penniless youth, from his native state of Vermont, thirty years ago and started in eastern Michigan—a country store, which later was developed into a chain of commercial houses and afterwards into a large banking business, celebrated the beginning of the new year by inauguration as governor. He is Albert E. Sleeper and he has announced that he will carry on the governor's office the same policy he used as a business man for he has let it be known that he will select his advisers and assistants for merit rather than on political grounds. He has declared for a budget system and for legislation to enforce the prohibition amendment, and says he will try to make a dollar have as much purchasing power in state taxes as a dollar invested in private enterprises.

Joseph A. A. Burnquist, republican, and a native of Iowa, was sworn in as governor of Minnesota last Wednesday with the strongest endorsement ever given a candidate for the office in that state. He received a plurality of 152,000 in the recent election—more than twice that ever given a Minnesota governor. He assumes the place for the second time as he served out the unfinished term of the democratic governor, Winfield Scott Hammond, who died a year ago. Mr. Burnquist long has been in politics and has had the advantage of being a skilled orator. He took the Iowa State oratorical prize at Carleton college twenty-five years ago.

Advocates New Systems.

One of the surprises of the recent gubernatorial campaign in North Dakota was the entry of Lynn J. Frazier into the race with the backing of the recently organized North Dakota Farmers' Nonpartisan league. Comparatively few persons knew of him, as he never has been in any except local politics except the 1899-1901 football followers of the University of North Dakota, the elevens of which were captained by Frazier for two years.

He was carried into office by an overwhelming vote, about 90,000 of the 110,000 cast, and his success was largely due to his proclaimed intention of putting into effect, if possible, a state ownership of grain elevators, packing and flour mills. His program also includes a fight to break down the present "obnoxious system of produce marketing" in North Dakota, and to increase the profit to the producer, and at the same time lessen the cost of the consumer.

GERMAN WEAPONS PROVE FUTILE AND UNAVAILING AGAINST BRITAIN'S POWERFUL NEW WAR MACHINE

The picture shows how one of Britain's tanks, halting for repairs, was assaulted by German infantry on the western battle front. The Germans flung bombs at it, clambered on its top and tried to smash it with the butt ends of their rifles, but without success. When the Teutons finally abandoned the task and retired, it was found that between 200 and 300 of their numbers had fallen from the fire of the monster.

HILL PRINTING AND STATIONERY COMPANY TO MOVE BIG PLANT

The Hill Printing and Stationery company is moving its plant from 604 Austin street to the handsome quarters built specially for the benefit of this big firm by R. C. Allen of Hearne just west of and adjoining the Hotel Raleigh on Austin street between Eighth and Ninth streets.

As soon as the task of setting things to rights in the new quarters has been completed, the intention is to have an "open house" occasion, with music, decorations and the usual pleasant time, for the purpose of showing the people of Waco not only the new quarters, but the magniture of this business, which is not understood by the entire public. Due announcement will be made of this event before it is staged.

While speaking of the scope of the business it might be mentioned that the firm now has ten traveling men on the road regularly, covering every part of Texas, while Oklahoma and Arkansas also are covered and much business secured there.

PLANT HAS LARGE CAPACITY FOR WORK.

In the manufacturing section of the plant there is now a capacity for turning out $25,000 to $30,000 worth of products monthly. It is expected that the business will rapidly grow to the point where this capacity will have to be increased, judging by the expansion which has been evidenced in the past few years. This plant is admittedly one of the most complete and up-to-date in the south, and the men behind it are strong financially and of experienced and progressive business temperament, insuring that they will keep up with the procession in their line.

The Hill Printing and Stationery company's new quarters are not only large, but are complete, well lighted and ventilated, and are said by men in this line from other points who have viewed the plant, to be arranged in the best form possible. The building is 75x165 feet, comprising 16,000 square feet of space, and yet every foot of this space will be in demand from the beginning.

On the front of the handsome pressed brick on Austin street is a sign showing the name of the firm, this being done in rich gold coloring and raised lettering. The front of solid plate glass shows the interior off to excellent advantage.

BUILDING DIVIDED IN TWO SECTIONS.

The building is divided into two sections by a partition which leaves a larger part of the space in the rear for the manufacturing plant. The front will be used for show rooms, stationery and blank books, filing cases, office desks and offices, while the rear section of the building will house the factory portion of the big concern, this of course, including all the printing presses and accessories.

The Waco and Central Texas public will have a chance to see this progressive and growing concern in the new home at the "open house" which is proposed later.

Will Begin Drilling of New Artesian Well in Waco in Short Time

Five cars of well drilling machinery having reached Waco yesterday, Contractor J. P. Benkendorfer of San Antonio, who is to drill the big new artesian well for the city, will begin his task just as soon as the machinery can be unloaded and the rig set up.

Mr. Benkendorfer will be in personal charge of the work, and will remain with it until the artesian stratum has been reached. The presumption is that this stratum is about 2,000 feet below the surface, as that is the depth of the well formerly drilled on the city property at the water plant up the Brazos river on the west side.

The new well will be drilled about 650 feet southeast of the last hole. This last one will be a ten-inch hole, which is considered very large. It is hoped to be able to complete the well in sixty days, states Secretary-Manager E. L. Fulkerson of the Waco city waterworks.

Speakers' Club Debate to Be Held Thursday Night at Raleigh

The Waco Speakers' club will meet in the assembly room of the Hotel Raleigh Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock at which time the following program, which has been arranged, will be followed:

Oration, by Chas. S. Davis.

Debate, "Resolved, that a city ordinance should be passed prohibiting any parking privileges to any vehicles on Austin street between Third and Eighth streets between 9 a. m. and 9 p. m." Affirmative speakers will be C. A. Allen and W. P. Anderson, while the negative will be represented by T. J. Conway and C. H. Babb.

A good attendance is contemplated for this meeting. It is expected that the joint debate between the speakers and senate club will be staged before the end of the month.

DEFENDS CHARACTER OF NEW YORK PLAY-GIRL.

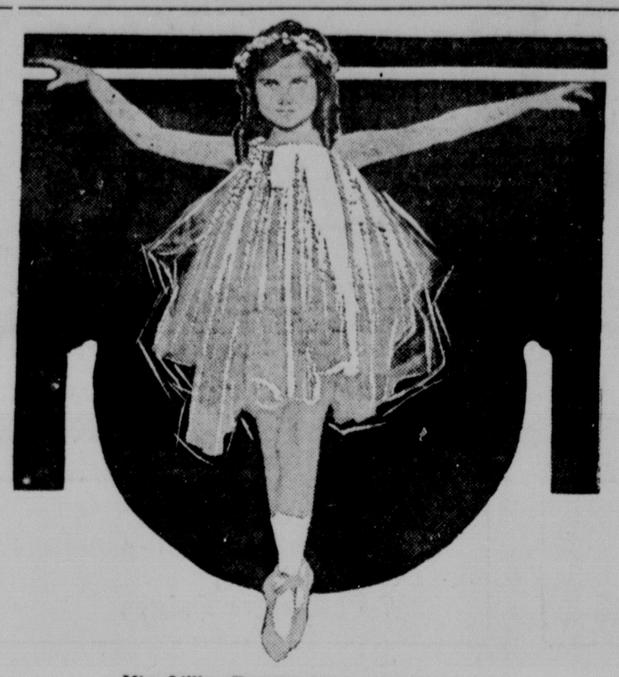

Broadway a den of homeseekers! Robert W. Chambers says so. In a remarkable interview, the famous novelist defends the character of a New York play-girl. He says in part:

"In every age there have always been the young 'play-girls.' We notice her more today, because she is better dressed, more sure of herself, more convinced that her way is right and that play is essential.

"But I find as I study these young people that not all is desire for gayety, for personal beauty and comfort and brightness. There is the old, dominating impulse to mate. Indeed, often it is the desire for this very thing that leads these young people to Broadway; but what they want is a home, the safe retreat, the man that belongs to them, the child that needs them."

There is a profound truth in Mr. Chambers' gallant defense—the fundamental instinct to love and to mate. Mr. Chambers has always thoroughly exemplified this in his fiction, and never so well perhaps as in his latest novel, "The Dark Star," appearing in Cosmopolitan Magazine.

DANCES TO AID CHILDREN OF FRANCE

Lillian Emerson, a nine-year-old North Carolina girl who has danced before Princess Mary in London and her guests, Queen Mother Alexandra, the dowager empress of Russia, Dowager Queen Amelie of Portugal and ex-King Manuel of Portugal, was the principal entertainer at a recent entertainment in Washington for the benefit of a fund to prevent the spread of tuberculosis in France. Little Miss Emerson, whose dancing is a marvelous example of spontaneous grace, is a protege of J. B. and N. B. Duke, of North Carolina and New York, and of Mrs. Lawrence Townsend of Washington.

PROSPERITY AFTER THE WAR? G. E. ROBERTS ANSWERS "YES"

FROM THE NEW YORK EVENING POST.

The leading questions submitted by the Evening Post on the present occasion to a list of well known financiers, economists, bankers and practical business men, were as follows:

"1. Do you look fo unchecked prosperity in this country while the war continues? To what extent are our short crops as adverse influence? Is the prevalent spirit of speculation a danger point?

"2. What do you believe will be the immediate effect, on American finance and industry, of the ending of the war? What will be the longer effect? What do you regard as the most serious problem which will arise in that readjustment period?

"3. In what way will this country's situation be affected, at the end of the war, by our redemption of our own securities and our loans to the outside world? Shall we continue to be a creditor nation after the war? What is your feeling in regard to our loans to beligerent Europe?

"4. What results, good or bad, do you anticipate, in case our gold imports continue in their recent magnitude?"

GEORGE E. ROBERTS,
of the National City Bank, New York.

"1. Yes. The demands upon our industries while the war continues will assure their full operation. The short crops are a great misfortune, as they increase living expenses, impose hardship upon many people whose incomes are not adjusted, and raise the level of costs for all industries. Although conditions are so abnormal that in dustry goes on apparently unchecked, the readjustment later will be more difficult in consequence. The spirit of speculation is always manifest at such a time, but outside of operations in shares of a comparatively few industrial companies speculation is not apparent.

"2. It is evident that the speculating public want to be out of stocks when peace comes. There is always dread of any change, and a desire to stand aside for a time and see what happens. The repeated peace scares have an excellent effect in keeping speculation in check, and preparing the market for the event. I look to see a check upon business during a readjustment of prices to a peace basis. In spite of high costs the country is doing a large amount of building, and there is much expansion among the industries. It would seem that with so much steel going abroad and prices so high, there must be a lot of work banked up awaiting peace, but the visible expansion raises some doubt about this. We always do the greatest amount of constructive work when prices are high. The most serious problem will be a competitive basis with the rest of the world.

" 3. Our position will be undoubtedly strengthened by the repurchase of our securities and our loans to other countries. I look to see these loans renewed and many more placed here after the war, and that by this means Europe will recover its normal share of the gold stock. I think we will strengthen our position as a creditor nation in the future.

"4. The effect of gold importation is to cause a still higher level of wages and prices. We are gaining in capital more rapidly than any country ever did before, and gold in the bank reserves is a means of financing its use. But capital can only be put into use through the employment of labor. Moreover, we are about to have further restrictions upon immigration. The result of attempting to use more capital in this country under these conditions is that employers hire labor away from each other, raising wages and prices, but not materially increasing production. We can continue to absorb gold in this way, but we will be getting constantly further from normal conditions, and the radjustment will be more difficult in consequence. The fact that capital increases faster than population in normal times, and thereby forces a gradually rising wage rate, is beneficial to society, but the undue stimulus of these temporary is not temporary conditions is not beneficial.

EARNEST HENRY

CANDIDATE FOR PUBLIC HEALTH COMMISSIONER.

It will be pleasing to the many friends of the above named gentleman to see from this announcement that I have definitely concluded to run for the office of Public Health Commissioner of the city of Waco.

I have announced myself as such candidate, subject to the action of the democratic primaries, and will, from this time on, wage a tireless effort to see and talk with every voter within the city, soliciting of them the honor of such office.

While I am comparatively a young man, while I have had business training along lines that will peculiarly fit me for the duties of the office to which I aspire, and while it is true that I have never offered myself for public office, yet it is claimed by my friends that I will win the race and make for the city of Waco a safe and conservative commissioner, looking at all times to the best interest of the city, having no friends to reward or foes to punish. Have lived in Waco practically all my life, and for the past four years have been engaged in the fish and oyster business of this city, and my ability as a business man has been evidenced by my success in such lines, and it is safe to say that if elected to the office to which I aspire, I will give to the city the same careful consideration to the duties required of my business to the city that I have rendered in looking after my own private interests.—Adv.

"Why Stores Should Be Well Lighted"

By Gladys Gwynn

Age 14 Years—1609 Clay Street

The main reason why stores should be well lighted, is that the customers can see better what they are buying. Dim lights do not make goods look their natural color. In dry goods stores, certain shades of green, purple, navy blue, brown, and many other colors, appear black in a dim light.

Bright lights cause the employes to be more cheerful, polite, and more willing to show what they have to sell, resulting in increased trade. Then, too, a customer does not have to strain his eyesight to see what he is buying.

Burglars fight shy of the well lighted store—they hate bright lights, and love the darkness like all evil things do. They had rather visit stores where the lights are dim, because in a dim light they can easily hide among boxes and barrels.

When the night watchman goes on duty at night his heart is lighter, and his courage greater, if the store has been well lighted, for he knows that there has been no chance for a burglar to hide himself in the store during work hours, for bright lights show up every nook and corner, and employes could easily see anyone hiding anywhere.

But the greatest good of all comes to the employer. He cannot help being proud and happy when he sees the many satisfied customers passing in and out of his store day by day. It makes his heart grow bigger, and his bank account bigger, and that's the main thing. Then, too, he wins the respect and confidence of the whole people.

A well lighted store is beautiful. People like to wander up and down the aisles, and look at the many beautiful things spread to view under the bright lights.

The passerby, busy with his own thoughts, would not think of looking into a dimly lighted store; but let him pass a brightly lighted store, where the show windows hold goods nicely displayed, with a bright light to show it all off, and he stops to admire even if he is in a hurry.

Where, you ask, can all this bright be had? Why, right here in Waco, at the Texas Power and Light Company offices. Day and night, they are busy turning darkness into light. They have a plant more wonderful than all the treasures of Alladin's Cave. They are at your service always. Just ring 3470 and they will do the rest.

DECLARES CHANGES IN HEALTH CONDITIONS IN U. S. ARMY MARVELOUS

That changes which have been wrought in health conditions surrounding the United States army have been marvelous, is the statement which is made by Dr. Doyle L. Eastland of Waco, who has been in the government military medical service, stationed at Fort Sam Houston, his connection being with the Seventh Field Artillery. Dr. Eastland said that it has been successful to an extent which many do not realize. As an example, he stated that in 1898 there were in the United States army 20,000 cases of typhoid fever with 1,900 deaths, while in 1916 there were thirty-eight cases of typhoid in the army with no deaths, and this despite the fact that there are at present about 30,000 more troops than there were in 1898.

Also he states that the malarial and intestinal disorders which have been so common among the soldiers have been almost wiped out. Before going to San Antonio Dr. Eastland was the government physician at the lock and dam below Waco.

He leaves Waco today for a trip to Indianapolis, Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Rochester and other points, where he will visit the surgical clinics.

"Gutter Cleaning" Day Observed Yesterday

Yesterday afternoon was what might be termed "gutter cleaning" afternoon in Waco, as almost the entire street force was turned loose in that work by City Engineer George B. Gurley.

The reason for this wholesale turning of the street forces in that direction was found in the fact that it has been intended for some time to do some additional gutter cleaning, remove dirt from certain streets, and catch up on this phase of the work, but the street force has been busy in other directions.

It was decided yesterday afternoon that everything else could wait, and gutter cleaning should have the right of way.

High Living Cost Fails; Father of Twelve

Evidently the High Cost of Living doesn't bother L. D. Stuart of Hollis, Okla., according to his own expression yesterday afternoon. Mr. Stuart is the father of twelve children. He has four children dead.

When questioned yesterday afternoon Mr. Stuart stated that he had been married for thirty-five or forty years, he wasn't sure which. He is a farmer and stock raiser. He has five boys living and four dead and has seven girls, all living. Only one of these is married, the remaining being under the care of their father. Ages of the children run from six to twenty-three. Two of his boys are living at home and are farming.

Mr. Stuart is not fortunate enough yet to have a large number of grandchildren, he said yesterday. He has only four grandchildren living. One is dead.

DALLAS BASEBALL CLUB PURCHASED BY "DOC" WHITE

By Associated Press.

Dallas, Jan. 13.—The Dallas club of the Texas league this afternoon was sold to "Doc" White, former twirler of the Chicago American league club, and H. Patterson, last year manager of the Vernon, Pacific Coast league club, for a consideration said to be $35,000. White will be business manager and Patterson field manager of the club.

White and Patterson have been here several days negotiating for the club, which, despite the fact that it was a tail-ender last year, is reported to have made money. In the years in which it has been in the race, it is said to have paid big returns.

The club was sold by J. W. Gardner, who has owned it for a dozen years, in which time it won the pennant more than once.

The sale does not include the grounds, which constitute valuable realty not a great distance from the center of the city. A long term lease was taken on them.

Harry Welchonce, the old Philadelphia National league outfielder, later of the Southern association, managed the club last year for most of the season, but was succeeded late in the summer by Benny Brownlow, shortstop.

Long Distance Rowing Is Not Found to Be Harmful

The committee on student affairs at Cornell university, which recently made an investigation of the effects of long-distance rowing upon the participants at the request of the faculty, has made the following report:

"The criticism that a four-mile race is injurious to oarsmen holds equally true, of course, for long-distance running or any sport where violent exercise is required for a protracted period. The investigation, however, was confined to rowing, since this sport was most in question and because more data bearing on this sport seemed to be available.

"The committee found great difficulty, however, in obtaining accurate information regarding this controversy. The opinion is widely held by laymen that long-distance rowing and running are very injurious to health; this opinion, of course, being based on casual observation of participants in such sports at the finish of competitions. The opinion of participants in such competitions, and statistics made by experts upon the life histories of participants after graduation, do not appear to bear out the opinion that such sports are harmful.

"There is not enough accurate evidence on either side, however, to justify the committee in making recommendations regarding this matter, but the committee feels that more study should be given to this question, especially in view of the fact that common experience would indicate that any prolonged and violent exercise is harmful and that the statistics opposing this view are as yet based upon the experience of a comparatively small number of persons."

Braves and Yankees Plan Series of Exhibitions

By Associated Press.

Boston, Jan. 13.—The Boston Nationals and the New York Americans will play eleven games this spring in a joint exhibition tour through Georgia, Alabama, South and North Carolina, according to a schedule announced tonight by Walter E. Hapgood, business manager of the local club.

In each instance, Hapgood stated, the games will be played under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce or the corresponding local organization and arrangements have been made to declare a half holiday on the days of the games.

May Add Cities to Federation

By Associated Press.

Toledo, Ohio, Jan. 12.—Four new cities probably will be added to the National Baseball federation at its annual meeting in Toledo, Jan. 19 and 20, bringing the circuit up to a twenty club organization, according to advance plans of officials of the federation.

Sixteen cities now belong to the organization, the parent body of amateur baseball. They are Des Moines, Pittsburgh, Johnston, Akron, Dayton, Canton, Columbus, Cincinnati, Toledo, Detroit, Chicago, Louisville Dallas Birmingham, Cleveland and New Orleans. The new cities which have applied for admittance are Washington, Richmond, Baltimore and Memphis.

The federation, according to plans, will divide its territory into four sections of five clubs each. There will be an eastern, central, southern and western division. The four winners will meet in the semi-finals to decide the national championship. The central division probably will be composed of Detroit, Cleveland, Chicago, Louisville and Cincinnati.

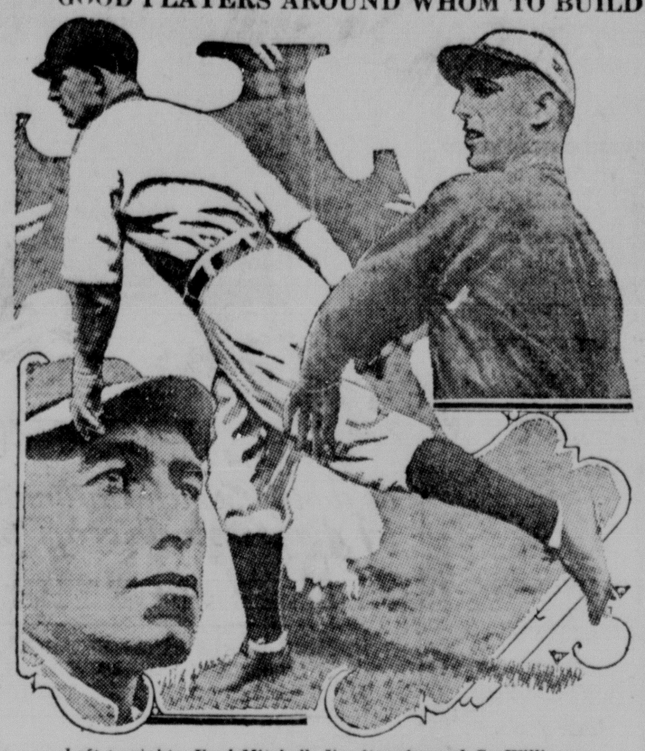

In addition to arranging the 1917 circuit there will be some discussion concerning a schedule at the January meeting.

EX-BOSTON BRAVE DIES.

By Associated Press.

Pittsfield, Mass., Jan. 13.—James Garry, 42 years old, a member of the Boston National league baseball club in 1893, died here today.

Fred Mitchell realizes that in taking charge of the Chicago Cubs his problem will be to build a first division team out of a rather badly shattered crew. At the same time he is feeling hopeful over the situation and believes that in Jim Vaughn he has one of the most valuable southpaws in the league, in Cy Williams a popular and high class outfielder, and very valuable material in such men as young Perry, a pitcher of great promise, Leslie Mann, outfielder, and Wortman, the speedy shortstop. Mitchell's ability to cultivate a high class pitching staff is well known.

Football Backers Doubtful if Professional League Would Pay

By Associated Press.

New York, Jan. 13.—Eastern football authorities are extremely doubtful regarding the financial success of a professional football league backed by baseball magnates or in fact any similar organization. While any and all the big league club managements stand ready to rent the baseball parks, during the off-season, to responsible parties, there is not the slightest evidence that the magnates will delve into their money bags and bring forth the coin necessary to establish a league of elevens such as has been suggested in the middle west.

Professional football is nothing new in the east and the financial frost that followed its introduction in this section has not been forgotten, despite the fact that it is seventeen years since the scheme was first tried out in the state of Pennsylvania. The game of football is so peculiarly interwoven with college and school traditions and sentiment that it fails to flourish in any other soil. This was clearly demonstrated in the early 90's when professional elevens and a league were established in Pennsylvania with teams playing for Pittsburg, Philadelphia, Latrobe, Homestead and Greenburg.

The eastern college football field was fine-combed for star players just graduated and the personnel of the various elevens read like all-American combinations. Salaries ranged from $500 to $1500 per season were paid, with all expenses and hospital treatment guaranteed in case of accident. Famous players were attracted by the big money offered and the teams played football of the most thrilling and ultra type. Among those who figured in the professional games were the Indian brothers, Bemis and Hawley Pierce, Dave Fultz, Robler, later a wrestler; Gammons, Wallace and many more, some of whom had been selected for all-American teams while still undergraduates.

The first few games drew fairly large gatherings of spectators, but the novelty soon wore off and the attendance rapidly dropped away until at the end of the season the backers of the clubs were forced to go into their pockets to make up the deficit. Officers of the Philadelphia American and National league clubs financed the Quaker City teams while the big steel companies and athletic clubs were interested in the other elevens of the group, which continued for two or three years, with constantly changing combinations, before the promoters finally gave up the struggle for popular support.

SILVER MEDAL GIVEN GIRL FOR SAVING COUSIN FROM DROWNING

Special to The News.

Brunswick, Ga., Jan. 13.—Surrounded by members of her own troop of Girl Scouts and the two Brunswick troops of Boy Scouts with their drum and bugle corps, Miss Mary Miller, aged thirteen, has been presented with a silver medal, the gift of Miss Agnes Baden-Powell of England.

This medal was presented for the noble rescue from drowning by Mary of her little seven-year-old cousin, Jeff Bayne, at Cumberland Island on the fifth of last August.

The presentation was made by Mrs. Julia F. Low, the international president of the Girl Scouts. Miss Sadie Dart, the leader of the local troop of Girl Scouts, had charge of the presentation ceremony, which was attractively arranged.

An effort is being made to obtain recognition from the Carnegie hero fund commission, and it is believed it will be successful.

It seems that Mrs. Bayne and her little son were occupying a small bateau and were crabbing in the middle of a creek possibly eighty feet wide. Mary Miller was not in the boat, but was playing on the banks of the creek. When she heard the splash and realized that the boat had capsized she hastily removed her shoes and a portion of her clothing, and, being an expert swimmer, started out for the mother and son, who went under the water when the boat turned turtle. Mary states that Mrs. Bayne came to the surface with the boy secured in her arms.

By this time the girl had reached the scene, swimming some forty or fifty feet. She knew that her aunt, Mrs. Bayne, was a good swimmer, therefore she took from her arms the little boy and carried him safely ashore. Then she saw that Mrs. Bayne was struggling in the water, and she hastened to her rescue. She reached Mrs. Bayne before the latter finally went under, but try as hard as she could she was unable to bring the woman ashore.

However, she never became excited, and suggested to the drowning woman various ways by which she might save her life. Herself, almost exhausted, the little girl remained with her aunt until she finally went under, and when she no longer had strength sufficient to keep her on the surface.

This is the second time that Mary has succeeded in saving a human life. Six years ago, when she was only seven years of age, she dragged Virginia Hilsman, who was about six years her senior, from the surf at Cumberland, preventing her from drowning after she had lost her footing and sunk twice. This story has been revived since her daring exploits in connection with her aunt and cousin.

Ellis Hardy Here to Plan for Opening of Texas League

Chewing Gum Pitcher's Bug

Joe Tinker was discussing the old team. "We had some great times, all right," he laughed. "I'll never forget Ed Reulbach and his chewing gum.

"Ed always started a game with a piece of gum. He might go along good for several innings and then pass two or three men. The second Chance noticed Reulbach dig down for another piece of chewing gum he would let both hands fall to his side.

"The next moment Reulbach would be strolling for the shower. Chance got so he could tell how Reulbach felt by that habit Ed had with his gum."

THOMAS J. HICKEY STARTS REFORM FOR YOUNG BALLPLAYERS

By Associated Press.

Chicago, Jan. 13.—"Beat the bushes" for new players, youngsters who have never had major league experience, is one of the reforms started by Thomas J. Hickey the new president of the American Association.

It's President Hickey's plan to have each of the eight clubs carry four young players for speedy development. Supporters of the game, he believes, want to see the youngsters perform. They are becoming weary, he thinks, of the old faces —players who have been dropped by the major league clubs.

"When a player is sent to us from the majors," President Hickey explained, "There is usually something wrong with him. Either he is 'slipping' or hasn't arrived. We should encourage the development of our own players, not those belonging to some other organization."

President Hickey also considers the plan advantageous from a financial point of view. If a new star is developed in the American Association, major league clubs will be eager to purchase him, perhaps at a fancy price, thus making a double profit for the club owner, President Hickey thinks. The American Association magnates would have the drawing power and services of the new star and perhaps receive big money for his release.

Mr. Hickey, the first president and one of the organizers of the association, has taken up the work of directing the organization after a lapse of thirteen years. He officially succeeds Thomas M. Chivington, as president on January 8—the date on which Mr. Chivington took office seven years ago.

Mr. Hickey was born in Chicago, and was a fan in St. Louis during the days of the Browns' glory under Chris. von der Ahe and Charles A. Comiskey. From St. Louis Mr. Hickey moved to Lincoln, Neb., and it was there he organized the Western association in 1893. He was elected president of the league in 1895 and held that office until the association disbanded in 1898. In 1899 he re-organized the circuit as the Western league.

Two years later Hickey became convinced that such cities as St. Paul and Kansas City were in a class above Des Moines and St. Joseph as baseball centers. So, in 1900, he canvassed the circuit with a view to organizing the American association. Western league club owners consented to release St. Paul and Kansas City and Mr. Hickey then lined up Columbus, Toledo, Milwaukee, Indianapolis and Louisville for franchises.

At that time Minneapolis was in the American league, but one year later it was dropped and joined the American association which stands today as it was originally formed.

Mr. Hickey was opposed to organized baseball and the association for two years was operated on an outlaw basis. Finally, however, the association joined hands with organized baseball and Mr. Hickey retired.

During the thirteen years Mr. Hickey has not been connected with baseball he has followed the game closely and his return to the presidency of the association is hailed by some as a solution of several problems with which members of the organization have had to contend.

Mr. Chivington, the retiring president, has no immediate plans, but asserts he is not worrying about the future. It is probable, however, that he will confine his interests to a pecan grove in Alabama.

"I know I'm a man without a job," Chivington said, "but I wish to say that I haven't felt as free and easy in mind in a great many years.

"I have no fear of the future, for I have been making my own way since I was eleven years old."

Chivington, a former sporting editor, became president of the association in 1909, succeeding Joseph O'Brien. He had worked on newspapers in Milwaukee and Louisville for several years. Previously he was engaged in the railroad business. He also was a detective at one time.

"That was when I was connected with the coroner's office in Denver. It was the custom of the coroner to hire his own sleuths to solve murders and other cases.

"If I do say it, I was considerable detective."

Trap Shooting Dates and Places Named

The Interstate Trapshooting association has announced the following places and dates for the various sectional and national handicap tournaments: Southern tournament, Roanoke, Va., May 8 and 10; Pacific coast tournament, San Jose, Cal., May 28 and 30; eastern tournament, Hartford, Conn., June 20 and 22; western tournament, St. Joseph, Mo., July 17 and 19; grand American turnament, Chicago, August 20 and 24. More than $8000 in added money will be subscribed to these five tournaments.

Verbal Will Holds Good in London Court

By Associated Press.

London, Jan. 13.—In one of the courts of justice recently a verbal statement before witnesses, without any writing, was pronounced a good will. This statement was made by an officer (since killed in action), who told his brother officers that if he were killed all his property was to go to his wife. The possibility of executing such a valid will is a privilege reserved to soldiers and sailors on active service by an act of 1677 which says:

"Any soldier being in actual military service, or any mariner or seaman being at sea, may dispose of moveable wages and personal estate as he or they might have done before the making of this act."

With dependable dope on the performances of all the country's track and field cracks at hand, the selection of the chief stars of the past year is not a difficult matter. The two most prominent are, undoubtedly, Arlie Mucks, the large discus thrower and shot putter of Wisconsin, and Ted Meredith, University of Pennsylvania's star half and quarter-miler. In addition to these, Fred Murray comes in for applause as the best of the low hurdlers, Leadbetter of Bowdoin is chief of second string discus men, Worthington of Dartmouth leads in the broad jump and Bob Simpson is far in advance of an unusually high class field of high hurdlers.

COMMISSIONER CALLS MEETING TO DISCUSS SMALLPOX SITUATION

That the smallpox situation in Waco is not alarming was the unanimous decision of the board and advisory board of health at a meeting held early yesterday afternoon which was called by Commissioner W. H. Cockcroft at the suggestion of Mayor John Dollins.

The following motion was made and carried:

"That the report be published over the signatures of the members of the board of health and the advisory board, the situation is well in hand, no danger of serious outbreaks, that most people in the city have been vaccinated. The board of health suggests all that have not been vaccinated do so at once, and a bulletin be published daily by the board of health stating facts regarding smallpox in Waco."

Following is the report:

"From November 21, 1916, to January 13, 2 p. m., there have been ninety-nine cases; in the last seven days seven cases; in the several days previous to the last week, thirteen cases. Total number of deaths, twenty-one—three white, eighteen colored. In the detention hospital today there are forty-three cases—thirteen whites, colored thirty. Convalescent, thirty-five cases. Under quarantine outside of the hospital, three cases in white people. Several of these deaths were no doubt caused by inattention before reported or isolation.

Sugar Production Cost in Porto Rico Same as That in Hawaii

San Juan, Porto Rico, Jan. 13.—The cost of producing sugar in Porto Rico is approximately the same as in Hawaii and about one cent a pound more than the cost of production in Cuba, according to the unofficial statements made here by members of an investigating commission from the department of commerce, Washington, who have been obtaining information as to sugar production costs.

The commission, composed of five members, has completed its work after obtaining cost figures direct from the books of twenty-three sugar companies in all sections of the island.

Similar studies have been made in Hawaii, Cuba and Louisiana to determine the cost of domestic cane sugar as compared with the cost of production in Cuba.

JIMMY WILDE, ENGLISH FLYWEIGHT CHAMP, MAY COME HERE TO FIGHT

Jimmy Wilde.

Jimmy Wilde, the English flyweight champ, who knocked out Zulu Kid, a fast New York bantam, in the eleventh round of a scheduled twenty-round fight in London, last month, may make his appearance in American rings. Wilde seems to be beyond any doubt the fastest and hardest hitting fighter for his weight in the game. He will likely give the best of our American bantam fighters a lot of trouble, even though he fights at a disadvantage in weight.

¶ THEATRES ¶

AUDITORIUM.

"The Smart Set."

There is many ways in which the "Smart Set" differs from all other attractions, and a visit to see this best of all colored shows when it comes to the Auditorium tomorrow will compel those who have been complaining that all shows are alike to qualify this statement by adding except the "Smart Set," and this season, which is the fifteenth season, is mapped out to tour all the large cities of the United States, Canada and Cuba. The many new and original musical numbers include "A Study in Black and White," "The Wedding of the Flower and the Bee," "You Worries Me," "All I Want Is Plenty Loving," "My Sweet Hawaiian Home," "Sweet Melodious Blues," "Little Boy, Little Girl," "Old Glory Is the Flag for Me," "If I Could Only Make the Sun Stand Still," and "Dixieland Is Calling Me." If you enjoy good music, good comedy and elaborate stage settings and costumes don't miss seeing "How Newtown Prepared."

Vaudeville.

The Majestic vaudeville billed for two performances at the Auditorium Wednesday, January 17, promises to be one of many entertaining features. The program has been given to crowded houses throughout the country repeatedly. Those who have seen the performances vouch for its merit.

Dancing in mid-air is a novel and attractive diversion furnished by Togan and Geneva, these two demonstrating their talent for balancing on a wire and at the same time keeping step to dance music. One of the thrillers of this act is a somersault by Togan, who alights on the wire and maintains his balance.

In the human adding machine, Voland Gamble springs a surprise in which a heated dialogue takes place. After this he proceeds to multiply any figure given by the audience. He demonstrates his skill in this branch of mathematics in several novel ways, and is said never to make an error. He is able to answer immediately all queries as to which day of the week a certain date in a certain year fell on, and it is said no one complains of his answers as being incorrect.

Interesting and surprising in several ways, a unique comedy playlet, "The Real Q," presented by S. Miller Kent & Co., affords a pleasant diversion. Raffles utilizes his cleverness in this act in fine style.

Of a really delightful nature, the song and dance act of Maurice Brierre and Grace King is appreciated for its nicety and agreeable atmosphere. They have a number of songs that command appreciation because of their delectable appeal to the aesthetic sense.

What proves to be a real novelty of a rare sort is the act entitled "Tango Shoes," in which there is introduced dancing by three couples, all of whom contribute to the merriment of the entertainment. The act is so novel that it might be termed almost startling in the suddenness with which age and dances are intermingled. Uproaring laughter attends this performance.

All restraint is thrown to the winds when Keene and Williams are given an opportunity to appear in the comedy absurdity, "Almost Married." Laughter—hearty, loud and prolonged—is in order and greets the "country" maiden who wants to marry a "rich city fellow." This act is characterized as a scream from start to finish.

Displaying wonderful skill and demonstrating the advantage of jiu jitsu, the imperial jiu jitsuists, consisting of six or seven Japanese, put on some marvelous feats. Showing how a woman might defend herself against ruffians by the knowledge of jiu jitsu, a Japanese maiden exhibits her skill in keeping two purse snatchers from taking her purse or doing her violence.

On the whole the program is well balanced and full of interest.

"A World of Pleasure."

Possessing almost the magnitude of a three-ring circus, "A World of Pleasure" one of the latest and greatest of the New York Winter Garden colossal entertainments, is due to reach this city on January 18, and will be shown at the Auditorium with a company of nearly 100 people, a special train of eleven Pullman and baggage cars, two huge glittering acts and nine stupendous scenes, it bids fair to be the most important event of this city's theatricals, and its engagement here will be a gala affair. In "A World of Pleasure," the Winter Garden producers have outdone all their previous efforts. No expense, care or time has been spared in making it the last word in musical comedy perfection. There are stars galore, each one seemingly more fitted than the other to entertain. It is doubtful if any other theatrical entertainment visiting this city has ever offered a greater number of celebrated stage favorites than this big organization. Nor does "A World of Pleasure" depend upon its stars alone to popularize it with the theater-going public, for the Winter Garden promoters have corralled one of the most attractive chorusses ever seen in one company. They are the genuine New York article, typical of the Broadway musical show, and this is the first time on record that any theatrical management has succeeded in coaxing a bevy of real metroplitan choristers away from the fascinations of the Gay White Way. They must be seen to be appreciated.

There are two score of musical numbers contributing their full share of pleasure to the audience. Each and every number is of the jingley, whistly variety, while one in particular, "Pretty Baby," is of such an irresistible nature that the singers have to refuse encores and the audience leave the theater after the performance whistling it. This music is rendered most agreeably by the special metropolitan orchestra under the direction of Samuel Lehman, one of the Winter Garden's most noted conductors.

Scenically there is nothing left to be asked for in "A World of Pleasure." Divided in two huge acts there are nine colossal scenes, each surpassing the other in beauty and color.

The History of "Experience."

No play in recent years has enjoyed the remarkable romance which is attached to the story of "Experience," a play which at one time went begging for lack of a producer, which was at firs a financial failure, and which has now been turned into one of the biggest successes ever known in the theatrical business and likely to make a fortune of a half million dollars for its producers during the next five years. It comes to the Auditorium January 22 and 23 (Thursday matinee.)

About two years ago George V. Hobart, successful writer of farcical comedies and of light opera librettos, was asked to write a burlesque on the various morality plays which have been produced from time to time during the last three hundred years. In olden days morality plays were fostered by the church because of the moral lessons they taught. Mr. Hobart accepted the commission to write the burleque but upon beginning the work found the subject so absorbing and was himself so deeply impressed with the wonderful power of the theater as an instrument of good, that he decided to write a "straight" morality play, modern in every way yet retaining the old idea of naming his characters after various traits and attributes of the human race.

The result was a one-act play called "Experience," produced privately at a

ADDED ATTRACTION AT THE ORPHEUM THEATRE MONDAY, TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY—L. C. BECKWITH'S ROYAL HAWAIIAN SERENADERS.

Sunday night gambol of the famous Lambs club in New York. It dealt with Youth going forth into the world in search of Fame and Fortune, and made such a great success that Mr. Hobart was urged to elaborate it into a full evening's entertainment.

The one act play was thereupon expanced into the three acts shown in the present version, as Mr. Hobart was able to add many new adventures to the career of the Youth in the great world. William Elliott, who had played the Youth in the one act version, was so impressed with the play, that he purchased an option upon the rights. Later, in association with his two partners, F. Ray Comstock and Morris Gest, "Experience" was given an elaborate production at the Booth theater, New York, in October, 1914.

At the outset, in spite of favorable notices, business was not encouraging. The public possibly was not impressed with the idea of going to the theater to hear a sermon, but in some way, by word of mouth, the public learned to know that while "Experience" taught a moral it was also a highly diverting and entertaining comedy and drama. Business improved, but it was still a financial failure, when the producers set aside a fund to exploit the drama through tremendous advertisements. Great billboards were painted, whole page advertisements were taken in the newspapers, and the public of greater New York was made thoroughly familiar with the interesting features of "Experience."

Then "Experience" had to vacate the Booth theater because of prior contracts, and it moved to the Casino theater, a house which had been devoted to musical comedy for over thirty years. But it was the only available theater on Broadway. There from January until May, "Experience" played to packed houses. It was now the rage of New York. On Washington's birthday, owing to the great advance sale, a special morning matinee was played at 10:30 o'clock, making three performances in one day.

In May, 1915, "Experience" moved from the Casino theater to the Maxine Elliott theater, again being forced out by prior contracts. It ran well into the hot weather in New York.

The history of "Experience" since leaving New York has been record breaking. The play ran for nine months in New York, seven months in Chicago and five months in Boston. It is now being presented on tour with the original production and a big company of eighty-two people.

HIPPODROME.

In just such a production as people love her best, "Little Mary" Pickford will play at the Hippodrome theatre today and tomorrow. "The Pride of the Clan" is the name of the new play, and Mary is presented as the chieftain of the Scotch clan of MacTavish on the bleak and stormy west coast of Scotland. As Marget MacTavish, the last of the house, she becomes chief at the death of her father at sea, and she rules her people with a firm will and a loving heart. One of the most picturesque incidents is the manner in which she makes her clansmen fill the "kirk" on Sunday, "just as her father would have done." Another most interesting scene is the one showing Marget and the children neighbors dressing up a kid, a kitten, and a duck for a wedding scene. Marget lives by herself on the old craft of her father which is pulled up on the sand and securely anchored. Finally, after the public betrothal of Marget and Jamie, and other sweethearts of the little village, Jamie falls heir to great good fortune which Marget is persuaded she cannot share, and she cuts the mooring of her ship intending to sail to kinder shores. The old boat, long unused, springs a leak at once, and far out from the shore it begins to sink with the little girl on board. The result is a story that will grip the heart and bring everlasting tears and smiles.

"The Stolen Triumph."

In "The Stolen Triumph," the new Metro feature showing at the Hippodrome theatre Wednesday and Thursday, and starring Julius Steger, a cast of excellence is seen. Steger himself is seen in the part of the penniless playwright, Rowley. Harry Burkhardt, master of character acting, is seen as Hunt, the wealthy theatrical man who steals his friend's play so that he may appear in his wife's eyes as a great playwright. Mr. Burkhardt has played leads with Rose Coglan, Otis Skinner and many other artists of note, and has starred both in this country and in Australia. Clara Whipple, in the role of Stephen Hunt's ambitious wife, has had a rather remarkable career both on the stage and in pictures. With Henry Miller and many other great artists she has played on the screen. Marie Reichardt has an important role, and Raye Dean, little Helen Bagdley, and little Maury Stenart are important characters. The plays tell of the stealth of the play, resulting in the death of the playwright's wife, and finally in despair he jumps in the river. He is rescued, but when his hat and coat are later found in the water, he is believed by his friends to be dead. Hunt, in remorse, takes the son of Rowley to rear as his own, and from this beginning comes the story of sorrow and love and final happiness.

"The Matrimaniac."

The kidnaping of a minister from his own bathtub is one of the rollicking situations of the new Triangle play, "The Matrimaniac," starring Douglas Fairbanks and showing at the Hippodrome theatre Friday only, return engagement. Fairbanks performs the feat. He is eloping with his sweetheart, and must have a minister. The fact that they have but a five minutes to catch a train and that the minister is in the bathtub when Fairbanks finds him are things the Jimmy could not let bother him. He throws a bathrobe about the astonished minister and takes him along to the train—only to miss it after all. The girl is on the train, and also her cruel papa's choice of a son-in-law, and the mix-up that follows is a hilariously joyous one to everybody concerned except Jimmy and Marna. The tables are turned, however, and they are able to say, "He who laughs last," etc. Fairbanks' ever present optimism and joyous spirit is always on tap in this production, and characterizes every move that he makes. The action is fast and furious, made so by him and his wonderful agility, and pretty Constance Talmadge is fully up to her part as the girl for whom all the row is about. Winifred Westover, a new Griffith find, plays the maid with much promise, and Fred Warren is ever on the job as the astonished minister. The entire action hinges upon the efforts of Jimmy to elope with Marna and the manner in which he overrides all obstacles.

"The Bride of Hate."

A tense drama of the days of 1850 with scene action in Louisiana is "The Bride of Hate," starring Frank Keenan and Margery Wilson and showing at the Hippodrome theatre Saturday. The picture was made by Ince and directed by Walter Edwards, and the theme and story are new to the screen. John Lynch, the author, has a thorough understanding of the character of people before the war in the "Old South," the old gentlemen who put family pride above everything else and governed themselves by it. The atmosphere of the days of slaves, cotton plantations and crinolines is faithfully and beautifully presented, and Mr. Keenan is an ideal type for the old doctor, old Southern gentleman, who worked out a unique revenge upon the betrayer of his niece and ward, a mere child. The girl suicides while her uncle is gone up the Mississippi on a business trip, and Crenshaw, the betrayer, does not believe Duprez ever learns his connection with the tragedy. The old man in reality is nursing a terrible plan for revenge, and welcomes the boy in his house and throws him with a beautiful dark-skinned girl, Mercedes, purporting to be his new ward of Spanish blood, but whom he won as a slave at card on board the ship returning home. After the marriage Duprez announces before the guests that Crenshaw has married a "nigger." The resulting story is even more tense than the foregoing events.

ORPHEUM.

Florence LaBadie in "Divorce and the Daughter," Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

A middle-aged father who has been prevented by necessity from realizing his ambition to become an artist suddenly inherits a moderate fortune and a home in the country. His oldest daughter is just growing to womanhood. A beautiful adventuress learns of the father's inheritance and also of his reputation as a model husband. She cynically wagers that before the summer is over she will have him at her feet.

The daughter is loved by two men: one, a doctor, is honest in his intentions; the other, a scoundrel, preaches to her the doctrine of free love. In answer to his persuasive arguments, she tells him that the love of her father and mother proves to her that marriage is a success. You can imagine the power of the situation when she learns that her father is carrying on an affair with another woman.

The suggestion of divorce sends the young girl to the villain, who has been waiting for her. How will it end?

QUEEN.

In order to meet the public demand for high class vaudeville, the management of the Queen theatre announces that the contract for the improvement of the present building and the erection of stage and dressing rooms in this theatre will be let this week.

The management of the Queen in making this change is endeavoring to meet the demand of the public, as it has expressed itself to this popular playhouse. In introducing the new vaudeville program to the Waco public, the playhouse states that the programs for this house will be selected by the popular Charles Smith. Mr. Smith is a man who knows a good show, and the programs as presented at this theatre under the new idea will without doubt be well worth while.

The house as planned will seat 2000 people and will thus enable the management to secure the maximum program for the minimum price of admission. This seating capacity will not only be of service to the public in giving a strong bill of amusement, but will also add to the comfort of the patrons. The house will be in a central location and will thus afford a place of entertainment to the shoppers and business people, who will find the location very convenient.

In addition to the vaudeville program, the theatre will also have only the best of feature pictures on their programs. The attractions that will thus be presented to the public will be of a class that will appeal to every kind of temperament and will be quite an addition to the already attractive bills of the popular theatre.

Officers were elected and annual committees were appointed at the regular business meeting of the Sophomore class Saturday. R. E. Managan was chosen president; George Isbell, vice president; Miss Vanta Cook, secretary; Chas. Culpepper, treasurer; Hilton Howell, dude; Miss Hassie Mayfield, dudine and John Calvin Jones, sergeant at arms. For the spring term, president, John Wooters; secretary, Miss Esta Hannan; editor class edition Lariat, Vernon B. Hill.

Baylor girls, students living in the G. B. hall, held a mass meeting Friday night to discuss the ways and means of preventing so many failures in studies. A list of the outside activities that seemed absolutely essential in the college life of a girl were placed on a large blackboard and students were asked which could be eliminated. The plan originated in an effort to centralize and systematize study among girls.

THE MILLIONAIRE TROOPS DINE.

(From the Houston Post.)

Nearly two hundred chickens, twenty-seven loins of beef, eighteen ribs of beef, two barrels of oysters, three barrels of shrimps and all the bread supply that the hotel had accumulated for its Sunday custom were some of the things required to feed Squadron A, New York Cavalry, the millionaire squadron, when it descended on the Rice Hotel for dinner recently. In addition to the food consumed at the Rice, the troopers almost depleted the food supply at the cafes.

The squadron arrived in Houston on its way to New York City, and as soon as the horses had been unloaded and placed in the stock yards, plans which already had been made for a "big feed" materialized. Knowing of the 9:30 closing law of Texas and being aware of the Sunday closing law, the soldiers proceeded to lay in a supply of liquid refreshments. It is stated that more wine and champagne was sold during the two and a half hours which preceded the closing hour than had been sold in months previous.

The only thing the troopers didn't buy was their tobacco. They had their own "Squadron A Special" cigarettes, packed in special boxes for them, and nothing else would do.

When James Whitcomb Riley Recited.

In his "platform career," during those years when he went about the country reading his poems, James Whitcomb Riley saw with his eyes and heard with his ears what people thought of him. Never any other man stood night after night on the stage or platform to receive such solid roars of applause for the "reading" of poems—and for himself.

He did not "read" his poems; he did not "recite" them, either; he took his whole body into his hands, as it were, and by his wizard mastery of suggestion left no James Whitcomb Riley at all upon the stage; instead, the audience saw and heard whatever the incomparable comedian wished them to see and hear. He held a literally unmatched power over them for riotous laughter or for actual copious tears; and no one who ever saw an exhibition of that power will forget it—or forget him.

There he stood, alone upon the stage, a blond, shortish, whimsical man in evening clothes—a figure with "a whole lot of style," and a whole lot of its own style, too! He offered a deferential prefatory sentence or so; then suddenly face and figure altered, seemed to merge completely into those of a person altogether different from the poet, and not Mr. Riley, but a Hoosier farm hand, perhaps, or a thin little girl stood before you, "done to the life." Then the voice came, "done to the life," too—done to the last half audible breath at the end of husky chuckle or wistful sigh. There was no visible effort on the part of the magician; the audience did not strain or worry for him as audiences so often do for those who "entertain" them, because his craft lay not in contortion, but in a glamouring suggestion that held spectators rapt and magnetized.

Nat Goodwin's opinions upon the production of realistic pathos in comedy may be accepted as academic. Mr. Goodwin said: "I used to recite 'Goodby, Jim'—until I heard Riley do it. Then I asked the Lord to forgive me, and never tried it again!"—Booth Tarkington in Collier's Weekly.

MARKET REPORT

COTTON

New York.

By Associated Press.

New York, Jan. 13.—A very quiet, although steady opening in the cotton market today at an advance of 3 to 10 points gave very little indication of the sensational break which was to follow before the close. There was very little trading interest early, apart from scattered Wall street and southern buying and moderate local covering.

The news at first rather encouraged a bullish view of the market as spots continued firmly held in the south and there was no sign of any break in the drouth over southwestern states. As usual, Liverpool was closed and there was practically no business from that quarter.

May contracts which opened at 18.48 and sold at 18.49 worked off to 18.30 under the selling pressure and the whole market gave evidences of being on the verge of collapse. Further liquidation from outside sources furnished the basis for a furious break just before the close, which carried May down to 17.90 or a net break of 52 points, final figures representing the lowest of the day.

No definite news was available as to the direct cause of today's crash. There was, however, an unmistakable feeling in speculative circles that the bull side of both stocks and cotton had been overexploited and that holders were generally becoming restless, particularly as the question of peace appears to be still far from any satisfactory conclusion.

New Orleans.

By Associated Press.

New Orleans, Jan. 13.—Extreme weakness developed in the last half hour of trading in the cotton market here today and prices were depressed 26 to 41 points below the level of yesterday's last quotations. The official tone on the close was weak and last prices were at the lowest levels of the session. Heavy short selling combined with liquidation put the market lower.

In the early trading the market was nervous and rather narrow. First prices were at a small advance, the market standing 1 to 8 points up around the opening call. Realizing by recent buyers set in almost immediately and the market commenced to soften under it, which was soon taken advantage of by bear traders. For a while the market held fairly steady at a loss of about 15 points on the old crops, but later it broke badly.

GRAIN MARKET.

By Associated Press.

Chicago, Jan. 13.—Expectations of a good-sized decrease in the United States visible supply tended to uphold the wheat market. The close, although unsettled, was the same as yesterday's finish, to ⅝c off, with May at $1.84¼@1.84½ and July at $1.49@1.50. Corn gained ⅝ to ⅝@¾c, oats were unchanged to ½@⅝c down and provisions varied from 2½c decline to a rise of 30c.

Forecast of enlarged world shipments of wheat were counterbalanced by complaints from the west and southwest that crop damage might result from prevailing cold weather and the lack of snow covering.

Corn had a firm undertone throughout nearly the entire day. Rural offerings were light except in the southwest.

Oats followed corn.

Provisions averaged higher owing to an advance in the hog market to the topmost level ever attained in January.

Weekly Grain Review.

By Associated Press.

Chicago, Jan. 13.—Highest prices for wheat in more than half a century have been brought about this week, largely by announcements from both groups of belligerents indicating that despite peace efforts the European war would go on. Net gains in wheat values for the week were 1½@1¾c a bushel on active options. The September delivery, however, showed a setback of 2¼c. Corn hardened ¼@⅜c, oats ⅝c and provisions 7½@73½c.

Emperor William's message to his troops, telling them to steel themselves for new endeavors gave the opening advantage to the wheat bulls and led to an extreme rise of 5¼c in prices here. The course of the sensational dealing with President Wilson's appeal to the European combatants tended further to lift the market and so likewise did enlargement of the number of vessels available for export hipments, especially at Gulf of Mexico ports.

A big shrinkage in the United States visible supply total on Monday was promptly followed by the hoisting of spot wheat quotations to $2, the highest level since the American civil war. Tuesday and Wednesday witnessed a reaction due to profit-taking by holders and to the action of the British government in withholding all information as to prices in Liverpool. Besides, there were disturbing rumors of hostilities on the Atlantic.

Shrewd anticipations of the reply of the entente allies to President Wilson lifted the wheat market anew on Thursday. Additional gains were scored at the outset on Friday after the entente answer to the president had been published but the effect on prices had been discounted by a majority of the dealers.

COTTONSEED OIL.

By Associated Press.

New York, Jan. 13.—The cotton seed oil market was quiet and steadier on a little local buying and week-end covering promoted by the firmness in lard and small crude offers which served to offset weakness in cotton. Closing prices were 2 to 5 points net higher.

THE STRONG MAN OF GREAT BRITAIN

David Lloyd George.

David Lloyd George, the idol of Wales and the pet aversion of British aristocrats, is today the overshadowing figure in the politics of Great Britain. He plans to prosecute the war with greater vigor and determination than was noticeable under the Asquith regime.

WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW.

By Associated Press.

New York, Jan. 13—The restraint shown by the limited dealings and unimportant price changes was the most characteristic feature of the week in the stock market. This attitude again was plainly traceable to European affairs, even the more venturesome speculative element refraining from any extension of operations.

The answer of the allies to the Washington government hardly served to remove existing doubts.

According to general opinion the technical position of the market is distinctly stronger than at any time since the December setback. Weak accounts have been largely eliminated, bank loans have undergone substantial reductions and unstable issues among special stocks are making further downward progress to levels approximating their intrinsic values.

The railway division was subject to irregular pressure, representative or standard shares yielding rather more easily than minor issues. Rumors suggesting a renewal of last year's foreign liquidation of high-grade stocks were not credited in authoritative quarters.

Wall street's detached or cautious attitude at this juncture was strikingly illustrated by its indifference to the December tonnage statement of the United States steel corporation, which far exceeds all previous records as to unfilled orders.

Direct reflection of the situation abroad was seen in the strength of sterling and francs, heaviness of Teutonic rates and extreme weakness of rubles, the latter coinciding with a sharp break in Russian government 5½s on the curb or outside market.

RACCONS WASH THEIR FOOD.

(National Geographic Magazine.)

Few American wild animals are more widely known or excite more popular interest than the raccoon, which occupies most of the wooded parts of North America from the southern border of Canada to Panama, with the exception of the higher mountain ranges.

Their diet is extraordinarily varied and includes fresh water clams, crawfish frogs, turtles, birds and their eggs, poultry, nuts, fruits and green corn. When near water they have a curious and unique habit of washing their food before eating it. Their fondness for green corn leads them into frequent danger, for when bottom land corn tempts them away from their usual haunts raccoon hunting with dogs at night becomes an especially favored sport. Raccoons are extraordinarily intelligent animals and make interesting and amusing pets.

Raccoons began to figure in our frontier literature at an early date. "Coonskin" caps, with the ringed tails hanging like plumes, made the favorite headgear of many pioneer hunters, and "coonskins" were a recognized article of barter at country stores.

Trigger switch control and a pistol grip feature a new portable electric drill that is said to be more steadily handled and to break fewer bits than the usual type of such drills.

TO "SMALL" STOCKHOLDERS.

Three oil producing companies with which I have been connected in the past year and a half (in South Texas); have paid $442,000 in dividends to their stockholders. Some of these dividends have amounted to $2,900 for each $100 invested.

You would like to get $2,900 for $100, of course. But the chances are that you, who read this will merely WISH for such returns. Or will you be the one in one hundred with the ambition and the backbone to ask how it was done—to realize that hundreds of people are becoming wealthy by investing their OWN money, instead of only realizing 4 per cent on savings and letting some one else make the big profits?

I believe I can make you some big money on a small investment. I believe that a few shares of Houston Deep Well stock have every chance to make you some big money for the company is already earning now and the stock you buy will share in both these earnings and the future earnings.

But you will have to act promptly for this chance will not last always. Just tear off this slip and mail it to me today.

Placing Exhibits in Chamber of Commerce Rooms Will Begin Soon

Work of putting in exhibits in the Chamber of Commerce rooms will begin this week. Space on the lower floor is likely to go fast, it is believed.

There have been nearly a dozen applications from parties outside of Waco asking for the exhibit space in this building, but it is desired to give the residents of Waco first choice.

The fact that the Chamber of Commerce rooms form a great center where many people are constantly gathering in meetings locally, in conventions and other assemblies, is attracting attention, and the exhibit space is expected to be still more in demand. Local parties who want this space are asked to apply at once, as applications which are coming in make it necessary to begin putting in the exhibits at once.

Special Car May Be Chartered to Attend Harry J. Spannell Trial

Efforts are being made to get about twenty or more Wacoans to attend the trial of Harry J. Spannell, a former Waco man, who is to go on trial tomorrow morning at San Angelo on a charge of murder in connection with the killing of his wife at Alpine in July. This is in order to secure a special Pullman car.

All contemplating going should telephone J. R. Bailey at No. 729, in order to make reservation on the special Pullman car which will be secured in the event that twenty persons make the trip.

Announcement is made that a special rate of $5.20 plus $2 for a lower or $1.60 for an upper berth on the Pullman, has been made for the round trip.

Health Commissioner Asks for Re-election

To the Citizens of Waco:

Permit me to announce my candidacy for public health commissioner of this city. I have held the office for one term, and have endeavored to do so in a manner acceptable to a majority of the people and to their best interest. I assume that I am entitled to the second term unless there are good reasons shown why I should not be chosen. In other words, am I not right in asking that you require my opponents to furnish the proof that I have failed to perform honestly and efficiently my duty as your health commissioner?

It is a tenet of the democratic faith to honor a man for a second term unless he shows that he has been unfaithful to his trust. I invite the most careful consideration of my record, feeling assured that it will stand inspection before those of my fellow citizens inclined to give me a square deal. I do not specially blame prospective opposition for wanting my place, but I do say that if my record as your health commissioner will stand the test, that it should take more than mere desire on their part to justify my defeat.

Thanking you for the honor you have already conferred upon me and sincerely hoping that you will give me a second term in this office, I am,

Yours respectfully,
W. H. COCKCROFT.
